NO WARNING AT ALL HERE

Men Suddenly Quit in Jersey Yards, Saying They Had Orders.

COMMUTERS LONG HELD UP

But Trains Began to Move Intermittently After an Hour's Delay.

MANHATTAN MEN AT WORK

Did Not Join the Erie, Pennsylvania, Lackawanna and West Shore Strikers.

The strike of "outlaw" organizations of railroad workers, which started a week ago in Chicago as the result of personal grievances of a work train conductor, has spread the country over, and yesterday reached New York and Los Angeles. Unheralded, and apparently unexpected by railroad officials here, it came during the commuters' rush hour last night, when the switchmen in Jersey City yards deserted their posts, tying up the outgoing suburban trains.

The Jersey City switchmen quit without giving any notice to the railroads, or without indicating their grievances. "We are striking on orders," they said, but for several hours no one could be found who knew why they were striking, and it was not until late last night that the Jersey City walkout was connected with the unauthorized strike which began in Chicago.

About 15,000 New Jersey commuters were held up by the strike last night. Reserves were rushed from the Jersey City Police Headquarters to handle the jam at the railroad stations and in the tubes. The trains started moving only after about an hour's suspension.

Four Roads Affected.

The railroads affected early this morning are the Erie, the Lackawanna, the Pennsylvania and the West Shore. Erie officials admitted that 250 men had quit in their Jersey City yards, and other railroad officials asserted that Pennsylvania workers in the Waverly and Greenpoint yards had walked out.

There also were walkouts in the yards of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Lehigh Valley, but after an absence of only a few minutes the strikers returned to work as a result of counsel of the conservative workers.

Superintendent Young of the Central Railroad of New Jersey denied his road had been affected. Information from other sources, however, was to the effect that the passenger yard engine crews had deserted for fifteen minutes. The crews of the freight yard engines announced their intention of quitting, but, on the advice of members of their Grievance Committee, deferred action. When the crews of the passenger yard engines heard the others had remained at work, they, too, went back.

Lehigh Men Quit but Return.

In the Lehigh Valley yards, it was said, the workers quit their posts, but returned after ten minutes' absence. Workers said that they had postponed action pending conferences of some sort.

The terminal workers for the Lackawanna in Hoboken, who had stuck to their jobs throughout the day, quit at 12:25 this morning. It was estimated that from 1,000 to 2,000 men went out. They include switchmen, yardmen, linemen, freight handlers, conductors and trainmen.

Some of the union officials tried to get the men to stay at work until a conference could be held in New York City today. They refused the pleas of their chiefs to handle the milk trains, which had arrived in Hoboken shortly before the strike order became effective. The railroad officials were making desperate efforts early today to prevent an interruption of the city's milk supply.

An official of the Lackawanna Railroad, who refused to permit the use of his name, admitted this morning that "everything was tied up" in Hoboken.

"We are making a strenuous effort to get the main lines open," he added. "We hope we shall succeed. There has been no disorder of any kind; he men simply walked out."

At the terminal the officials would make no statement regarding service today. The general impression, however, was gloomy, and the feeling prevailed in Hoboken that unless the union chiefs were able to induce the men to return to work about daylight commuters would be seriously inconvenienced, if not disappointed entirely, in reaching the city today, if they have to depend on Lackawanna trains.

The strike plans were carried out with secrecy. The railroad chiefs have been waiting for several days for some indication of the spread of the strike to New York, but there seemed to be no signs of such action. The walkouts came during the busiest hours. The names of their leaders and of the local organizations are unknown.

The Erie switchmen quit at 4 o'clock and the walkout made itself felt imme-

Strike Threatened in Hudson River Tubes, Trainmen's Official Asks the Men Not to Quit

A strike of employes of the Hudson & Manhattan Railway Company, operating the tubes under the Hudson River, was said to be imminent last night. A meeting has been called for this morning at 148 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, at which it was said that the question of a strike would probably be decided.

I. G. Hunt, President of the Jersey City branch of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, made a trip over the lines just before midnight and asked the men not to strike but stay on the job. Mr. Hunt stated that the strike on other railroad lines was without sanction of the brotherhood officials and told the men that they would have opportunity to discuss the situation at today's meeting.

Inquiry among the guards and motormen revealed a feeling of decided unrest and a belief that the men no longer would be appeased by a promise of an advance in wages as soon as the company was financially able. It also was said that the men were getting out of the control of the leaders of their organization.

Most of the men, as employes of an interstate railroad, are members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers or the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and as such are under the jurisdiction of their national officers, who are understood to be opposed to a strike on the tubes at this time. Several of the employes, in conversation with a TIMES reporter, criticised their leaders and declared that they would no longer delay a strike unless they received a definite promise of increased pay.

3 BURGLARIES NET $125,000 IN A BLOCK

Loss of Half a Ton of Sweaters, $30,000 Worth, Brings Other Losses to Light.

Between 6 o'clock last Friday evening and 8:30 Monday morning burglars entered the loft on the third floor of the Kay Building at 30 West Twenty-first Street, occupied by Guttman Brothers, dealers in silk sweaters, took 1,200 sweaters, weighing one pound each and valued at $30,000, from as many cardboard boxes and escaped with their plunder without attracting the attention of any employe in the building or of the police. The burglary was the third that has taken place in that block within the last three weeks, the total of the money and merchandise stolen aggregating $125,000.

Detectives working on the burglaries say all were the work of one band, but in each instance they were so careful about their movements that they did not leave a single clue. The first burglary, it was learned last night, occurred about three weeks ago in a building in West Twentieth Street, directly in the rear of the Kay Building, and the band, it is reported, obtained $35,000 worth of merchandise for their efforts.

A week later the loft of a dealer in girls' coats in the building at 12 West Twenty-first Street, a few doors from the building in which the Guttman Brothers' robbery was effected, was entered by the burglars and about $60,000 worth of silk coats taken.

Drop Work on Safe.

In the first two burglaries, it was said last night, the band succeeded in opening safes in the lofts and obtained small sums of money. In the Guttman loft, although the burglars bored two holes in the door of a half-ton safe in the office, they evidently became tired of their labors or were frightened away before they could blow the safe open.

Max M. and Nathan P. Guttman comprise the firm of Guttman Brothers. On Friday evening Nathan P. Guttman closed up the establishment, and he declared last night that he was certain that all the doors and windows were securely locked, because he had in mind other robberies in the neighborhood. He said that on the day before $10,000 worth of silk sweaters were delivered to the firm in separate boxes, and they were placed in rows along with other sweaters under long tables running the length of the loft.

When he opened the loft Monday morning, Nathan P. Guttman explained, everything seemed to be as he had left it the Friday evening before. As he walked to the rear of the loft, however, he discovered a window overlooking a two-story extension in the rear of a house on Twentieth Street, abutting the Kay Building, open. He recalled that he had been careful to close that window because it led to a fire escape.

Mr. Guttman ran to the safe in the centre of the loft, but found it locked. Then he noticed steel cuttings on the floor, and a more careful examination led to the discovery that a hole had been bored through the door near the combination and another near the lower left-hand corner.

Find Boxes Empty.

When employes of the firm came in later, Mr. Guttman ordered an examination made of the entire loft. One of the employes picked up one of the cardboard boxes from a row and discovered it was empty. A hasty investigation revealed that all of the sweaters that were in the boxes Friday evening and weighing more than half a ton had been carefully

ATTACK JENKS BILLS AS FARE RISE PLAN

BUS LINES ARE DEFENDED

Free Special Train Announced for Albany Trip—Audience Indorses Mayor's Stand.

Mayor Hylan and State Senator George F. Thompson headed a long list of speakers who opposed the Jenks bills in the Assembly which would empower the Public Service Commissions to increase fares, at a protest meeting held last night in Cooper Union under the auspices of the Mayor's Non-Partisan Vigilance Committee. Resolutions pledging support to the Mayor in his fight against increased fares on the transit lines and urging the Legislature to defeat measures aimed to grant financial relief to the railroad were passed.

Announcement was made that special trains would be provided to take citizens to Albany next Tuesday, the day set for a public hearing on the Jenks bill. No fare will be charged for the trip, and those desiring to go were requested to send their applications to Francis P. Bent, who presided at the meeting.

Senator Thompson, who was greeted by cries of "Our next Governor" when he arose to speak, declared he did not believe the Legislature could pass laws setting aside contracts agreed to between the city and the traction lines. Even if such a measure was passed, he argued, it would not be constitutional, since the United States Supreme Court had passed on such a point last May.

"Somebody is trying to hand you a Christmas present by the Jenks bill," he said, "and if Public Service Commissioner Nixon hands it [illegible] here, you can easily figure out who is going to get it."

Senator Thompson said the officials of the traction lines cared as little for the stockholders as they did for the public, adding, "and God knows that's darn little." He said he wanted to see a square deal for those who had [illegible] money in the securities of the company as well as the public. The Interborough securities were worth a hundred cents on the dollar, he asserted, despite the efforts of the officials of the road to contend otherwise for their own purposes.

Mayor Hylan told of some things brought out at the Board of Estimate's traction inquiry which he said showed that the I. R. T. and New York Railways were not entitled to fare increases. He upheld the appropriations for buses and declared that the people wanted more buses in the city.

"The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is the trustee of the rights of 6,000,000 inhabitants who have a solemn contract with the traction corporations," he said. This board will not be swerved from its sworn duty to protect the people's interest by the demands of the companies for increased fares, whether these demands are made through the medium of controlled newspapers, hired editors and agitators, threats, appeals to courts for appointment of receivers, favorable decisions from legal tribunals, legislative lobbying and slush funds, and the deliberate attempts to obstruct the city in its efforts to meet transit emergencies through the operation of modern buses.

"Make no mistake about it, if the Jenks bills are enacted it will mean increased fare in this city. There is no necessity for an increased fare in the City of New York—not even in the representations of the traction companies themselves."

When the resolution was put two men with baritone voices, yelled "no" to Chairman Bent's inquiry if anyone was opposed to it, but Mr. Bent announced that the resolution had been unanimously carried.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—Strong opposition has developed within the Assembly Judiciary Committee to the Jenks bills, which are declared to be the opening wedge to increased fares on railroad and traction lines, it developed today. Discussion with members of the committee indicated that the bills, which would permit traction companies to adopt a cost-plus system preparatory to increasing fares, cannot be reported if it depends upon the Judiciary Committee.

Belgian King and Council Take France's Side; Are Ready to Send Troops to Help in Ruhr Area

BRUSSELS, April 8.—At a council of Ministers held today under the Presidency of the King, the recent events in Germany were examined into.

In order to assert the principle of solidarity of the Allies before Germany and as a token of friendship to France it was decided to inform the French Government that the Belgian Government is ready to associate itself with France and to send a detachment in connection with the measures for the occupation of the Ruhr region.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO BACK FRANCE

Will Not Send Troops to Aid in the Occupation of the Rhineland.

AMBASSADOR SO INFORMED

Admitting France's Good Faith, Cabinet Says British Troops Will Not Do Police Duty.

LONDON, April 8 (Associated Press).—After a long conference which the French Ambassador, Paul Cambon, had with Premier Lloyd George today, and a full discussion of the Franco-German incident by the Cabinet Council, at which the French view was fully explained to the British Ministers, an authoritative statement was issued to the effect that France acted entirely on her own initiative in deciding to occupy German towns; that Great Britain, the United States, Italy and Belgium were all opposed to the plan, and that France's action has caused a delicate situation.

The matter is under discussion by the British and French Governments, and the hope is expressed that the situation may be eased.

The statement recites various expedients suggested for dealing with the Ruhr situation, among others the sending of allied officers with the German troops to supervise the German withdrawal. Another alternative was that the decision should be left with the German Government, with the stipulation that unless the status quo was sufficiently restored the Allies themselves would occupy German points to enforce their demands. The statement proceeds:

"The German Government appears to have acted precipitately, and France to have responded by adopting a plan which was only intended as a last resort method, and even then to have been the affair of the Allies and not of any one of them simply."

Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and the United States declared that the duty of restoring order should be with Germany. All were opposed to the regular forces being called upon, except as a last resort, to undertake what are virtually police duties. It is pointed out that France feared some ulterior motive on the part of Germany, and doubtless acted in good faith, but, adds the statement, "the immediate result is that the responsibility for her action cannot be shared by the Allies as a whole, and certainly there is no intention on the part of the British Government to allow British soldiers to act as police between hostile German factions and incur all the odium of such a position, to say nothing of its risks."

The statement concludes:

"If, and when, France's suspicions of Germany's ulterior motives and deliberate flaunting of the terms of the Peace Treaty become accomplished facts, the Allies would doubtless be prepared to act instantly and vigorously in concert to vindicate the position and respect for the provisions of the treaty. But for the time being it may be taken that no British soldier will participate in the occupation of German cities in the neutral zone."

CURZON INFORMS CAMBON.

Views Stated to French Ambassador Similar to Those Given Out.

LONDON, April 9.—The London Times says that a crisis has arisen in Anglo-French relations and that, contrary to assurances that the differences of opinion between the Allies regarding the violation of the neutral zone by German troops were about to be composed by a friendly understanding, it appears that the British Government yesterday took steps to emphasize their disagreement with the policy of France.

The Times adds that during the day M. Cambon, the French Ambassador, had a long interview with Earl Curzon.

"Soon afterward," continued the paper, "one of the Premier's private secretaries, Philip Kerr, of Bullitt fame, invited the representatives of the provincial press to Downing Street and informed them of Mr. Lloyd George's standpoint. Simultaneously a private communication on similar lines was addressed to the London press, and variously worded communiqués were issued for publication through the news agencies. These statements are understood to have been on the same lines as Earl Curzon's representations to the French Ambassador.

"In official quarters last evening it was alleged that a note had been dispatched to the French Government through the British Ambassador at Paris.

"The substance of the Premier's argument is that by her occupation of German towns in the neutral zone, France has acted against his views and the wishes of the other allied statesmen and without consultation with them. Italy, Belgium and the United States are alleged to have been opposed to the French plan. As regards Belgium, the Brussels Telegram shows this statement to be incorrect.

"A discussion had been proceeding for some time in regard to various suggestions for dealing with the situation, but no agreement had been reached. One proposal was that German forces should be permitted to occupy the Ruhr area under guarantees, to be defined by Marshal Foch. Another was that

GERMANY APPEALS TO LEAGUE COUNCIL

MEETING SET FOR TODAY

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 8.—Germany has formally called upon the League of Nations to arbitrate between herself and France.

Herr von Mayer, German Chargé d'Affaires here, handed to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary of the League, this afternoon a letter asking that, under Article XI. of the covenant, the Council of the League, which meets in Paris tomorrow, take action relative to France's occupation of the Rhine cities. The letter was accompanied by a copy of the German statement sent yesterday to the allied Ambassadors accusing France of violating the covenant.

Under Article V. of the covenant any action of the Council must be unanimous. In French official circles, it is stated tonight, France's delegate will oppose Germany's request. Léon Bourgeois, France's representative, is Chairman of the Executive Council of the League.

Article XI. of the covenant, under which Germany asks for action, says:

"Any war or threat or war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the League or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole League, and the League shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations. In case any such emergency should arise, the Secretary General shall, on request of any member of the League, forthwith summon a meeting of the Council."

The calling of a special meeting is not necessary, in as much as the Council meets anyway to consider the matter of the Armenian mandate. There is no way of telling tonight whether the German letter will be taken up at the meeting.

Should any member propose it, it would have to be considered.

As Germany is not a member of the League, she cannot force the consideration of her appeal.

A distinct feeling of nervousness was prevalent all day in French official circles who were waiting for word from the Allies. There had been some very disturbing reports that England might not approve Foch's occupation of Frankfort and Darmstadt.

Doubtful of America's Stand.

There is the deepest interest in the stand of the American Government. A report that the Germans would call on the League was current at the Foreign Office this morning, and it was feared that, although America is not a member of the League, President Wilson would be in favor of the League's considering the situation.

French officials blame the Frankfort clashes of yesterday on the delay of the Allies in coming to France's support. It is stated officially that the outbreaks followed the spread of a report sent out by the Wolff Agency that England and America had sent to France an ultimatum calling for the withdrawal of troops from Frankfort within twenty-four hours. This report was sent all over Germany, and as a consequence a majority of Germans probably will believe it and thus become more recalcitrant toward France. Therefore the French argue that every hour America delays making a public statement on the case adds to the dangers of the situation.

It is the French view that should the Allies favor the League's action it would result in an immense encouragement to German militarists and reactionaries and render the eventual enforcement of the treaty more and more difficult. Germany is not playing a bad game, for if she gets the League to take up the case she scores heavily against France, and if the League refuses Germany will have an argument against the efficiency of the League and consequently another argument against the Versailles Treaty.

The Paris newspapers this morning are full of expressions of hope that allied support and encouragement was about to arrive. The papers tonight call on the Allies to speak out. The Journal des Débats says:

"It is time to finish with pretensions. In interest even of Germany, the population of which aspires to resume regular work, in the general interest of the Allies the normal life of whom cannot be re-established until after the effective disarmament of Germany, it is necessary to prove to the Government of the Reich by acts that we will not tolerate any infraction of the Treaty of Versailles and that the best Germany can do is to realize that fact. This disarmament has been solemnly promised and guaranteed by our Allies. We wait on them to honor their signatures."

Le Temps says tonight that there are two courses open to the Allies. One is to follow France in the execution of the treaty and the other is to allow Germany to escape, and asks the Allies what they are going to do about it. Le Temps says France is going to defend her legitimate interests, no matter what any one else chooses to do, and adds:

INSPECTOR HENRY AND SIX OTHERS INDICTED; JURY SEES HIS $80,000 WALL ST. ACCOUNT; TWO DETECTIVES CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Inspector Dominick Henry, after his indictment yesterday, was transferred to duty at Police Headquarters last night instead of being suspended, in accordance with police custom.

Inspector Thomas McDonald of the Headquarters Vice Squad was assigned to take command of the Fourth Inspection District to succeed Inspector Henry.

Captain Samuel G. Belden was transferred from the West Forty-seventh Street Station to take charge of the Headquarters Vice Squad.

Captain James McAuley, who had been in charge of the Bedford Avenue Station in Brooklyn, was transferred to the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

This is the greatest shakeup as yet caused by the Grand Jury, which has now indicted five policemen and officials. Inspector Faurot received a leave of absence from the Headquarters Squad on Wednesday to succeed to the position of Third Deputy Commissioner, left vacant by the dismissal of Augustus Drum Porter after his indictment for neglect of duty.

TEST PEACE VOTE 214-155 IN HOUSE

Number Favoring Rule to Force Decision Today Is 32 Short of Two-Thirds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—After adopting, by a vote of 214 to 155, the rule limiting debate on the joint resolution to declare war with Germany at an end, the House today began consideration of the plan to force technical peace through Congressional action, a step without precedent in American history.

The rule was adopted by a division along party lines. Only seven Democrats supported it, and one Republican, one Prohibitionist and one Indepent opposed it.

On this vote, which Democratic leaders said reflected the views of their colleagues on the resolution itself, thirty-two votes less than the necessary two-thirds to pass a resolution over the President's veto were obtained. The debate will be continued tomorrow, and the vote on the resolution will be taken at 5 P. M.

The scenes that have attended the prolonged struggle over the treaty in the Senate were transferred to the House. The galleries were filled with diplomats, adherents of peace, and others who gather upon such occasions.

The speeches for the most part attacked or defended the constitutionality of the resolution. The Democrats insisted that the move was entirely political, aimed to embarrass the President, and would be ineffective, because without constitutional authority. Those behind the resolution argued that the country wanted peace, that seventeen months had passed since the armistice was signed and that with the cessation of hostilities there had been a drift toward peace which justified Congress in declaring that a status of peace existed.

While only seven Democrats deserted the Administration in the vote on the rule, it is expected that about fifteen will cast their votes for the resolution in the final roll call tomorrow on the resolution. The seven were: Caldwell, Ganley and Goldfogle of New York; Evans, Nevada; Gallivan and Olney of Massachusetts and Sherwood of Ohio.

Republicans Applaud Huddleston.

One sensation of the day was the desertion of Representative Huddleston of Alabama, who made one of the chief speeches in advocacy of the resolution, which he will support tomorrow, although he voted against the rule. Republicans vociferously applauded his efforts. Mr. Huddleston received forty-five minutes in which to condemn his colleagues for opposing this latest move to effect a peace status.

"The treaty of Versailles is dead," said Mr. Huddleston. "So far as the United States is concerned it might as well not have been written. The President is in irreconcilable deadlock with the Senate, and there is no hope that either will yield.

"Civic disorders in Germany threaten to spread and engulf the world. In good faith we owe it to her, even an enemy, as well as to the interests of our country to recognize formally the ending of the war, which has been accomplished in actuality.

"If peace cannot be had by treaty, then let us have peace by other proper means—by Congressional action if need be. It seems foolish to strain over procedure and to refuse to move because we cannot have it just in our own way when we are in substantial agreement as to the end.

"If it be true that the measure is inspired for petty party advantage, I still must support it. I must act for the public welfare, no matter if that course should take me into bad company.

"My Democratic friends urge that I stand by the President, but I am not thinking of the President as much as of the general welfare of the country. I want to still discontent and dissatisfac-

700 RENT DISPUTES HEARD BY JUDGES

SEVERAL LANDLORDS YIELD

Landlord and tenant litigation in the Municipal Courts yesterday revealed additional drastic powers conferred on the courts by the new rent laws enacted by the Legislature.

Justice Jacob S. Strahl, in the East New York Court, threatens to award each of sixteen tenants $10 in court costs when their landlord tried to have the cases withdrawn. The owner, who had made demands for rent increases of $5 and $6 a month and who refused a flat increase of $2 suggested by the Court, quickly agreed to permit the tenants to remain another year at the old rents when the Court threatened to assess him with the tenants' court costs. Stays of eviction for one year were granted to forty-three tenants in Justice Strahl's court.

Assistant Corporation Counsel James O'Sullivan, appearing before Municipal Court Justice William J. Caffrey, set up a counterclaim on behalf of a tenant summoned by his landlord. He maintained that under the new laws tenants could begin countersuits charging landlords with exacting excessive rents, shifting the burden of proof to the landlord.

In this connection it was pointed out that the new law says that when the counterclaim has been established to the satisfaction of the court the Justice shall determine the amount of rent due the petitioner and may also "give affirmative judgment for the amount found to be due on the counterclaim."

The first case in which Mr. O'Sullivan tried to aid a tenant to obtain a counterclaim did not prove successful, for the landlord was able to prove that the tenant owed him rent as well as money due on a personal loan.

Brooklyn Landlord Yields.

The decision that caused the retreat of the landlords before Justice Strahl was given in the case of Mannie Sidman of 230 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn. He wanted to raise rents from $19 and $25 a month to $5 and $6 above those figures. The court suggested a flat increase of $2. Sidman refused and said he would withdraw the cases. Thereupon Justice Strahl announced the punitive assessment if Sidman took such action. Sidman said he would permit the sixteen tenants to remain a year at the old rent.

Morris Isdoa agreed to a similar arrangement with seventeen tenants of 302 Glenmore Avenue, and Max Kusisnoff took the same position in the case of ten tenants of 385 Alabama Avenue. There was an outburst of cheering and handclapping by the tenants when the decisions were announced.

Similar scenes were enacted in other Municipal Courts when the Justices invoked the new laws. In all nearly 800 cases were brought. More than 450 litigants greeted Justice Harry Robitzek when he opened the Second Municipal Court yesterday. The courtroom was jammed with men, women and children, and Justice Robitzek said he never witnessed such a scene in his court. He disposed of 90 per cent. of the cases in the forenoon. In cases where tenants proved they were unable to find apartments stays amounting to as long as a year were granted. In other cases where increases were disputed 25 per cent. increase on the rent of a year ago was permitted to landlords on condition that they prove by their books that the increase is justified.

The press of litigants made it almost impossible for persons to enter or leave the courtroom and the buzz of conversation caused the Justice to bang his gavel for order repeatedly. The gavel broke in the second hour and Justice Robitzek weathered the storm with the fragment.

HENRY ACCUSED OF NEGLECT

ENRIGHT TRANSFERS HIM

PETER'S RAID MEN HELD

Inspector Dominick Henry, a close friend of Police Commissioner Enright and the commander for two years and three months of the most important inspection district in the city, was one of seven who were indicted yesterday by the March Grand Jury. After his indictment the Inspector was transferred to Headquarters by Commissioner Enright.

Inspector Henry was charged with neglect of duty on the ground that he had knowingly permitted disorderly houses to run in the Fourth Inspection District. The maximum penalty for this offense is three years. Detectives Joseph Moloney and J. J. Gunson of his staff were indicted for perjury, the charge being that they had sworn falsely against Mrs. Lillian F. Love, wife of James H. Love, a broker, after arresting her groundlessly.

The four others indicted were the men arrested on Monday night in the raid on Peter's restaurant in West Ninety-seventh Street and previously indicted by the Federal Grand Jury for violating the Volstead act. They were indicted yesterday for maintaining a disorderly house.

Part of the evidence against Inspector Henry was his account with the Stock Exchange firm of Billings, Olcott & Winsmore of 10 Wall Street. The books of that firm showed that, beginning in June, 1918, six months after he took charge of the inspection district, Inspector Henry had rapidly increased deposits and stock purchases until at present the net value of the stock of which he is the outright owner is about $60,000. The total value of the stock was almost $80,000 at yesterday's prices, which is offset to the extent of $21,438.53 by his indebtedness to the firm.

Decline to Explain Wealth.

Inspector Henry and his lawyers refused flatly yesterday to give any explanation of his apparent rapid growth in wealth, while in command of the district, which is admitted to have the greatest possibilities of revenue from gambling houses, disorderly resorts and illicit drinking places, and which has been the field of most of the big police scandals of other days. Inspector Henry's accounts on the face show a more rapid increase of wealth than was shown in the accounts of any police officials which were examined during the investigations following the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

It was rumored yesterday that the defense would show that the wife of the Inspector more than a year ago had inherited $80,000. When Inspector Henry was asked about this, he said:

"Not a word."

Peter Giolotti, who was indicted with three employes, is the proprietor of Peter's, the restaurant which was denounced by the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton on Sunday night and was raided over the head of Inspector Henry on the following night. Dr. Straton asserted in his sermon that, while observing promiscuous whisky-drinking and soliciting at this place when about 500 patrons were present, he had been told that the place paid $500 a week for police protection.

"And that statement was true," Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith said ast night after the indictments had been returned. "That will be proved. Grafting on an enormous scale in this district will be established."

Malone Receives Indictments.

The indictments were handed up to Judge James T. Malone, who has driven ahead this investigation against several direct and some alleged indirect efforts to slow down or divert the course of the inquiry. After the court proceeding Assistant District Attorney Smith slapped a large bag of papers which he was carrying and said:

"Here is the evidence against the 'higher-ups.' And I have the goods."

The Grand Jury adjourned to meet next week, when Mr. Smith is expected to proceed against other police officials and city officials outside of the Police Department.

Mr. Smith entered the courtroom shaking with rage following a heated argument with District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, the causes of which remained obscure. While the Grand Jury was balloting, the three prosecutors came out of the Grand Jury room. Mr. Smith was pounding his right fist excitedly against the palm of his left hand to emphasize forcible remarks. Mr. Swann and Mr. Talley, with flushed faces, talked rapidly and did much gesticulating in their turn. Fragments of angry words reached the bystanders.

Mr. Smith seemed to be under the impression that his work with the Grand Jury was being interfered with. It was reported that he had made threats to resign and to expose influence exerted from the inside of the District Attorney's office to prevent him from reaching some of the big men in municipal affairs whom he had threatened to indict. This was flatly denied by Mr. Swann and Mr. Tally.

Says Report Is an Invention.

Some time after the incident, Mr. Swann was told that it had been reported that Tammany influences had been brought to bear to head off indictments.

"That is not true," he said. "That report must have been invented here and now."

Mr. Swann afterwards had a long consultation with Mr. Smith and Mr. Talley and invited reporters into his office. There he denied that any heat or feeling had been shown in his discussion with Mr. Smith. When he was asked again about the issue between himself and Mr. Smith, he said:

"You will have to ask the committee on rumors, which is very active in this building."

"It is stated that Mr. Smith told you that you were attempting to call him off, and that he threatened to resign if he were interfered with and to give the newspapers an account of what had happened."

"Nobody could have possibly given you such a piece of information," he said, "because nothing of such a nature or description has taken place."

Mr. Swann then put several questions in an endeavor to discover the source of these statements. He explained that he and Mr. Talley had gone before the Grand Jury, while the testimony was being taken, to make sure that only legal evidence was presented, because of the danger, unless great precautions were taken, that indictments would be set aside later as being based on illegal testimony.

Recalls Parkhurst Experience.

"When Dr. Parkhurst went before the Grand Jury years ago," he said, "the Doctor was so fluent of speech that the Judge had to throw out the indictment."

"How is Dr. Straton for fluency?" was asked.

"Very fluent," replied Mr. Swann. "We knew that astute counsel would be employed, and I did not want to have anything occur which would result in setting aside the indictment."

When Mr. Smith was asked for his side of the case he said:

"I have nothing to say."

Judge Malone, who told the Grand Jury some time ago to "step on the neck" of any one who attempted to interfere with them, smiled but would say nothing when the incident was mentioned to him.

Inspector Henry was seated at his desk in the office of the Fourth Inspection District in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station when he heard of his indictment. He smiled and said:

"Look at me. Do I look as if I am worried? I know that I am not. I am not the least bit worried. Later results will show it."

The Inspector finished by breaking into a hearty laugh. Yesterday's indictment came just two weeks after Inspector Henry had given out at his office the seven affidavits in which he accused Assistant District Attorney Smith of persecuting him because he refused to enter into an agreement to protect gambling and disorderly houses and divide the spoils. These affidavits, it was charged by Mr. Smith, were made public by order of Police Commissioner Enright and Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield after a conference with Inspector Henry at the latter's office. He asserted that their purpose was to prevent the impending indictment of Henry and other police officials.

Henry Gives Bail.

After receiving the news, Inspector Henry hurried down to the Criminal Courts Building with his lawyer, W. Bourke Cockran, and was taken immediately before Judge Malone in chambers, where he was released on bail of $5,000, furnished by Patrick Reardon of 118 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. He will plead tomorrow.

At the Criminal Courts Building, Inspector Henry maintained his pleasant demeanor, but repeated "not a word," in answer to all questions. Mr. Cockran refused to make a statement, but when asked about the stock account of the Inspector, said:

"There will be plenty of time for the explanation of everything."

The stock transactions of Inspector Henry were in three accounts with the same firm. They showed deposits from June 5, 1919, to Jan. 6, 1920, of a total of $52,166.6.

Robert S. Winsmore, a partner in the firm of Billings, Olcott & Winsmore, said that Inspector Henry had bought stocks over a period of months, paying cash in full and having the stock certificate transferred to his name. Henry brought the certificate back later, he said, and used it as security for buying copper on margin. Mr. Winsmore took a record of the account to the District Attorney's office, but did not appear himself before the Grand Jury.

Stocks Held by Henry.

	Shares.	Total Value.
Brooklyn Rapid Transit	100	$1,562.50
Kennicott Copper	450	14,625.00
Columbia Graphophone	600	95,625.00
General Motors	100	67,950.00
Total		$179,762.50

The indictment of Inspector Henry sets forth the addresses of seventy-eight alleged disorderly houses and asserts that their existence was well known to the Inspector. The indictment continues:

"Nevertheless, the said Dominick Henry, being such public officer and Inspector of Police, as aforesaid, well knowing the premises aforesaid, and each of them, wholly disregarded the duty so by law enjoined upon him, as aforesaid."

The indictment of Gunson and Moloney, two of Inspector Henry's men, resulted from the complaint of Mrs. Lillian F. Love, who formerly lived at 248 West Seventy-third Street and is now in New Jersey. She asserted that on Dec. 5, 1919, the two detectives forced their way into her apartment while she was ill. Her dinner was being served at the time, she said, by Gustav Skov, superintendent of the building, and a man named Thor Dahl was there, seeking to sublease the apartment from which she was moving.

The detectives, she asserted, accused her of running a disorderly resort and charged that she had accepted $20 from Dahl. Her husband, who is a Wall Street broker, returned while the detectives were present. When he remonstrated, he asserts, one of the detectives told him that his wife was a disorderly character and that he was being supported on her earnings. She was arrested and discharged two days later by Magistrate Jean Norris. Inspector Henry, it was charged, stationed policemen at the house and refused to allow the husband or wife to re-enter their apartment, compelling them to seek a home outside of the city.

Detectives' Testimony.

The specific charge of perjury is based on the testimony of the detectives to the effect that they found visible proof of their charges when they made their sudden entrance to the apartment. Mrs. Love, who is soon to become a mother, left a hospital yesterday and went to the Criminal Courts Building, accompanied by a nurse, to tell her story to the Grand Jury.

The fourth indictment named Peter Gioletti, proprietor of Peter's Restaurant, in West Ninety-seventh Street, and his employes, Diovello Canepa, Luigi Tusi and Call Ottavio, on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. This indictment was found largely on the testimony of Dr. Straton that whisky had been served to his party there, and that unescorted women had sought to make new acquaintances there.

The indictment of Gunson yesterday was the second indictment to be found against him by the present Grand Jury, the earlier one charging him with extortion.

Inspector Henry and Detective Moloney were the fourth and fifth members of the department indicted by the present Grand Jury. Frederick A. Franklin, a plain-clothes man, was charged with bribery and extortion. Third Deputy Police Commissioner Augustus Drum Porter was indicted on a charge of neglect of duty on the ground that he failed to order the arrest of an alleged woman companion, when caught with her in a raid. Porter, who was a close friend and former private secretary to Police Commissioner Enright, was promptly removed from office by the Commissioner.

In spite of the custom of suspending policemen upon their indictment, Commissioner Enright took no such action in the case of Inspector Henry, but transferred him to duty at Police Headquarters.

Inspector Thomas McDonald, who raided Peter's restaurant over the head of Inspector Henry, was assigned to command the Fourth Inspection District. Inspector McDonald stands high with the District Attorney's office. Assistant District Attorney Smith told McDonald, when the latter was summoned before the Grand Jury, that he did not have to waive immunity.

"I never heard anybody say a word against you," he said.

Inspector McDonald until last night had commanded the headquarters or vice squad, formerly commanded by "Honest Dan" Costigan, who was removed from that post by Commissioner Enright and sent to Westchester Village.

Captain Samuel G. Belden was transferred from the West Forty-seventh Street station to succeed McDonald in command of the headquarters squad. Captain James McAuley was transferred from the Bedford Avenue station to succeed Belden at the West Forty-seventh Street station. Captain Louis Krueschler was transferred from Stapleton to succeed Captain McAuley.

When efforts were made to obtain a statement from Commissioner Enright after the indictment of Henry he sent word that he had nothing to say. Earlier in the day Commissioner Enright went to City Hall and had a half-hour talk with the Mayor. When he was asked on leaving the City Hall if there was anything new Commissioner Enright said:

"As far as I can see and as far as I know everything is serene."

CALLS FOR AN INQUIRY INTO RAILROAD STRIKE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Charging that President Wilson was responsible for the spreading strike of railroad employes through his failure to appoint the adjustment board provided for in the Esch-Cummins railroad law, Senator McCormick of Illinois introduced a resolution in the Senate today for immediate investigation of the strike.

His resolution was referred to the Committee on Expenses. It would authorize the Interstate Commerce Committee or any sub-committee to inquire immediately into the causes and purposes of all strikes of "interstate railroad employes not conducted or authorized by any recognized organization of railroad employes."

A report setting forth the "causes and purposes of such strike and the merits of the controversy involved therein" was called for. Mr. McCormick said he would urge the Expenses Committee to act tomorrow upon the resolution.

In introducing it, Senator McCormick said information reaching him was that the strike, which originated in Chicago terminal yards, had now spread and that it extended from New York to California.

"These walkouts have occurred," he said, "in spite of the efforts of the responsible leaders of the railroad brotherhoods. The ostensible cause was the discharge of a conductor, but so far as I have been able to learn the actual cause was the failure of the President to appoint the wage board provided for by the recently enacted railroad law. As Senators remember, the employes' representatives and those of the employers announced ten days ago that they had not been able to agree. Now the men, led or misled, have disregarded the responsible heads of their organizations, and in some places the resulting situation has already become very grave."

Senator Pomerene of Ohio said that he had been informed that the reason the wage board was not appointed was that no representative of the public could be obtained to sit on the board.

Mr. McCormick said he did not know reasons for the failure to act, but declared that if the President would not act Congress must to prevent the situation becoming even more serious.

In view of the growth of the strike the President's advisers have urged him to send in the nominations of the nine members of the railroad board. The President has been having difficulty, it is said, in finding three men to give up their business to represent the public on the board.

ISABEY PAINTING, $4,200.

At the sale of paintings of C. F. Dieterich at the Anderson Galleries last evening, a sixteenth century scene, "The Shops," by Jean Brueghel, Flemish painter, went to J. B. Williams for $1,550, and a companion piece, by the same artist, "The Market Place," to the same buyer for the same price. To Williams went also a Canaletto, "Grand Canal and Piazzetta," for $925, and "Presentation in the Temple," by F. Francken, for $1,000.

"The Parrot Charmer," a brilliant and attractive picture by the Belgian artist, F. Charlet, a Spanish girl in gay colored décolleté gown, creaw lace skirt, with the brilliant birds on her shoulders and arms, a picture which received medals in Paris and Ghent, went to G. H. Gordon for $1,550. To Gordon went "The Old Homstead," by James M. Hart, for $1,550, and "The Matinée," showing an eighteenth century salon, by the German artist Paul Meyer, for $1,550.

"Portrait of Mary Stuart," attributed to Clouet, went to Dr. G. S. Muller for $1,150, and H. Counihan, agent, paid $1,350 for "The Village Church," by T. H. Camille Corot. "Temptation of the Magdalen," by Couture, went to C. S. R. Brake, agent, for $2,200, and "Forest of Fontainebleau," attributed to Diaz, for $1,000. To Counihan went "The Drinking Man," attributed to Hals, for $1,650, and Dr. S. F. S. Muller paid $4,200 for "After the Sea Fight," Isabey. The sale will be concluded this evening.

diately. An hour later, when the rush-hour traffic had started and the station was jammed with persons going from business to their homes in New Jersey, the switches were still unmanned. Officials of the road found a few men sufficiently familiar with the operation of the switches to start the trains moving again shortly after 5 o'clock.

By that time congestion in the station was so serious that word was sent to Police Headquarters to rush fifty reserves, in addition to the fifty already on duty because of the strike of harbor workers employed by the railroads.

The workmen could not explain the strike. It appeared that the word had been passed around from one group of switchmen to another, but no one knew by whose authority the strike was called. Even the name of the organization with which the strikers were affiliated remained a mystery late last night, although it is believed that the strikers are connected with the union started in Chicago.

Railroad Managers Confer.

J. J. Mantell, general manager of the Erie and also Chairman of the Railroad Managers' Association, hurried to Jersey City to take charge of the situation. In his private car in the Erie yards he conferred with other managers and steps were considered to restore normal service today. Since the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen are loyal to the roads and have offered their assistance in the emergency it is believed that the places of the striking switchmen can easily be filled.

Mr. Mantell, after a preliminary survey of the situation, gave out this statement:

"On the change of crews at 4 o'clock this afternoon in our Jersey City terminal yards, freight and passenger, Croxton, Jersey City and Weehawken yards, men refused to go on duty and a good many of them did not show up for their engines. Those who did show up left the yard without making any demands.

"These men absolutely gave no notice whatever and we do not know what they are striking about unless it is in sympathy with the radical element that has got hold of the men in Chicago, Buffalo and other railroad centres, and they are developing an insurgent and unlawful strike in violation of the rules of their own organization, as well as the laws of their own country as covered by the Transportation act.

"W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, characterizes this strike as illegal and will co-operate to the fullest extent with the operating officers of the railroad and with the Government. He says he will use every effort at the disposal of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to keep things moving. It is expected that many members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will jump in the breach at Jersey City to preserve the integrity of their organization.

"Mr. Mantell promised that he will take in and handle, without delay, all the passenger traffic in the morning, as he will have crews organized by morning to handle perishable business. On such short notice this evening we had very few delays. But of 110 trains there were only five trains late."

The Erie switchmen deserted in a body, but the walkout on the other roads was more gradual. During the latter part of the afternoon those employed on the Pennsylvania, Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Lehigh Valley began quitting by twos and threes. The railroads were able to replace them and continue the suburban service without interruption.

Police were sent to all of the Jersey City railroad terminals as a precautionary measure, but there was no disorder on the part of the strikers. So far as could be learned, the strikers were not meeting in Jersey City, nor could their leaders be found in Manhattan.

Officials Move Milk Trains.

Erie officials resumed their overalls and jumpers shortly before midnight last night and took the places of striking crews of the milk trains which were tied up. The strikers were appealed to to move the milk cars, sixty-five in all, but they would not return to work, even on the special appeal to them that the tieup of the milk would be serious for New York City. A number of faithful employes did, however, consent to take the strikers' places, and, with the company officials, many of them holding high positions in the company, they started the milk cars moving again.

Mr. Mantell said at midnight that there are about 250 out on the Erie. They included switchmen and some trainmen, engineers and conductors. No interruption in service was anticipated today.

Railroad men said the strike seemed to be irregular. It was first reported that the men were going out in sympathy for the striking harbormen, but more thorough inquiries disclosed that the harbormen were not involved.

Station Master F. W. Swan, at the Erie Terminal in Jersey City, said the men did not seem to know the reasons for the strike order. They had made no demands, Mr. Swan said, and he knew of no grievances. "We can get along without these men," he said. "Trains are now going and coming on time."

Fitt P. Hand of the New York Central Railroad said that up to a late hour the strike had not spread to this side of the river.

"I hear," said Mr. Hand, "that between 300 and 400 men have walked out in the yards of railroads on the Jersey side. Most of the men are freight handlers, switchmen, conductors and yard men, and the direct traffic facilities of the railroads are not seriously affected. The strike seems to be much less widespread here in the Eastern terminals than at Buffalo and Chicago."

Mr. Hand expressed a belief that the walkout is the work of the radical element in the railway brotherhoods. He said employes have walked out in the Erie terminals in Jersey, in the Lehigh Valley yards, at Communipaw and in the Pennsylvania yards on the Jersey Meadows.

UNION LEADERS HOPE STRIKE WILL END SOON

Movement Spreads to New Points, and Transcontinental Freight Traffic Is Affected.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The unauthorized strike of railroad switchmen and enginemen spread to several more points today and is affecting freight traffic from Jersey City to Los Angeles. Many thousands of workers are out, and the railroads in many cities have been forced to declare embargoes.

In spite of this A. F. Whitney, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and S. E. Heberling, International President of the Switchmen's Union of North America, predicted tonight that the back of the strike would be broken within forty-eight hours.

The strike situation in Chicago showed some improvement during the day, but Whitney said that the traffic handled was still less than 50 per cent. of normal. One thousand Brotherhood men from other cities have answered the call to come here as strike-breakers, he added. The Railroad Managers' Association reported that more engines were operated today than at any time since the strike tied up the switching district.

Conditions at Other Points.

While conditions here showed improvement, the strike was spreading throughout the country from coast to coast. Reports tonight summarized the situation as follows:

Chicago—8,000 men out; freight traffic, 30 to 40 per cent. of normal; 40,000 packing plant workers thrown out of work, with complete suspension of the plants, employing 50,000 men, in prospect tomorrow.

St. Louis, East St. Louis and Madison—1,200 switchmen out of 3,500 on twenty-seven lines on strike.

Detroit—500 to 800 switchment on strike, throwing 700 enginemen out; embargo on time freight.

Springfield, Ill.—Baltimore & Ohio switchmen out.

Niagara Falls—Switchmen on two roads quit and traffic detoured.

Springfield, Ill.—Baltimore & Ohio switchmen out.

Colton, Cal.—50 Southern Pacific men quit, freight tied up.

Cleveland—1,500 to vote tonight on strike issue.

Elmira, N. Y.—Yardmen of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, New York Central, and Lehigh Valley ordered out.

Pittsburgh—2,000 Pennsylvania employes at Conway yards vote to strike at midnight tonight if demands are not granted.

Memphis—Yardmen on all but two roads entering city vote to strike at 4 P. M. tomorrow if demands are not granted.

Chicago faced a serious food shortage today. Potatoes, which made a new high record of $7 per hundred pounds, wholesale, yesterday, jumped another dollar when the market opened this morning. Egg receipts fell to 4,000 cases today, as compared to more than 21,000 cases yesterday. Efforts of the railroads to keep milk trains moving have been only partially successful and a shortage is already apparent. Meat prices have advanced several cents during the last week as a result of suspension of work at the packing plants.

Assistant Commissioner Bangor of the United States Board of Mediation arrived to investigate conditions here and report to Commissioner Chambers at Washington.

Fifty motor truck trains left Chicago at dawn, each loaded with 30,000 pounds of fresh meat billed to nearby towns. The packing company which inaugurated the service expects to serve its regular routes in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin in this way. Each train consists of a tractor and three cork-lined refrigerator cars.

A free-for-all oratorical contest developed today when S. E. Heberling attempted at a meeting to persuade strikers to return to work. The meeting at first broke up, reformed, and then melted away when Heberling departed. Many times the union official was forced to quit talking while the crowd hooted, "Wall Street," and "Are you with us or against us?"

The men shouted as Heberling told them a strike now was unwise. "Wait and you will get the increase you need in a lawful fashion," he urged. "You are under contract with the railroads and a strike would be unlawful. Do you think switchmen are bigger than the Government?"

"Patrick Henry and George Washington were rebels, too, one time," E. E. Kerr, Chicago Yardmen's Association organizer, answered. "You say we can't strike lawfully, but what the masses say is law."

At Joliet the employes of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad adopted resolutions refusing to quit. This road is a "belt" line which connects directly with every line running into Chicago. Despite reports to the contrary, full forces were reported working at Joliet, South Chicago and Gary.

Brotherhood Ousted Grunau.

John Grunau, whose "personal grievances," according to President Lee of the Trainmen's Brotherhood, precipitated the present strike of railroad switchmen, is President of the "outlaw union," known as the Chicago Yardmen's Association.

Grunau, a yardmaster, was conductor on a work train operated by the Chicago & Northwestern road to carry its employes between Chicago and the yards at Bensonville. Recently the company added a passenger car to the train, making necessary the replacement of Grunau by a road conductor, officials say. Following his discharge, Grunau organized the yardmen's association among switchmen who formerly were members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and called the local strike.

EMBARGO SET UP IN SYRACUSE.

Yardmen's Strike Spreads to Cortland and Other Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 8.—An embargo on all outgoing freight from Syracuse was declared at 2 o'clock this afternoon because of the switchmen's strike. An embargo on all incoming freight will be in effect tomorrow morning.

More than half the switching force in the Syracuse yards of the New York Central and all switchmen in the local yards of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad are on strike.

President Fitzgerald of the D., L. & W. men, said the strike is for $1 an hour for yard foremen, now getting 60 cents; 95 cents for helpers, now getting 62½ cents, and 95 cents for switch tenders.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 8.—With no signs of a settlement of the strike of 2,000 yardmen here, Buffalo today began to feel the first effects of the freight embargo. Shipments of livestock fell off to a small percentage of normal, and industries, pinched for coal and raw materials, began reducing their forces, with the prediction that a complete shutdown would come in a few days if the strike continued.

Officials of the seven railroads affected by the strike held a conference late today, after which it was announced that no steps had been taken by either side toward a settlement.

Special to The New York Times.

CORTLAND, N. Y., April 8.—A switch crew in the local yards of the Lackawanna Railroad struck this afternoon and it is expected that a large force in the Lehigh Valley yards will join them.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 8.—Seventy-five Lackawanna yardmen and switchmen here joined the strike this afternoon. The Erie and Delaware & Hudson men here are not affected.

KANSAS CITY HIT BY STRIKE.

Yardmen on Eight of Thirteen Roads Quit, Others Take Vote.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—A strike of switchmen today affected entirely or partially eight of the thirteen railroads entering Kansas City while the switchmen on another road had laid off pending a strike vote. Although some roads refused to accept shipments, no general embargo on outgoing freight has been declared.

GARY, Ind., April 8.—Further defections from the crews of switchmen and tenders are expected, but members of the Gary local of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen voted unanimously today to combat the strike. It is said 350 local members are supporting the brotherhood.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 8.—Switchmen in the Memphis yards of all except two of the railroads entering the city, meeting today, voted to go on strike at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

REACHES PACIFIC COAST.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 8.—Approximately 500 switchmen employed by the three railroads here, the Southern Pacific, the Salt Lake and the Santa Fé, walked out today, crippling passenger traffic and tying up freight service.

Reports from San Francisco declare that more than fifty switchmen in the Southern Pacific yards at Colton had joined the strike.

STRIKE TIES UP DETROIT YARDS

Workers in St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cleveland Vote on Walkout.

DETROIT, Mich., April 8.—Approximately 1,500 switchmen and enginemen were idle here tonight, and nearly every railroad entering the city was powerless to move any but perishable freight and passenger traffic, as the result of the sympathetic walkout of switchmen today.

The Michigan Central declared an embargo on all inbound and outbound freight except fuel and foodstuffs, which were being handled by the few men remaining on duty.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 8.—Approximately 5,000 switchmen, switch foremen, engineers and firemen here, in East St. Louis and Madison County, Ill., voted today to "resign" if an answer to demands for increased wages is not received from railroad managers by tonight.

PITTSBURGH, April 8.—Two thousand switchmen, brakemen and other employes of the Conway yard of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Conway, Pa., were taking a strike vote today and it was said by their leaders that unless their demands were granted by midnight they would strike.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 8.—Six hundred switchmen employed in the local railroad switching district walked out in sympathy with switchmen in other cities today. It is predicted that all traffic will be tied up within 24 hours.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 8.—About fifty switchmen employed by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad at this place quit work this afternoon.

CLEVELAND, April 8.—After a stormy debate, in which police intervention was threatened, a meeting of New York Central trainmen, enginemen and yardmen ended tonight without a vote being taken. An exciting argument between the "insurgents" and loyal union members shortly after the meeting opened terminated when the former left the hall.

CINCINNATI, April 8.—Freight handlers in the Cincinnati railroad terminal, estimated to number 1,200, have served demands on the railroads for an increase of pay from 42 cents to 47 cents an hour. An answer is requested by midnight Saturday or the men will not report for work Monday morning, it was declared.

AMERICAN ATTACHE ACCUSED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 8.—Excelsior, the leading daily of Mexico City, publishes sensational charges against Colonel Campbell, military attaché of the American Embassy. In an article under a seven-column head it asserts that he has conducted criminal intrigues against Mexico and cites as proof of its charges the confession of Gabriel Sanchez Celi, whom it describes as a self-confessed spy of the American Government, now a prisoner at Matamoras.

Excelsior charges Colonel Campbell with having purchased military maps of the Republic of Mexico from Francisco Babio, who is now in revolt against the Government, but was formerly an engineer in the War Department.

It also charges Colonel Campbell and Major Burt with having spied on all Government offices, especially telegraph offices, in order to intercept code messages of the Mexican Government.

The paper publishes what purport to be copies of two letters from Robles Dominguez, well known during the Madero revolution, in which he asks for Colonel Campbell's aid in establishing a new government in Mexico and offers the Colonel $200,000 if Dominguez is made President through the aid of the United States.

The letter quoted is said to have been found on the person of Celi.

The charges published in Excelsior are not taken seriously here, owing to the character of Celi. This man, supposed to be an Argentine, posed as a newspaper correspondent, and spent money lavishly in saloons before leaving this city for Matamoras. When he was captured he said he had his orders from Washington. An investigation shows that Celi offered to give his story to the Government officials if they paid him $10,000, which they refused to do.

ANOTHER FRANKFORT CLASH REPORTED

Berlin Paper Says Girl Was Killed and Woman Wounded—German Officer Dies of Wound.

MORE TROOPS TO REGION

Burgomaster Warns the People to be Calm, Blaming Them for First Fighting.

BERLIN, April 8.—The Lokal-Anzeiger reports another shooting affray at Frankfort on Thursday. A young girl, its dispatch says, was killed and a woman wounded.

It is semi-officially stated that a German patrol under Lieutenant Count Kalnein was fired on yesterday near Niederwölstadt, sixteen miles north of Frankfort, by five sentries. Kalnein was wounded and subsequently died.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 8.—It is understood that France is reinforcing her army on the Rhine with troops from Alsace and Lorraine. The 147th Regiment, for instance, leaves Mulhouse tomorrow morning for Mayence.

Dispatches to the French newspapers tonight say calm has been restored at Frankfort after the clashes of yesterday. Following the official protest to local officials, General Degoutte has ordered an investigation.

General Degoutte had notices posted this morning repeating that the French would withdraw as soon as the Germans evacuated the neutral zone and urging the citizens to observe order.

The newspapers reappeared this morning. They were not censored beforehand but the editors were told what sort of news they could not print under pain of suspension of their papers.

General de Metz, in command of the French troops at Frankfort, posted notices denying that France had received an ultimatum from America and England and that the French troops were about to withdraw. The Prefect of Police of Frankfort also posted notices urging the population to remain calm.

The official version of the fight at Frankfort yesterday issued by the French Foreign Office tonight says one German was killed and six wounded. According to this version, the shops of the city, by a prearranged signal, closed at 1 o'clock. Crowds of employes began to collect in the streets and hoot the French. Several hundred people gathered before a detachment of French machine gunners on one of the main streets in charge of a Lieutenant. The officer urged his men to remain calm. He placed himself in front of the machine gunners to urge the crowd to disperse. He became surrounded by shouting people, and his soldiers, thinking he was in danger, fired a few rounds.

The French say that the Burgomaster of Frankfort, after an investigation, has decided that the crowd was to blame for the incident and so stated in a public proclamation, in which he warned the people not to repeat such provocations of the French soldiers. It is stated that the German municipal police assisted the French patrols in re-establishing order and that the city was quiet by 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

PARIS, April 8 (Associated Press)—Paul Tirard, French High Commissioner in the Rhineland, and Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, commander in chief of the American army of occupation on the German front, today visited General Degoutte, the French commander of the occupation forces.

SOCIALIST LEADERS SENT TO FRANKFORT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 7.—The shooting affray at Frankfort had two effects that, in the view of good German Republicans, are most welcome. It has considerably sobered the anarchist elements which always cherished the hope that a French invasion would afford an opportunity for an all around division of wealth and property. It has proved to the laboring elements that the French authorities are not as lenient concerning strikes as the German Government, for immediately after the shooting, the French General ordered that any one leaving work be severely dealt with.

Other hardy and vigorous French measures doubtless fanned the anger against the French into a blazing flame. There is a mingling of contempt as, according to the German idea, the French have not the least excuse for playing the haughty victors, seeing they would have been utterly defeated except for American help. This contempt, especially for the black French troops, seems to have been mainly responsible for the Frankfort shooting, the meagre details reaching Berlin indicating that the populace laughed and jeered at the slouchy manner in which the Moroccans carried out the commands of their officers, whereupon they opened fire.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the Berlin Government last night dispatched a number of well-known Socialist leaders to the newly occupied district, to assuage the public wrath and persuade them to remain in their shops and not give any further trouble, promising that by April 10 at the latest the French troops would be withdrawn, because the German military operations in the Ruhr district would be finished.

This hope, however, is not shared by the industrial magnates, who are the principal sufferers of the anarchist rising. August Thyssen, arriving here this morning by automobile, told THE TIMES correspondent that weeks of rigorous military housecleaning would be necessary to restore peace. Though the principal high roads and towns and cities might soon be cleared, the woods and mountains are full of robber bands, which have remained a menace to the whole district. Not half the arms have been delivered. Tens of thousands of rifles, machine guns and even field artillery have been hidden in homes and secret arsenals, and would surely reappear at the opportune moment. Unless the French authorities desired continuation of anarchy they must permit prolonged military operations, Herr Thyssen said.

The German Government, THE TIMES correspondent hears, is preparing a note to M. Millerand stating these difficulties and asking the French to consent to a moderate number of soldiers for police duty in the neutral zone.

REPORT FRENCH HAD PROOF OF PLOT

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRANKFORT, April 7 (by Courier to Mayence).—Indifference coupled with curiosity is the keynote attitude of the inhabitants of Frankfort toward the French occupation. As soon as a French officer, French camion or detachment of troops halts anywhere there collects a crowd immediately, staring with wide eyes and open mouths.

For some time there has been growing in Frankfort a feeling of sympathy toward the French among the working class, due particularly to the aggressive attitude of the Reichswehr and Sicherheitspolizei. A squad of the latter patrolled the city in a camion three weeks ago when news came of Kapp's coup d'état. They pointed rifles at the crowd and behaved in a very provocative manner. Similarly an officer of the Reichswehr on the square before the railroad station aimed a carbine at any one in the crowd who shouted or made any demonstration. Once he actually fired, but without injuring any one.

A few weeks ago there was a procession of metal workers. A Sicherheitspolizman waved a revovler at them, as much as to say, "If you make trouble, here's what's coming to you." The workers assailed him, took away his weapon and treated him rather roughly. A French Major in an automobile was an impassive spectator of the scene. As workers filed past him they shouted: "Hoch, Hoch Franzosen," and raised their caps in salute.

Last Sunday representatives of the revolted Ruhr workers came to a French liason officer in Frankfort and complained that several hundred workers had been massacred by the Reichswehr in the region of Dortmund. The rebels had given up their arms and were prepared to go back to work, but the Reichswehr collected a large body of them in an open space, put up an artillery barrage behind them to prevent escape and then opened fire on the mass with machine guns.

At several points just occupied by the French they were asked whether they would allow the Reichswehr to come in. On a negative reply the inhabitants showed every sign of joy. urther, there is a widespread belief in the district, especially in labor circles, that the German militarists are only waiting an opportunity to repeat the abortive coup d'état of three weeks ago. Then they were checked by the general strike. Now they purpose to make a bloody example of the most resolute section of strikers to avert possible opposition.

It is exactly the same tactics as was practiced by the Russian reactionaries after the attempted revolution of 1905. Then in the Spring of 1906 General Rennenkampf led an expedition to the Baltic Province—like Westphalia today the headquarters of liberal sentiment—and stamped out the radical organization with fire and sword. The German reactionaries are trying to do the same thing.

Proof Force Exceeds Allowance.

The French have absolute proof that the numbers of White troops in the Ruhr area greatly exceed what is allowed by the treaty and subsequent protocols. It is enough to say now that as regards the sicherheitspolizei—so-called police—one battalion was found to have three batteries of four-inch cannon with 500 rounds per gun, a battery of heavy minenwerfer and of flame throwers, forty-seven heavy machine guns, as well as rifles and automatic pistols to every man. The rank and file were all noncoms and the sergeants were ex-officers of the German Army. The troop as it stood formed an admirable skeleton for the immediate raising and training of a considerable force.

The French have seized documents proving beyond doubt that the militarist party in Germany planned to gain internal control, then cause a revolution in France and by suddenly raising an army and striking westward recover what has been lost in the war. French agents have discovered that the sum of 14,000,000 marks was sent through Geneva to certain persons in Montmartre last Spring to be used in Bolshevist propaganda. This money was traced back, not, as might be expected, to the German Communists, but to the militarist party, who by its means did cause trouble on May Day and evidently hoped to hamstring France from the point of view of military effort.

I have talked here and in Mayence with high officers who are literally aghast at the thought that America does not realize that the German military party is planning revenge. They say:

"We have proofs. We know that they are trying to repeat Kapp's coup d'état and crush all that is liberal, republican and pacific in their country."

I answered:

"It is your fault for not making the facts fully known. While Germans are pouring out a flood of propaganda about their good intentions and your harshness you cannot expect America to agree wholly with you if you say nothing.

Admit French Are Considerate.

I talked today with the Burgomaster of Frankfort, who admitted that the French occupation was as little burdensome as a military occupation could be. He complained that prohibition of the use of telegraphs and telephones and certain restrictions about traveling interfered with business, but he conceded that the French had not bothered him or hindered the internal administration of the city. Nor had they levied money fines. Altogether, their behavior was in striking contrast to that of the Germans in French or Belgian towns.

To Americans it may seem only natural that this should be the case. But the French have very vividly in memory what the Germans did in Lille and other French towns, compared with which their moderation is conspicuous. They all say they will retire as soon as the Reichswehr have evacuated the Ruhr.

Meanwhile a variety of absurd rumors are running around Frankfort. The Americans and British are said to have sent an ultimatum to the French, bidding them evacuate within twenty-four hours. In this connection it is worth noting that the Germans have evidently hoped to play the Americans and British against the French, and really seem to think they can do so. Another story was that the French would evacuate tonight at 6 o'clock—this is probably due to the fact that the French have withdrawn a number of their troops, as they saw no trouble likely.

The fact is they are trying to make the occupation as little burdensome as possible. They are determined to give the Berlin Government a lesson they believe it needs, but beyond that they have no aggressive intentions. They are merely resolved to insure respect for the treaty which has been violated. If the Germans behave decently and execute their obligations, the French will not interfere with them.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

"If the Allies are not unanimous in approving clearly and openly the intervention of France, the German Government will feel itself encouraged in the policy its Generals have imposed. More and more Germany will be swayed between military reaction and the revolting workers. Those who wish to cure Germany should be the first today to back up France."

L'Intransigeant says:

"France has stated her case to the Allies. Let us all put our cards on the table. It must be done. We must know where we stand."

The occupation of Frankfort, Darmstadt and the other Rhine cities is but the first step in the execution of France's new policy toward Germany. It is for the purpose of enforcing Articles 42, 43 and 44 of the Versailles Treaty that this action has been taken. But there are other clauses of the treaty, the enforcement of which France will demand forthwith. After enforcing respect to the neutral zone, France will then turn to the disarming of Germany. In fact this second move may be said to have begun.

General Nollet as chairman of the Interallied Military Commission has just addressed to the German Government a note saying that the Allies called Berlin's attention to the fact that on April 10 the German Army must be reduced to 200,000 men. The French contend the Germany Army today numbers 450,000 men. Furthermore General Nollet, in the name of the Allies, lays down the law with regard to the German so-called civic military organizations. He says they will not be permitted. He writes:

"The civil guards can no longer be utilized even though they try to maintain themselves under the guise of purely civil organization. Whatever may be their rôle in maintaining order in the interior it is nevertheless clear that their armament, their formation and their effectives are being constantly built up and favor the mobilization forbidden by the treaty of peace.

"Furthermore it is established that the civil guards indulge frequently in military exercises. Civil guards are therefore in violation of Articles 166-175, 177 and 178 of the Treaty of Versailles.

"The Commission on Interallied control informs you therefore in the name of the allied and associated Governments that the 10th of April, 1920, is the day fixed for the reduction of the German Army to 200,000 men and is the extreme limit for the execution of the decision of Dec. 12, 1919."

While Premier Millerand states plainly that the occupation of Frankfort will cease when the Germans evacuate the neutral zone, it, nevertheless, is interesting to read in L'Eclair, the newspaper of former Premier Briand, who is a power in French politics, the recommendation that Frankfort and Darmstadt be not evacuated until France has guarantees of the disarmament of Germany. L'Eclair calls the occupation of the five cities "the first step." It says:

"Having checkmated the coup of Herr Müller, what are we going to do? Shall we come back across the Rhine simply? We should not think of it. Before our troops regain their cantonments in occupied territory, it is the duty of Millerand to demand serious guarantees for the enforcement of the treaty of Versailles which Germany is trying by every means to escape."

Figaro says that France has just begun on her new policy for the enforcement of the treaty. It says:

"The Government of Millerand has seized the right moment and the opportune occasion to inaugurate our treaty policy—that is the policy which will hold ready all the forces of France, material and moral, capable of assuring the execution of the treaty. For such as it is, with all its faults, it is the sole statue of victory which we have."

Reparations Plan Soon.

After forcing Germany to disarm France will turn her attention to compelling Germany to begin to pay indemnities. The Reparations Commission, of which former President Poincaré is the head, is working on a plan and before many weeks have passed the commission will be heard from.

There is no good reason to believe Millerand will not hold his Government strictly to his promises with regard to the evacuation of Frankfort and Darmstadt when the Germans shall have met the terms he has laid down for evacuation of the neutral zone of fifty kilometers east of the Rhine. But there is every reason to believe France will act again in the same or a different way to enforce other clauses of the treaty. The whole policy of the present Government toward Germany is the strict enforcement of the treaty, with allied help if it can be had, without allied help if necessary.

The Berlin papers publish interviews with members of the French mission which frankly admit the French occupation was undertaken at the instigation of General Nollet, their chief, who "advised Draconian measures because he had occasion to look behind the scenes and was impressed with the fact that the German Generals believed themselves more than ever masters of the situation." Besides General Nollet noticed a growing system of secrecy. For instance, the French mission found it was impossible to ascertain the quantity of arms and munitions still in German hands. This caused the suspicion that the German Generals did not dream of disarming. For these reasons the French authorities say they were compelled energetically to prevent the creation of the socialized local volunteer corps demanded by the Socialist parties and the trade unions.

Doubtless there is much truth in General Nollet's observations, but some of his deductions are quite mistaken. The Government itself had given cause for suspicion not because it is playing the Generals' game, but because it cannot help itself. At present it has no choice but to fight anarchy with the one force available which unfortunately had not been thoroughly republicanized by Noske. The Government would doubtless proceed with all severity against the Kapp conspirators, but it cannot employ monarchist officers to arrest monarchist conspirators. It is compelled to wait to punish the reactionaries until the Red culprits are suppressed. On that score much could be overlooked momentarily, but Müller's Government shows itself so weak that even the organs of the three coalition parties grow impatient, and Vorwärts day after day scores the Government.

allied officers should accompany the Germany troops. A third was that matters should be left entirely with the German Government, with the intimation that if the neutral zone was not evacuated as soon as circumstances should permit, the Allies would claim the right to occupy important German centres."

The Times adds that in diplomatic circles the view is expressed that the action of France is wrong in form but right in substance. It is also regarded as a mistake on the part of France not to have employed white troops exclusively in the occupation of German cities.

Independent diplomatic testimony, according to The Times, is to the effect that the German Government is in reality controlled by militarists. It is therefore held that France was justified in acting swiftly while her allies were talking.

In Parliamentary quarters, says The Times, the action of Mr. Lloyd George is attributed to his alleged desire to influence opinion in the National Liberal Club, where a struggle for predominance is proceeding between his supporters and those of Mr. Asquith.

On account of the meeting of Premier Lloyd George and his Cabinet today to determine the attitude of Great Britain relative to the occupation of German cities east of the Rhine by the French the conference of allied Premiers and Foreign Ministers, which had been arranged for today and at which the German situation was to have been discussed, has been postponed. It will probably be held tomorrow.

Baron Scialoia, the Italian Foreign Minister, who is here for the conference, expressed the opinion to The Associated Press today that there was no possibility of the Franco-German situation bringing about serious differences between the Allies.

"Intimations that there is danger of such a situation arising within the counsels of France and her former comrade powers are entirely unjustified," the Foreign Minister said. "I have every confidence that there is nothing in the present state of affairs that will make it difficult for the Allies to reach a common understanding and maintain a solid front."

With reference to a report from Washington that Italy, Great Britain and the United States were negotiating with France regarding the formation of a definite policy, Baron Scialoia said:

"It was expected we would get together on that matter today, but now it is deemed necessary to postpone the conference until tomorrow. If, as reported from Berlin, a note has been presented to Germany on behalf of the Allies demanding a reduction of her army to the treaty basis of 200,000 men on April 10, it must have been a move initiated by Marshal Foch, for so far as Italy is concerned there has been no such action."

British Feared Bad Precedent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 8.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns today from an authoritative source that the British Government has never been convinced of the necessity of the French advance into the neutral zone. In its view the interference in Germany for the sake of enforcing order might create a precedent which could be awkward at some future time, and it holds that there is no evidence that anything has happened in the Ruhr Valley which might not be suppressed by the German Government with little trouble.

As to the contention that by increasing their forces in neutral territory the Germans were infringing the treaty, the British Government takes the view that circumstances have arisen which were not contemplated when the treaty was drafted, and that there is no reason why some arrangement should not be made to meet them.

WASHINGTON KNEW OF ALLIES' STAND

Officials Refuse to Comment on Great Britain's Announcement as to France.

DID NOT DOUBT GERMANY

Belief Was Held That She Was Acting in Good Faith to Suppress Disorder.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Officials in Washington declined to comment for publication on the British Government's statement, issued in London tonight, that France had acted wholly on her own initiative in deciding to occupy German cities; that England, the United States, Italy and Belgium were all opposed to the plan, and that it had created a delicate situation.

The British Government's announcement fully corroborated this Government's understanding of the situation, however, it can be stated unequivocally, and for that reason did not cause any surprise to American officials. It was on March 25 that the State Department announced that it had instructed Ambassador Wallace that the United States would not oppose the sending of German troops into the Ruhr region for the sole purpose of quelling Communist disturbances and was not in favor of the movement of allied troops into the Ruhr basin.

There has been absolutely no change for the last ten days in the attitude of the American Government, which understood in the beginning that the attitude of Italy and England was identical with that of this Government. It was stated in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES last Sunday night that Washington did not approve France's action.

That the German Government is acting in good faith is believed, it is said, by the Allies other than France, who are inclined to regard the number of troops sent into the neutral zone more as an evidence of German stupidity in estimating the effect of such action upon the other nations than as an attempt to force the hand of the Allies. It is not believed to be felt by the Allies generally that the moves of the German Government have been carried out with sufficiently logical development to signify that Germany is endeavoring to make the episode of the Ruhr Valley a real test case of her ability to evade the terms of the Peace Treaty.

It is not felt here that the action of the French Government would necessitate assistance to the French by the United States under the Franco-American defense treaty were that treaty in force. Nor is it believed that France would have acted so hastily had that treaty been ratified by this Government. It is believed in well informed quarters here that France has endeavored to follow the old doctrine that to present Europe with a fait accompli is to win the point desired.

DEPLORES DIVERGENT VIEWS.

London Papers Also Divided Between British and French Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, April 9.—The Daily Chronicle says editorially this morning:

"The public will learn today with some anxiety that the recent French action has been attended by serious differences of opinion between France and her allies and that their concert, though not broken, has been appreciably strained. The attitude of the British public may, we believe, be stated in a sentence. It will support its Government in any insistence on the country's due right to be heard and consulted regarding the action against Germany, but at the same time it attaches paramount importance to our connection with France and expects every effort to be made to keep it close and cordial."

The Chronicle deplores the shooting incident at Frankfort and says:

"We may reasonably infer from the reports that on one hand the German crowd was rowdy and gave great provocation, but on the other that the shooting would not have occurred if French troops had been employed instead of Moroccans. It is to the interest of both parties to avoid any repetition of such incidents."

The Daily News points out that the divergence of view between France and her allies is substantially more radical than hitherto had been supposed and that the French action, taken without concurrence and against the desire of the other chief signatories of the Treaty of Versailles, has precipitated an unfortunate situation. It says:

"Making every allowance for France's special grounds for apprehension, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that she counted on presenting the Allies with a fait accompli which they would be constrained to accept rather than reveal openly a difference of opinion within the alliance. They had not been prepared to adopt that course, and it is not to be desired that they should. As it is, the events of the last week must inevitably have certain consequences. On the one hand France's action goes to shake the prestige of the existing German Government at the moment of all moments when the strengthening of that Government is essential in the interests of security and order.

"On the other the now unconcealed division of opinion among the Allies must stimulate the tendency [of which the French themselves never cease to warn us] in certain quarters in Germany to make capital out of any sign of a breach as quickly and completely as so, the first essential is to heal the breach as quickly and completely as possible. That is not to be done by a majority on the Supreme Council of the Allies yielding to a minority of one. Neither is it to be desired that any steps should be taken or any representations made by the majority that should damage French prestige in the eyes of Germany or any other nation."

The Daily Mail says:

"The least we can do is to give the strongest possible moral support to France in the action she has taken. So far from that, however, there is reason to believe that Lord Derby, our Ambassador at Paris, will be charged to present to the French Government this morning a British note of expostulation against the occupation of German towns which has been effected by French troops. Such a step can only create a very difficult and dangerous situation, for upon what happens now may depend alike the safety of Europe and the maintenance of peace.

"The French may not have been altogether wise to use so large a proportion of colored troops in the force which occupied Frankfort, but from all accounts these colored troops are behaving extremely well and are very steady and thoroughly disciplined in the face of considerable provocation. At this juncture it is necessary to say plainly and emphatically that there is one thing which the British people will never permit or pardon, namely, the sacrifice by a British Government of our friendship and intimate alliance with France for the purpose of aiding Mr. Lloyd George in votes-snatching campaign intended to capture the mugwumps of the National Liberal Club. By his instability he has completed the ruin of Russia after alienating public opinion in the United States. Stronger than any Premier is the force of British opinion and stands unhesitatingly on the side of France, our tried and trusted ally."

BERLIN GOVERNMENT YIELDS TO THE UNIONS

Agrees to Withdraw Troops from Ruhr Valley—Press Assails Labor Leaders.

BERLIN, April 8 (Associated Press).—The conference between the Cabinet and officials of the trade unions and leaders of both Socialist parties has brought about an agreement by the Government to grant certain concessions in connection with the demands recently made. The Government agrees to withdraw the troops from the Ruhr Valley at the earliest feasible moment and to halt their advance into the region south of the Ruhr.

These concessions, together with the promise made by Minister of Defense Gessler, that he would withdraw all troops which had committed excesses and that the Ruhr line would not be passed, are regarded as having averted a crisis for the time being.

It is only a temporary compromise, however, as the issue will remain acute in view of the determination of Carl Legien, President of the Federation of Trade Unions, to use moral and physical influence in forcing the Government to recognize labor's demands.

It is freely admitted that the action of the labor leaders came as a surprise, as the Coalition Government had been acting in the belief that it had the support of all parties in view of the serious situation confronting the country.

In official quarters regret is expressed that the laborite demands amounted to moral support of Premier Millerand of France. Liberal newspapers outspokenly condemn the manoeuvre, for which they hold Herr Legien responsible.

ORDER RETURNING TO RUHR DISTRICT

Satisfactory Conditions, Expected by Saturday—All the Coal Mines Working.

DUESSELDORF, April 8 (Associated Press).—The diminishing disorders, the progress of the dissolution of the Red Army and the fulfillment of other clauses of the Peace Treaty seemingly indicate that there will be a return to reasonably satisfactory conditions throughout this part of the Ruhr region by Saturday noon, the time set for the return to normal by the authorities. The desire of the Executive Committee of the Workmen, particularly in Düsseldorf, to retain some of the power they have had for four weeks appears to be the only political difficulty. The municipal authorities, however, are confident that they will reach an understanding, although the executive desires to retain supervisory power after April 10.

Industrially peace rapidly is becoming effective. The railroads were operated to Essen for the first time today, and elsewhere conditions are becoming more normal. At Old Essen, a suburb of Essen, the Reichswehr have been rooting out bands of disturbers alleged to be demobilized Reds.

FOOD OF THE GODS

A Greek goddess kept a box of apples whereof the gods had only to partake to become young again.

No such miraculous powers are claimed for the apples served at CHILDS.

And with an active mind and a stiff backbone one can keep young for a long time.

Men's Silk Shirts
A Fifth Avenue Week Feature.

In honor of Fifth Avenue Week the Men's Haberdashery Department presents an offering of silk shirts, of a distinctly Fifth Avenue quality, at a price not usually associated with our great thorofare.

These shirts are of the better grade silks, and in colors and patterns attractive and in good taste.

To the man who knows values we need only suggest that at this price these shirts are unusual.

The New Styles
in sizes to fit every man

New York men expect our Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes to be good looking and stylish; just as they expect them to be well tailored and all wool.

So, it's no particular cause for comment when our new Spring styles are fully up to standard, even if we do think them a little handsomer than usual—and we do!

The point we'd like to drive home is that we FIT our customers; we fit them in the style of their selection; and for less than half what a good tailor would have to charge.

REPORT AGREEMENT MADE ON ADRIATIC

Geneva Hears Slavs and Italians Have Decided Latter Shall Have Fiume.

JUGOSLAVIA TO GET SCUTARI

Lloyd George Credited with Being Author of Proposition, Wilson Not Being Consulted.

GENEVA, April 8.—A telegram received at Lugano from Triest asserts that the Italo-Jugoslav Commission, which has been in consultation regarding an Adriatic settlement, has reached an agreement concerning the Adriatic ports under which Italy obtains sovereignty over Fiume.

The Jugoslavs, under the reported agreement, would receive Susak, the Canale della Fiumara, the Porto Baross and the port of Volosca. The port of Abbazia, just to the southwest of Volosca, would remain Italian, with the Jugoslavs receiving Scutari, on Lake Scutari on the old Albano-Montenegrin frontier, as compensation.

The report credits Premier Lloyd George as being the author of the settlement proposition, regarding which the opinion of President Wilson was not asked by the Allies, it is declared.

TRIEST, April 8 (Associated Press).—A general strike was declared in Fiume this morning. The city is without water or lights.

The workmen demand restoration of the food situation to a normal basis, a reversion to the prices prevailing prior to the local troubles and the adjustment of the value or money in exchange so as to restore the former purchasing power of wages. It is complained that prices are now quoted in lire, whereas wages are paid in Jugoslav crowns, worth only one-twelfth the value of the lire.

The National Council has promised an improvement in conditions. The continuation of the blockade of Fiume is paralysing the activities of the port.

GERMANS GIVE UP WARSHIPS

Nassau and Ostfriesland Are Delivered in the Firth of Forth.

LONDON, April 8.—The German battleships Nassau and Ostfriesland arrived in the Firth of Forth yesterday, this constituting the beginning of the surrender of the remainder of the German warships under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles.

Ultimately the Ostfriesland will be turned over to the American Government, and the Admiralty is awaiting instructions from Washington regarding the date the vessel will depart for the United States.

The battleship Ostfriesland was placed in commission in September, 1911. Her normal displacement is 22,800 tons, her length being 546 feet and her beam 93 feet. The complement of the vessel is about 1,100 men.

The Nassau, which has been allocated to Japan, is also of the dreadnought class, but displaces only 18,000 tons. She is capable of carrying a crew of 960.

Both battleships were towed into the Firth of Forth by German naval vessels and will be turned over to their new owners as soon as crews are provided to take charge of them.

The Baden, a new battleship of 28,000 tons, which the Germans tried to scuttle in Scapa Flow, is now in British hands and has been permanently allocated to Great Britain.

The arrival of the Ostfriesland and the Nassau marks the first delivery of German naval vessels since the Scapa Flow incident. The opinion was expressed at the British Admiralty today that the delivery of the remainder of the German war vessels to be surrendered under the terms of the Peace Treaty would now proceed speedily and the opinion was expressed that Germany intended to carry out this provision of the treaty without further quibbling.

There remain six battleships, several light cruisers and some forty or fifty torpedo-boat destroyers and a number of submarines to be delivered. In addition, it has been agreed that fifty-four German submarines shall be sold for the benefit of the Allies. The allocation of the remaining vessels has not been determined upon, but it is understood that Brazil will receive six torpedo-boat destroyers, some submarines and a cruiser. The delivery of these vessels is expected to take place within a month.

The Firth of Forth will be the scene of the transfer of all the warships. There is some question as to whether the Governments receiving the battleships are under obligations to destroy them within five years. The British Admiralty declares that this point has not been settled definitely.

ipal Court, fifty-five landlords were notified to be ready April 15 to answer counter accusations by tenants charging that the owners made demands for excessive rents.

Mrs. Mary Schultz won a victory over the Tiebout Construction Co., when she said a rent of $50 was demanded for her apartment, which formerly was $26. She argued for the dismissal of the petition of eviction on the ground that the landlord did not prove that the increase, which was more than 25 per cent., was justifiable. The court dismissed the complaint, complimenting her on her legal acumen.

The opinion rendered to the city by Acting Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson to the effect that the State Constitution prevents the city from embarking on a program of municipal housing construction, caused Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, to announce yesterday that he would offer a resolution at today's meeting of the Board of Estimate, approving an amendment to the State Constitution.

Mr. Nicholson suggested an amendment to Article VIII., Section 10, so as to make the section read:

"This section shall not prevent such county, city, town or village from making such provision for the aid or support of its poor, or for adequate housing facilities for the use of and to be granted to its inhabitants as may be authorized by law."

If the Board of Estimate approves the amendment a bill will be introduced in the State Legislature.

"We cannot hope to have the amendment enacted until a year from next Fall," said Mr. Curran, "but I believe that the housing problem will be with us for several years. The idea is to have this solely as an emergency measure, and when the emergency has passed to sell the city-built houses."

President F. H. LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen disagrees with Mr. Nicholson, and announced yesterday that he had sent to Albany a draft of a bill which would give the city authority to issue bonds for the construction of buildings.

"I cannot concur in the opinion of the learned Acting Corporation Counsel," he said. "I believe that a constitutional amendment is not necessary and that the power and authority required can be created by a simple act of the Legislature."

Mr. LaGuardia's bill would permit the city to issue corporate stock and serial bonds up to $20,000,000 for the purpose of municipal housing construction.

Charles Davidson, a buttonhole maker of 241 Seventh Street, paid a fine of $1 in the Essex Market Court yesterday for striking his landlord, Nathan Thuman of 1,070 Falls Street, who wanted to serve him with a dispossess notice. From the testimony it appeared that Thuman increased Davidson's rent three times in two months, and on the occasion of the last increase the landlord and tenant fell out, and Davidson hit the landlord in the nose.

"Your Honor, that man hit me so hard I lost my dispossess," said Thuman.

Word was received here that Senator Loring M. Black of Brooklyn introduced a measure, prepared by Mayor Hylan's Housing Committee, designed to stimulate the remodeling of old buildings now unused, in order to make homes for tenants. The measure would suspend the laws governing tenements, so that they may be immediately converted into dwellings. The Black measure was advanced to the order of final passage, and legislative leaders declared they would put it through at the earliest possible moment.

The bill does away with restrictions relating to sanitation, light and ventilation in the present tenement house law, but the radical departure is intended only for the present crisis and the bill will automatically become inoperative in 1922.

Representatives of the Downtown Office Building Tenants League appealed to the Joint Legislative Housing Committee to extend to loft and office buildings the provisions of the recently enacted rent laws. Frank M. Franklin, who headed the delegation, said that Vincent Astor was "a 100 per cent. American during the war and a 400 per cent. profiteer now," and that thousands of office owners were levying on small merchants and lawyers rent increases up to 400 per cent.

Miss Charlotte E. Banta Engaged.

The engagement is announced of Miss Charlotte E. Banta, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Banta of Beechhurst, L. I., and a descendant of early Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam, to Milton W. Firth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Firth of Orange, N. J. Mr. Firth was an ensign overseas during the war and Miss Banta did war work. She graduated from Smith College last year.

REMBRANDT PRINT SOLD AT $2,700 BID

Charles Meryon's Beautiful "Le Petit Pont" Fetches $800—$58,040 Paid for 335 Numbers.

Returns for the second and last evening of the sale of the fine collection of prints of Mrs. Ellen Jenkins of Baltimore at the American Art Galleries last evening were $35,960, making a grand total for the lot of 335 numbers of $58,040. It was a Rembrandt which brought the highest price of the evening and of the sale, a magnificent print, first state, of "Ephraim Bonus," No. 264, used as the introductory illustration of the catalogue, and which went to Seaman, agent, for $2,700. It was from the Alfred Morrison collection. The first bid was $1,000.

Rembrandt's "Landscape with Cottage and Dutch Hay Barn," No. 366, which had been said to be the finest print of the lot, starting at $500, went to James F. Drake for $2,550. This was from the H. S. Theobold collection. The "Portrait of Jan Six," No. 267, from the Kalle and Simon collections, sold at the first bid of $1,000, going to Drake.

Whistler's "Nocturne: Palaces," No. 322, seventh state, impression of exceptional quality, brought the second highest price of the sale, going to Knoedler & Co. for $2,600. "Zaandam," No. 323, second state, beautiful impression, extremely rare, went to Kennedy & Co for $1,350. "Little Venice," No. 317, only state, fine impression, in perfect condition, went to Kraushaar for $1,125.

In Mrs. Jenkins's collection was an interesting lot of colored mezzotints by William Ward, said to be the finest set of colored prints ever sold at the American Art Galleries. One of these, No. 297, "Outside of a Country Ale House," after a painting by James Ward, went to Kennedy & Co. for $1,050.

Other prints bringing the higher prices of the sale were "Le Petit Pont," by Charles Meryon, No. 215, beautiful impression, first state, which went to Lorenz, agent, for $800; Meryon's charming "La Rue des Toiles, à Bourges," No. 223, second state, on green paper, perfect condition, formerly the property of the artist's father, Charles Lewis Meryon, went to H. Hahlo & Co. for $625. An original drawing of the same subject, finished study for the etching, No. 225, went to Albert Roullier of Chicago for $410. Rembrandt's "Portrait of Rembrandt Drawing," No. 249, eighth state, fine impression, also went to Roullier, bringing $400.

The rare second state of Rembrandt's "Ecce Homo," No. 252, from the Mary Jane Morgan collection, went to Knoedler for $400. Roullier paid $600 for landscape, "Mill-Sail Seen Above a Cottage," No. 257, only one state known, and Seaman, agent, paid $330 for No. 262, "Portrait of Cornelius Claes Ansloo," an extremely fine and brilliant impression.

A couple of mezzotints by W. S. Reynolds, "The Thrasher" and "The Sower," after paintings by R. Westall, Nos. 271 and 272, went to J. P. Sabin for $560.

Martin Schongauer's "St. Christopher," an engraving, No. 283, went to Roullier for only $240.

The Ward colored mezzotints brought $3,040 for the lot of seven. Nos. 298 and 299, "Morning, Fisherman's Departure," and "Evening, Fisherman's Return," after paintings by Corbould, went to Kennedy for $500 each and to the same buyer went No. 300, the "Compassionate Children," from the painting by James Ward for $500.

Whistler's "The Kitchen," No. 310, third state, went to F. Meder for $850; "The Lime Burner," No. 313, second state, to Roullier for $625; "Becquet—the Fiddler," No. 315, fourth State, to Erwin Mayler for $575; Hahlo & Co. paid $725 for No. 318, "The Little Lagoon," second state; "The Tragetto," No. 319, second state, good impression, in good condition, but paper creased, went to Mayler for $525; "Riva No. 1," No. 320, third state, went to Meder for $650, and "The Mast," No. 321, sixth state, fine impression, to J. H. Post for $370.

Of the Zorn etchings, "Portrait of Zorn and His Wife," No. 328, fine impression, went to Keppel for $825, and Hahlo paid $1,500 for No. 329, the famous "Toast in the Idun." "Mlle. Emma Rasmussen," No. 331, fine impression in perfect condition, went to Max Williams for $575, and No. 333, "Mona," another fine print, went to Kurt Kahle for $725.

"Do you Democrats think it is good sense to let the Republicans cook up peace and then for us to oppose it? I am not such a fool as that. The people are tired of all this discussion. The League will not be accepted without substantial reservations. Does any one believe that even after the next election it could be ratified without reservations?

"I regret that the action of the President in refusing to yield to the views of the majority of the Senate may make the peace question a political football in the next campaign."

Campbell Assails President.

Representative Campbell of Kansas opened the debate on the rule. Like some others, he didn't discuss the rule, but launched into a defense of the resolution and indulged in attacks upon the President for delaying peace.

"The President was first to 'keep us out of war,' then he got us in, and now he would keep us in," said Mr. Campbell. "A year and a half have passed since the signing of the armistice. The question, therefore, as to whether it is advisable for Congress to declare that a state of war no longer exists, when reduced to simple common sense, admits of but one answer. The war is over and Congress should have formal declaration of such fact.

"Can the President hold, in view of the fact that all other foes of the German Empire, and even ourselves to a limited degree, have resumed trade with it, that a state of war still exists? If we are still at war, our own citizens and former allies are giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

"The people are wearied by a year and a half of life under executive war powers in times of peace. Labor, industry and business all are impatient to resume a status under the laws and conditions that pertain to peace."

Representative Pou of North Carolina, ranking Democratic member of the Rules Committee, said:

"This peace resolution is nothing more than a damnable plot to discredit President Wilson. It will bring the damnation of history upon you Republicans, and the damnation of the country is near at hand.

"You are playing Germany's game, for she did not wish to ratify the treaty. The Republican Party believes that the President must be discredited in the eyes of the world if it is to win another victory.

"Why do you do nothing but attack the President? He has no selfish ambitions in view."

At this the Republicans roared in laughter.

Representative Fess, Republican, of Ohio, said:

"The American people demand the ending of the war before the next election, but if the President forces it into the campaign we welcome the issue. The war could have been ended in twenty-four hours if the President had been willing. No man can say that the only way to bring peace is by a treaty. I believe that the resolution is constitutional and that four-fifths of the people of this country demand its passage."

The vote was:

FOR THE RULE, 214.

MATTRESS

The Mattress You Can Best Afford

is the one that gives you the best service. Buy an Ostermoor next time and you won't need another for twenty years.

The world-famous Ostermoor will last that long, and it will permit you, meanwhile, to have the most luxurious sleep-comfort—not for the first few months only, but for as long as it's used.

The reason for Ostermoor superiority is inside the tick—it's made of pure cotton-felt and is "built, not stuffed."

You may "put up with" the mattress you buy even though you make an unfortunate selection. But better make a good selection by trying an Ostermoor, for it will contribute to your sleep for the next twenty years.

FIFTH AVENUE WEEK

Fifth Avenue Week

Long before the advent of Blasco Ibanez it was patent to the cosmopolitan eye that Fifth Avenue is "the most splendid thoroughfare in the world." For one thing, no other metropolis focusses in a single street so much of its life and color. It is the centre of fashionable residence, of club life, of hotel life, of shopping of all sorts, from linens and laces to antique rugs, rare furniture and old masters. * * * * * *

—Editorial, N. Y. Times, April 7th.

THE NATIONAL CITY COMPANY

THE greatest shopping street in the world is Fifth Avenue, and along this splendid thoroughfare the choicest products of the earth are attractively offered.

In the heart of Fifth Avenue's busiest section there is one unique "Shop" dealing solely in investment securities—our Fifth Avenue Office. Here the purchase of income yielding bonds or other high-grade securities is made as easy for the shopper as the purchase of any other article offered on the Avenue.

What greater satisfaction could come to a shopper than to feel that money spent was income derived from well chosen investments?

The ownership of high-grade securities relieves the investor of much of the bother and annoyance incident to the ownership of other income-producing forms of investment. The Federal normal tax is already paid on the income from many such bonds while others enjoy special tax exemption features.

The National City Company is closely affiliated with The National City Bank of New York. Its sole business, however, is the purchase and sale of investment securities. The Fifth Avenue office is one of more than fifty correspondent offices in the principal financial centers of this country, Canada, England, Japan and on the continent of Europe. The Company maintains about 10,000 miles of private wire and renders a superior investment service to those having accumulated funds which are not earning an adequate income.

When you are shopping on Fifth Avenue, a visit to No. 514, corner of Forty-third Street, may prove a new experience.

Our booklet "Men and Bonds" which explains fully the service we offer may be had for the asking at this office.

SAVES 2,000 ORPHANS UNDER FIRE OF TURKS

RAIDERS BURN ORPHANAGE

Two Other American Relief Workers Also Reach Safety After a Perilous Journey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 7 (Associated Press).—Turks have destroyed the village of Harouniyi, northeast of Adana, and burned the American orphanage there. Two thousand Armenian orphans were removed under fire and taken to Adana in safety by William Gilbert, Jr., of Yonkers, New York. They probably will be sent to Cyprus, as the Adana district is much disturbed.

Railway communication has been restored between Adana and Aleppo.

Turkish Nationalists have taken over control of the village of Bardizaj, on the southern side of the Gulf of Ismid, about 50 miles from Constantinople, but there are few indications of trouble in Anatolia.

Hadjin, north of Adana, is still cut off from the outside world, and other Armenian villages are being besieged by the Turks, according to advices received here. Hundreds of refugees are arriving in Adana daily. The railway between Adana and Konia, to the northwest, has been cut.

Leo Burke of Hornell, N. Y., and Webster A. Anderson of Crawfordsville, Ind., both workers in the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, have reached Adana from Ulukishla, about half way between Adana and Konia. They were fired upon several times during their trip, but were not injured.

William Morris Gilbert, Jr., who is mentioned in the above dispatch as saving two thousand Armenian orphans, is the son of the Rev. W. M. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, in Yonkers. During the latter part of the war he was an Ensign in the navy and at the close of the conflict joined the field service of the Near East Relief Association. For the last seven months he has been on duty at the relief supply station at Oulow Kishla, Turkey.

Daimler Gets Another Company.

Through action taken at a general stockholders' meeting held in Stuttgart on March 15, the Daimler Motor Company has taken over control of the Esslingen Machinery Manufacturing Company. The Frankfurter Zeitung reports that the deal was effected by issuing preferred 4 per cent. stock to the amount of 4,000,000 marks by each company and then exchanging it. In future stockholders' meetings the Daimler preferred stock will possess a voting power sixteen times as great as indicated by its face value. During the war the Daimler Company was one of the greatest profiteers in Germany, and was the object of several interpellations in the Reichstag, but since the armistice its affairs have gone very badly. William Hohenzollern is said to be a big stockholder in this concern.

Senate Raises House $8,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—An increase of $8,000,000 in the 1921 appropriations for river and harbor work was voted today by the Senate Commerce Committee, making the total appropriation $20,000,000. The House plan of lump sum appropriations instead of specific divisions of the funds for various projects was approved.

MARCONI NOT HUNTING FOR MARTIAN SIGNALS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 8.—William Marconi, who will leave Southampton Saturday on his 700-ton yacht Electra on a voyage of wireless research, said today:

"I am not going out fishing for Mars messages, nor is there anything specially sensational in the objects of the voyage. Our intention is to make a number of tests, both telephonic and telegraphic, by wireless, more particularly to develop wireless direction-finding for navigation purposes, in which I believe much useful work can be done."

When asked for his personal views on the unexplained "messages" occasionally noted by wireless operators, Mr. Marconio said:

"These sounds which we have received on our instruments are probably due to electrical disturbances in the sun or some other remote place, but I do not think they are messages from Mars. I have been asked if I could exclude Mars, and I said I could not, nor could I exclude Venus or any other planet. It would not be logical, because the sounds are so far unaccounted for; but they are probably due to electrical disturbances in the sun.

"These sounds are curious and are not explainable by the theory that they come from remote parts of the earth, because they have been heard in three continents in which our instruments are working. The magnetic storms of which we have had considerable experience recently may have something to do with them.

"The subject of interplanetary communication is a speculative one. It will be far more immediately useful to develop means of safety for ships at sea than to try to get to Mars. During this trip I shall be in touch with Marconi House, and should anything of surprising importance occur I could inform them immediately; but I assure you I do not look for anything sensational."

Mr. Marconi said that, besides his wife, there would be some personal friends aboard the Electra, among them the Marquis de Medici and his wife. The Electra is fitted with four powerful sets of wireless instruments, representing the pick of the latest wireless developments. The trip, which will last two months, will take the party to the Mediterranean, but Mr. Marconi's full plans are as yet undecided.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING PLAN ABANDONED

DEMOCRATS SUSPICIOUS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—It became a certainty today that the present Congress would not provide for compulsory universal military training as part of the new military policy of the United States. Advocates of universal training in the Senate conceded their defeat, and offered as a substitute a plan for voluntary training for all those between the ages of 18 and 28 who desired it. Universal training has been rejected by the House.

At the request of Democratic leaders, a vote on the voluntary training plan was deferred until tomorrow, to give them an opportunity to examine the proposal.

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, a member of the Military Affairs Committee and an advocate of universal training, offered the new measure, which provides that the Government shall train those between the ages specified who applied for training, for a period of four months. At the end of his training the volunteer would be permitted to enlist for five years in the organized reserves, and if he did so enlist would be subject to military service should war occur during his period of enlistment. No obligation to enlist in the organized reserve would be consequent upon the acceptance of the privilege of training.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, the original advocate in the Senate of compulsory universal military training, urged the adoption of the Frelinghuysen substitute.

Senator Hitchcock said the Democrats felt they had good reason to be suspicious of the plan, offered when it became apparent that the Democrats were opposed to compulsory training.

Senator Wadsworth consented to having the Frelinghuysen amendments printed for the information of Senators, and for that reason the vote was deferred until tomorrow.

Senator Hitchcock and other Democrats indicated that they might support the voluntary training plan, with some modifications as to age, conditions of service, &c. Mr. Hitchcock inquired what it would cost, and Senator Frelinghuysen said it would cost about $280 to train a volunteer. To train 600,000 men under the compulsory plan, he said, would take about $168,000,000 a year, and if only 100,000 volunteered it would take only one-sixth as much.

Senator Wadsworth expressed the fear that in deciding against universal training the Senate would find it necessary to eliminate also the provision for gradual reduction of the peace-time standing army from 280,000 the first year to 210,000 at the end of six years. With no trained reserve behind it, the regular army must be larger than 210,000, he said.

Islip Man Kills Himself in a Wood.

ISLIP, L. I., April 8.—George Conkling, 35, drove in his automobile yesterday to a wood on the Great River Road, left the machine and entered the wood, where he committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun. A workman on a nearby estate heard the shooting and discovered the body. Conkling leaves a wife and two small children.

Skolny Clothes

Brown Suits | Gray Suits
One- and Two-button Single- and Double-breast Models

Brown serge. Woven exactly as it should be. Won't shrink, stretch, or sag. True colors that hold. Cool, crisp to the touch. A shake and the dust flies; lint won't cling to it. Ideal for service from treacherous April, through Summer's heat to chill October.

Gray unfinished worsted. Plaids and herringbone stripes. Rational effects. Quiet, modest. Neither bold nor offensive. Grays ranging from silver to slate, with delicate undertints as brighteners. No Spring or Summer wardrobe is complete without a Gray Suit.

Semi-Conservative Suits

Three-button sack models, soft-roll lapels, patch or flap pockets, made of flannels and unfinished worsteds, plain colors, stripes and mild mixtures.

These Suits are compromises—for men who wish to wear stylish, but not "striking" Clothes. There is a large fellowship of such—men with a trace of gray at their temples—but still slim, and far from ready to wear Clothes in which all the dash and sprightliness have been subdued.

TOPCOATS---April Is Capricious

THE climate of the United States is a champion for Topcoats all the year round. April especially argues for them. Even in mid-Summer they are indispensable for the outing and vacation trip by train, boat or motor. Topcoats made by SKOLNY! What more need be said? What's your preference? Covert? Herringbone? Gabardine? Single-breasted, or double? One button, or two-button model? Or, maybe your taste runs to knitted cloth? Plain colors, or distinctive heather mixtures? Loose belted or unbelted styles. Just right for sport wear and automobiling. For street or business wear, too.

POOR TO GET MILK AT 8 1-2C FROM CITY

3 CENTS BELOW MARKET

Stations to be Established in Thirty-three Public Schools About April 15.

Following the receipt yesterday of a communication from Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, offering to sell the Health Department an unlimited supply of Grade B milk at 8½ cents a quart for sale in the poorer sections of the city, Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, announced that by April 15 he expected milk at that price would be on sale in thirty-three public schools in Manhattan and in a proportionate number of public schools in tenement districts in the other four boroughs.

In offering to deliver the milk to the Health Department at that price, Mr. Horton stipulated that the city would be expected to provide, at the expense of his company, an attendant in each school milk station to supervise the sale of the milk to consumers, and that the city would have to furnish an icebox for the care of the milk in each station, which will cost about $36.

Dr. William L. Ettinger, City Superintendent of Schools, has informed Commissioner Copeland that he will co-operate, although schools in congested sections of the city are pressed for room.

"The regular price of this milk is 11 cents," the Health Commissioner explained. "The milk that will be sold in these stations will be of the same quality as milk sold in retail stores at 11 cents a quart. If the plan works out well, as I expect it will, I shall ask other milk distributers to join and make it a permanent arrangement."

In his letter to Dr. Copeland offering to provide milk for distribution in the congested sections of the city, Mr. Horton said, in part:

"Our understanding is that you do not want to handle this situation as a municipal milk merchandising enterprise, nor do you want to meet these consumers on a charity basis.

"With this in mind, we have approached the problem as a retailing business proposition by cutting out every possible item of overhead that could be sacrificed without interfering with the quality of the milk to be provided, thereby arriving at a price standard lower than possible under ordinary distribution methods.

"The only equipment to be furnished by the city is an ice box of proper capacity for each station. These boxes should hold about four forty-quart cans.

"We will supply ice for cooling, and see that the boxes are kept properly packed. We will deliver milk to all stations designated by you, in any quantities needed to fill the demands, keep it iced, pay the cost of the dispenser, and sell the milk at 8½ cents a quart for the month of April.

"We agree to continue this service as long as it is shown that it is desired, and in every way possible co-operate with your department to make our milk service more intimately useful to the people."

Dr. Copeland also announced that on Sunday last, as Chairman of the Fair Milk Price Committee, he sent the following telegram to Thaddeus C. Sweet, Speaker of the Assembly at Albany, to which up to yesterday he had received no reply:

"Legislature has been in session three months. No opportunity has been given public to show Assembly how urgently it demands control of milk prices. Is adjournment to come without consideration of an issue in importance second only to rent problem?"

Dr. Copeland explained that the telegram referred to the failure of the Agricultural Committee of the Assembly to report out the Thompson-Pellett bill and other measures affecting the milk situation in this city. He said that the Thompson-Pellett bill would place the control of the distribution of milk in the hands of a commission named by the Governor, and would obviate conferences between the Milk Conference Board, an organization representing milk distributers and manufacturers, and the officials of the Dairymen's League.

Dr. Copeland declared he believed Speaker Sweet has writer's palsy. "He has not permitted the Assembly to have a hearing on the milk bills," he said. "We have 40 per cent. of the legislators with us and 60 per cent. of the voters are with us. I think all of the legislators should have a voice in determining the outcome of these important bills."

DOLLAR LEMONADE MAKES HER ANGRY

Woman Asks "Flying Squad" to Investigate Profiteering at a Charity Benefit.

ROUGE CAUSES A PROTEST

Women had their innings yesterday in sending complaints to the "Flying Squad" which is investigating profiteering, and they told what they thought of merchants who were gouging them for necessities as well as luxuries and feminine foibles. One prominent New York woman wrote that at a recent charity benefit in a hotel here she had been charged $1 a glass for lemonade, which, she added, was a very weak concoction.

Another of the more than a hundred letters received was from a woman author who wondered why dress shields, which formerly sold at 35 cents each, were now 65 cents. A lady with a penchant for canaries called attention to the high prices demanded for songsters. The jump in the price of a brand of rouge brought a cry from one feminine user.

There were many letters from both men and women complaining of the prices demanded by retailers for shoes, coal, ice and clothing. Several residents of Pelham Park wrote that ice dealers were asked 70 cents a hundredweight. The prevailing price of collars which not so many moons ago sold at two for a quarter in contrast to 30 and 35 cents each now prompted many men to appeal to the "Flying Squad."

Prosecutions under the Lever act, which provides a maximum penalty of two years in jail, will be started by Armon W. Riley, head of the squad, on his return today from Washington, where he has been in conference with his superiors.

Members of his staff said yesterday that Mr. Riley believed that the conviction of a merchant in a particular line of trade would have a wholesome effect on others who sold the same articles.

Angered because the price of fish had been raised from 20 cents to as high as $1 a pound during the Jewish holidays, about 200 Jewish women in the Bronx yesterday threatened to wreck the different markets unless the prices were lowered. Extra police were sent to the Prospect Avenue Market to prevent the women from damaging property. The proprietors defended the increases on the ground that they were experiencing difficulty in getting their supplies, due to the harbor strike and the unwillingness of union teamsters to handle fish unloaded from boats by strikebreakers.

Announcement was made yesterday that a new open-air retail market would be opened on Tuesday under the auspices of the Department of Markets under the Long Island Railroad structure on Atlantic Avenue, between Miller and Pennsylvania Avenues, East New York. The market will be open on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays from 6 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon.

The "A. P." Corrective Shoe

THERE are more than 1,000,000 men in New York whose efficiency for both business and pleasure would be increased from 25% to 50% by wearing these shoes.

This is a special type of shoe for a particular kind of foot—the foot with the broken arch.

The man with this type of foot usually is spoken of as being "heavy on his feet," and his shoes soon flatten down and twist out of shape. He has a broken arch and does not know it. The width of the shank and the strength of the wonderful "Anchored Arch" Bridge Construction in our special "Corrective" Shoe holds the foot and preserves the graceful lines of the shoe to the end.

There is an "ARCH PRESERVER SHOE" for all purposes and every occasion—for men, women, boys and misses—all fitted by the ONLY scientific method in the world.

The Foremost Name in the Luggage Business

THINK of any kind of merchandise you like — and some one brand or maker's name will pop into your mind. The dominant name in that line!

And if you are not as familiar with the Belber name, as with the foremost maker of hats, or shoes, or jewelry — that is because few people except experienced travelers have ever thought much about luggage.

This casual attitude costs them a good bit of money, first and last.

It costs them even more in value, in style, in service — in the way their Trunks, Bags, Suit-Cases take care of their clothes.

It costs them in courtesy and attendance along the road. The porter or the bell boy — it is his business to know who is the accomplished traveler — and who can safely be slighted!

* * *

Nearly thirty years ago the Belber Company selected the accomplished traveler as its public.

It is building the finest luggage that can be made — not merely good-looking, but sound all through. Not a compromise anywhere.

And if you only knew how many ways a Trunk or Bag can be cheapened and not show it until you have traveled with it — you would understand what it means to make the best kind of luggage year after year in the face of price competition!

You will find that Belber is the one name every other luggage maker respects. The one name the responsible dealer would rather show you in his store. The one name that guarantees you utmost value for every dollar of your luggage investment.

STILL SEEKING PLAN FOR TEACHERS' RISE

PERMANENT POLICY SOUGHT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—After a conference of leaders of the Legislature this afternoon, it looked as if the teachers' salary muddle would clear by Monday, and a committee bill would be introduced next week incorporating the percentage of the Lockwood-Donohue bill and making the increases permanent, if the Legislature can find how the money for the State's share can be raised.

Speaker Sweet, Senator Walters, majority leader of the Senate, and Senator Sage, Chairman of the Finance Committee, fear that the State Treasury cannot afford to pay out $15,000,000 necessary to grant the increases, and they favor a temporary appropriation to tide the teachers over one year. The special committee, composed of Senators and Assemblymen, which has studied the problem oppose this and will urge that the increase be made permanent as the only means of keeping teachers from seeking other occupations.

The committee holds that the State should raise $15,000,000 in addition to the $12,000,000 already appropriated for teachers' pay. The conferees will inquire into sources for raising the money, and if they reach an agreement with the State's financial experts they will frame a bill for introduction next week and press for early passage.

Majority Favors the Bill.

A majority of the special committee favors the Lockwood-Donohue bill, it was said after the conference, and will fight for retention of the 40, 30 and 20 per cent. increases provided in that measure. The committee is composed of Senators Downing, Lockwood, Law and Assemblymen Hutchinson and Cole. James J. Walker, minority leader of the Senate, sat in the conference today in place of the Assembly minority leader, Charles D. Donohue.

The Citizens' Committee of One Hundred to Save the Schools, comprising in its membership financiers, lawyers, judges, doctors and political leaders in New York City, filed a statement with the committee favoring mandatory increases on the basis proposed in the Lockwood-Donohue bill.

"In the course of the discussion," said the statement, "it was brought out that your committee has under consideration the following schedule of increases to the present State allotment of $200 per teacher in the several communities.

"New York City $450, Buffalo and Rochester $400, second class cities $350, union free schools with more than ten classes $300 and union free schools with less than ten classes $250.

Committee Accepts the Allotment.

"This allotment on the part of the State seemed reasonable to the committee provided that the measure passed also provides specifically for the necessary increases in salary which the local communities will be required to make."

The committee, the statement further declares, voted to approve:

A mandatory increase of teachers' salaries on the basis of 40 per cent., 30 per cent. and 20 per cent., as at present provided in the Lockwood-Donohue bill.

A mandatory minimum salary for other cities of the State to be determined by the joint committee of the Legislature.

A direct tax on real property of not less than one mill to raise the State's quota of the increase, the amount of the allowance to the different cities to be definitely fixed by the joint committee.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS RISE FOR TEACHERS

Increase from $1,005 to $1,400 a Year Requested to End Shortage of Instructors.

The Board of Education, at a special meeting yesterday, voted in favor of an increase in teachers' salaries to check the shortage of teachers. President Anning S. Prall had held a conference with Mayor Hylan, Chairman of the Board of Estimate, to whom was presented the views of the special committee of the Board of Education on the question, approved on March 30, asking Mr. Prall to ascertain from the Board of Estimate to what extent it was prepared to go in order to provide funds to increase the salaries of teachers of this city.

Mr. Prall reported to the members of the board that the Mayor was in accord with them, and agreed that the teaching force as a whole, but more especially the teachers of the lower grades, and those entering the service, should be adequately paid.

The board decided that the salary of all teachers entering into the system should be increased from $1,005 to $1,400 a year, and that an increase of $395 be given to such of the 13,000 in the lower grades.

$500,000 FOR CHARITIES.

Liberal Legacies to Relatives and Friends Also in D. G. Carroll's Will.

Approximately $500,000 of the $3,000,000 estate left by Daniel G. Carroll, President of the Virginia-Alberene Corporation, who died at his home, 32 West Fortieth Street, on the 4th instant, goes to Catholic benevolences. Personal bequests of $250,000 and 40 per cent. of his holdings in the Virginia-Alberene Corporation to his friend, Nelson N. Moneypenny of 43 South Portland Avenue, Brooklyn, and of $25,000 to Mr. Moneypenny's daughter, Mary, are other features of the will. In recognition of faithful service, Catharine Bennett, a housemaid, is to have $15,000.

The bequests to charity are: $100,000 each to the R. C. Orphan Asylum Society of Brooklyn, New York Catholic Protectory at Van Nest, Bronx, and St. Vincent's Hospital of this city. To the House of the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor of Brooklyn, the Cancer Hospital in Cherry Street, this city, the Industrial Home for the Blind in Brooklyn and the Brooklyn Hospital $25,000 each is left, and to the Brooklyn Home for Consumptives $20,000.

Railway Income Decreases.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The 1919 report of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, made public today, showing a decrease in operating income of 2.58 per cent. with a decrease of 3.87 per cent. in net income, compared with 1918.

The actual decrease in operating income was $72,001, and the decrease in net income $44,430. The gross income before deduction for rentals, taxes, funded debt, &c., decreased 1.67 per cent., or by $48,438.

The net income for the year was $1,263,000. Dividends in the preferred stock totaled $439,266. The company's profit and loss account shows a balance as of Jan. 1, 1920, of $46,965,873. The company earned $2.87 on the preferred stock in 1919 against $2.97 in 1918.

REPORTS TELEPHONE RATE BILL WITH TEETH

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—Representatives of the telephone interests were thrown into mourning today when they received news that the Assembly Judiciay Committee, after a fight lasting into the early morning hours, had decided to report a rate bill with teeth in it. It was learned tonight that the vote in the committee stood 8 to 4.

The measure reported was introduced early in the session by Assemblyman J. W. Slacer of Erie, and has been slumbering in the docket of the Judiciary Committee since its introduction. In the meantime Senator L. W. H. Gibbs of Erie has had some exciting experiences with a companion bill for which he became sponsor in the upper house.

In their original both the Slacer and Gibbs bill provided for an amendment to the public service commission law empowering the commission to suspend changes in rates for service of lighting and heating, telegraph and telephone concerns pending hearings and determination by the commission, the rates to remain suspended, however, not longer than 120 days.

Owing to the preoccupation of the Assembly Judiciary Committee with the proceedings to unseat the Socialist Assemblymen and consideration of the charges against the Anti-Saloon League, no action was taken upon the Slacer bill by the Assembly. In the Senate the Gibbs bill has been through a long run of amazing evolutions.

First, the bill was amended so as to eliminate all public utilities corporations with the exception of telephone companies from its provisions. Then another amendment was proposed and adopted under which the telephone companies, by filing a bond to insure refunds to subscribers in the event of an adverse decision by the Public Service Commission, could begin immediately to charge rates according to the new schedules they had filed with that body. On its latest return to the Committee on Public Utilities amendments were made again bringing lighting and heating corporations with telegraph and telephone companies within the scope of the bill.

In the Assembly Judiciary Committee the identical Slacer bill was amended by cutting it in two and leaving the provisions dealing with lighting and heating corporations in committee, while the part of the bill dealing with telephone companies was favorably reported. In the Slacer bill, too, the provision for filing a bond to stave off suspension of changes in rates pending a final determination of their reasonableness was omitted. The Slacer bill in its present form provides also that the burden of proof that increased rates are reasonable and justified is shifted to the telephone company.

The omission in the Slacer bill, as reported by the committee, of the provision which would empower companies to charge the highest rate after filing a bond is declared by spokesmen for the telephone interests grossly unfair.

Members of the committee, however, defend their action upon the ground that the burden of collecting the refunds would be on the subscribers. Under a similar arrangement in force while the 80-cent gas rate case was pending in court the gas companies in New York City, it was pointed out, were beneficiaries to the tune of $500,000 as the result of consumers failing to claim the funds deposited pending the final decision upholding the new rate.

A bitter fight to defeat the Slacer bill is looked for. Senator Gibbs announced today that he would insist upon his bill being amended so as to conform in all respects with the Slacer bill.

WM. HARRIGAN MARRIES.

Actor Wed to Louise Groody, Actress, by Police Judge in Newark.

William Harrigan, the actor, son of the late Ed Harrigan of Harrigan and Hart, and now leading man in "The Acquittal," was married yesterday in Newark to Miss Louise Groody, one of the principals in "The Night Boat." The ceremony was performed by Police Judge Michael J. Quigley at his office in Broad Street, the couple having gone there after waiting in vain at the City Hall for the Mayor.

The bridegroom gave his age as 33 years and his address as 7 East Forty-fifth Street, Manhattan. The bride said she was 23 years old and lived in Newark. The witnesses to the wedding were Jack Devereaux, an actor, of 59 West Forty-fourth Street, playing in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," and his wife, Mrs. Louise Drew Devereaux, an actress and daughter of John Drew.

William Harrigan was married before, on Oct. 12, 1915, to Miss Dorothy Langdon, an actress in musical comedy. He was a Captain in the war in the 307th Infantry attached to the Seventy-seventh Division.

"MANON" SUNG AGAIN.

Four Americans in the Chief Roles of Massenet's Opera.

Massenet's "Manon" was repeated before a brilliant audience at the Metropolitan last evening, a noteworthy cast presenting four American artists in the opera's principal rôles. These were Mme. Farrar as Manon, Messrs. Hackett, Whitehill and Chalmers, respectively, as the two Des Grieux, son and father, and the heroine's relative, Lescaut.

The performance had much of the true Gallic lightness and distinction under the direction of Mr. Wolff, who is said to have proposed that some of those newly engaged in it here shall take part in the same work in Paris next season at the Opéra Comique.

"Night Lodging" for the Plymouth.

Gorki's "Night Lodging," acter at the Plymouth Theatre at special matinees a few months ago, will become the regular bill at that theatre next Tuesday night. In the cast will be Gilda Varesi, Phoebe Hunt, Eva McDonald, Rosalind Ivan, Lillian Kingsburry, William H. Thompson, E. J. Ballantine, Cecil Yapp, Richard Dix, Hans Robert, Clyde North and others. The Plymouth has been dark since John Barrymore's illness compelled the withdrawal of "Richard III" last week.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Lionel Barrymore, in "The Letter of the Law," will be transferred to the Maxine Elliott at the end of next week, and the Criterion will go into pictures on April 24. "What's in a Name?" now at the Elliott, will be moved to the Lyric, and "His Honor Abe Potash" will go on tour.

Max Marcin will present "Three Live Ghosts," by F. S. Isham, at the Columbia Theatre in Far Rockaway tonight and tomorrow.

Charles Dillingham's new musical show, hitherto known as "The New Dictator," will hereafter be called "The Girl from Home." It will begin a Philadelphia engagement next Monday.

"Tomorrow," a new play by Maude Fulton, author of "The Brat," and Louis Weslyn, was produced in Oakland, Cal., last Sunday.

Mabel Taliaferro, instead of Ida St. Leon, will play the title role in "Alice in Wonderland," to be shown at special matinees at the Little Theatre beginning Monday.

Florence Moore will continue in "Breakfast in Bed" next season, and two additional companies will also be sent on the road.

George V. Hobart will collaborate with Harry Hershfield on a dramatization of the latter's cartoons, "Abie the Agent," to be produced next season.

"Princess Chrysanthemum," an entertainment for children, will be given at the Selwyn Theatre next Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Junior Art Society.

"THE MUTE" IS TRAGIC PLAY.

Jewish Art Theatre Gives A. Weyter's Work as a Memorial.

"The Mute," a tragic tale of wrecked ideals, was presented last night at the Jewish Art Theatre. It offered the eternal love triangle in a new setting, the small town Jewish household in the Russia after the days of the disastrous revolution of 1905. The play was presented as a memorial to its ill-fated creator, A. Weyter, a young revolutionist, who was murdered a year ago at Vilna by the White Guards after he had been Governor of that province for one day.

As the story unfolded it revealed the traditional Russian conflict between hope and despair in all its sombre realism. Ben Ami, as the idealist who seeks to combat slander with faith, and fails, and, embittered, vows never again to speak; Celia Adler, as the repentant bride who strives in vain to live down her past, and Mischa Gernau, as her cynic lover of bygone days, who finally achieves his sinister ends, headed a capable cast, which found many opportunities for faithfully depicting Jewish life in the Russian rural communities.

At the Irving Place Theatre last night, a double bill was offered, under the direction of Maurice Schwartz: "Thieves," a three-act drama by F. Bimko, and "Morris, the Fiddler," a one-act playlet with music, by Joseph Chernowsky. Both were well received.

"TORCH BEARER" GIVEN.

Teachers of Physical Education Take Part in Pageant.

In connection with the proceedings of the convention of the American Physical Education Association there was presented last night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music a pageant, "The Torch Bearer," in which 300 teachers and students of physical training took part.

Miss Cornelia White was the author of the pageant, with Greek, Slavic and Indian episodes under the direction of Miss Louise Baylis and an English episode presented by Charles Rabold. The auditorium was filled for the production, which was much enjoyed.

Theatre Guild Luncheon Speakers.

In celebration of the completion of its first year the Theatre Guild will give a luncheon at the Cosmopolitan Club on Wednesday of next week. The speakers will include Philip Moeller, Maurice Browne, Dudley Digges, Helen Freeman and Margaret Wycherly. The hosts of the occasion will include Mrs. Simon Flexner, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, Mrs. Henry L. Morgenthau, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Jr., Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Princess Pierre Troubetzkoy, George Pierce Baker, Walter Pritchard Eaton, William Lyon Phelps and Ernest Peixotto.

TWO SONG RECITALS.

Beatrice Martin and Anita Loew Appear in Aeolian Hall.

Beatrice Martin, a soprano singer of New York, who had to postpone her recital, announced earlier in the season, gave it in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon before a large audience. She was wise in choosing a program that for the most part was suited to her voice and style. Her voice is light, small in volume, pleasant in quality when it is allowed to be, but unfortunately her technical acquirements are not sufficient to produce the best results with it. Its emission is somewhat uncertain and its tones are too often at variance with the pitch.

She sang three charming Italian songs by Wolf-Ferrari and one by Sibella; a group of four by Felix Fourdrain, in some of which the French composer forced his melodic vein into strained modulations and changes of key without modulation; three by Schubert, and a group by Dr. Class, Mr. Hageman, who played her accompaniments with accomplished skill, Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Kramer.

Another song recital was given in the same hall last evening by Anita Loew of New York, in which she undertook a difficult program. There were airs by Lully, Gluck and Carissimi, the seven "Gypsy Songs" by Dvorak, songs by Rimsky, Korsakoff and Monssorgsky, by A. Walter Kramer and Grieg. Miss Loew has a voice of no little power and dark color, but it is not going too far to say that she is not technically equipped to sing this music as it should be sung. There are strange inequalities in her vocal production, and last evening she sang out of tune frequently and unafraid. She had as her accompanist Mr. Coenrood V. Bos, whose playing was an artistic feature of the recital.

Entertainment for Child Study.

A program of folk songs, stories and motion pictures will be given at the Eighty-first Street Theatre at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, under the auspices of the Federation for Child Study. Among those who will appear will be Bert Levy, Mrs. Katherine Burritt Deming and Eleanor Marum. Children unaccompanied by adults will be provided with escorts.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mabel Garrison will sing both the roles of the First Shepherd and the Angel in Edgar Stillman Kelley's "Pilgrim's Progress," to be sung for the first time in New York tonight at the music festival in the 71st Regiment Armory.

Reginald Werrenroth is to sing next Monday evening at the Brooklyn Academy in a benefit concert for a popular charity in that borough.

Helen Adler, soprano, and Mrs. L. Perera, violin, will give a free concert on Sunday evening at the Educational Alliance.

Samuel Baldwinn will play Scott's "Over the Prairie" in his free organ recital on Sunday afternoon at the City College.

Men's Knitted Cravats

ALL SILK

At $1.95

Fine accordeon-weave knitted cravats—the kind that never wrinkle in a hurry, tie easily into a well-shaped knot, and are seldom to be had at $1.95—even at Saks.

They come in smart shot patterns on dark grounds, creating a two-color shimmering effect. Bought over one year ago—their value in to-day's market may easily be determined by you!

We have just received the New "Saksco" Soft Collars

Four Exclusive Models

"Saksco" collars are exclusive with Saks & Company, and are superior in every particular to average soft collars. The four models just received are of fine Pique, in novelty and plain patterns. All sizes.

OBJECT-LESSONS IN FINANCE.

When Lord Salisbury divided the world into living and dying nations the United States knew the class to which it belonged. The world also may be divided into classes of nations which are more or less advanced in their economic development and financial education, and the United States has not welcomed its classification by some of the most eminent authorities on the subject. The question is not of strength of resources, but of skill in their use. Forced by necessity into objectionable financial practices, England, France and Germany sinned against their knowledge in the use of fiat currency, unbalanced budgets, floating debts and other heresies of government and trade which we practiced in our civil war. They will extricate themselves from their present difficulties sooner and easier than many have expected, because they do not need to be educated out of their practices and can make an honest profit by giving object-lessons in practical finance to such backward nations as, let us say, Argentina and the United States.

The reason for bracketing such unlike nations is that at the moment England is sending gold to both of them, although neither needs gold, and England needs it sorely. England is using the courage of skill, and the countries which are taking gold from her are showing alternately the bravery of ignorance by rash adventures in the misuse of resources, and the old-womanish conservatism which refrains from doing the right thing from fear of doing the wrong thing. We are building up our reserves which we fear to use although they are double England's, and we see our opportunities of trade being used by England. The world is clamoring for what we have to sell and eager to pay us a profit, but we refrain from selling because of our backwardness in the ways of foreign credits. We are also afraid to buy, because it seems to us necessary to pay gold. But England is showing us how to buy for cash and sell on credit, and is bettering her condition with seven-league boots while we are looking forward for the worst yet to come.

If this seems excess of modesty or self-criticism, attention may be asked to England's method in paying the Anglo-French half-billion loan, our first considerable foreign loan. Instead of eagerly taking it at something less than our domestic money rate, because it promoted domestic trade, we have allowed this choicest of foreign offerings to go begging in the market at usurious discount. That was fair notice to foreign buyers that they need offer us no trade on credit because foreign credits were not appreciated in the present stage of our financial education. We were willing to borrow and buy cheap, but we lent and sold dear. England therefore faced the necessity of meeting the maturity, and many were so naïve as to fancy that gold would be paid because so much gold was being sent here. The fact is that all our credits are gold, and that the Anglo-French loan will be paid like any other debt, in bank money or credit. The gold which is being sent here so liberally is turned into funds available for use at the due date, for the simple reason that they bear interest, and the accumulation of hundreds of millions of idle gold is a stupidity of which England is incapable.

Also, the important facts about this gold are not those which receive most attention. For the third week of March England sent to Argentina three millions of gold, against ten millions here. For the last week of March the gold sent from England to Argentina was double that sent here with such publicity, and London was informed that the bulk of gold sent here was intended for transhipment to South America, which is as backward about accommodating a good customer as ourselves. But we are sending gold to Argentina on our own account, as well as England. That we are sending on both accounts appears from the fact that we are sending more gold than the balance of our debt on merchandise movement. There is no secrecy about it. All who wish may find in the Annalist the details showing that in 1919 we owed Argentina $43,200,000 on trade movement, and sent Argentina $56,600,000 gold. There was nothing peculiar about 1919. Last Wednesday a million-dollar cargo left Buenos Aires for the United States, and in the last week of March twelve cargoes were consigned to us, worth $50,000,000.

Argentina is like ourselves in wishing to sell for gold and to borrow below the market. Argentina has a fifty-million-dollar maturity approaching in New York and wants it renewed at something like what it was accustomed to pay England when it borrowed there. Our way is to have cheap money for the Government and dear money for trade. The British way is to have dear money for the Government and cheap money for trade. British bankers regard bank reserves as for use in emergencies. Never was there so much gold sent about the world as when the world's greatest need is for the use of gold to support trade credits, instead of being passed overseas across the counter. Argentina and the United States would do well to trust each other, and both to trust the world's good borrowers. What will Argentina or the United States do with the gold which they insist upon having when their currencies are above par, or are the world's par because most of the world's currencies are depreciated?

LET THE GERMANS CHOOSE.

The German Government continues to present itself as the defender of right and justice, quite as if it were the French who had broken the Treaty. So far as it can, that Government is doing its best to represent the old German national pride and the new spirit of revenge. It holds to the old idea that Germany can break her agreements whenever convenient, and that it is an act of gross injustice to ask her to live up to them.

But while the troops which lately tried to overthrow the Ebert Government are now doing that Government's work on the Ruhr, the labor organizations which saved Ebert from Kapp have presented five demands which represent the better spirit in Germany, the spirit on which rests the hope for a demilitarized Germany and possibly ultimate reconciliation of the nations. The labor unions demand the withdrawal of troops from the neutral zone, as provided by the Treaty; no further advance of regular troops elsewhere; the substitution of specially organized defense bodies for the regulars in other districts; the punishment of untrustworthy officers and stopping of supplies to counter-revolutionary troops, and the substitution of forces organized from the labor groups for the Safety Police. The first of these, the withdrawal from the Ruhr, is what the French demand; let the German troops evacuate the neutral zone and the French will promptly march out of Frankfort and Darmstadt. Still more important is the demand for punishment of the counter-revolutionary Junkers, who seem to be able to push the Ebert Government this way and that just as readily as they did before the Kapp affair.

If the German Government meets these demands, made by a powerful element in its own people, the French will go back to the Rhine and there will be an end of the incident. If it refuses, if Ebert continues to do the work of Ludendorff, the German revolution must be regarded as still incomplete. But Americans ought to understand that the Germans on whom we can count, with whom we could co-operate, are taking the French side of the dispute; behind the German Government stands the old military class. American sentiment will not hesitate in its preference.

UNAMERICAN STRIKES.

The Bolshevist Premier of Russia said the other day that sovietism's miracle of victory was due to "centralization, discipline and sacrifice." Signs are conflicting whether our labor movement is marching under the same banner with the same elements of success. It lacks sacrifice certainly, preferring to profit by the sacrifices and hardships it imposes upon others, with as few scruples of morality or humanity as Lenin himself possesses, or at least shows. But there are constant strikes, with evidences of central origin and control, but of little discipline. They have the appearance of strikes brought about by agitators working for a common purpose, the domination of industry.

Authorized spokesmen for our harbor strikers threaten sympathetic strikes by millions in defense of the war-won eight-hour day and boast their power and intention to blockade the food supply of other millions. Mr. Gompers, being appealed to, disapproves that "ideal," but affirms that the organization which he controls represents workers whose families include one-quarter of the population of the nation. The Federation indorses the harbor strike and Mr. Gompers justifies "any steps" the men take to improve their working conditions.

In Kansas there is now an example of the Federation's conservatism. The United Mine Workers is one of the most numerous and best organized unions within the Federation, and on Tuesday it declined to answer the summons to appear before the Kansas Industrial Court because it does not "recognize" this creation of the Kansas Legislature. This Kansas miners' strike, it must be remembered, is a strike against an award by President Wilson's Federal Commission, and, although indorsed by Mr. Gompers on behalf of the Federation, it sprang up locally, being a so-called outlaw or wildcat strike.

Another strike of the Kansas sort is going on in Chicago. Switchmen can block many railways, and nobody knows better than strikers the crippling effect of the stopping of a key industry. Thousands are made idle by a strike of hundreds or even scores, and there are sporadic switchmen's strikes in many cities. The Railway Brotherhoods are flirting with the Federation, and there have been conflicting reports recently regarding their affiliation with it. The Brotherhoods have condemned the switchmen's strikes, calling the strikers "renegades" and sending union switchmen to work as strikebreakers. Twenty-three Brotherhood officials signed a notice to the strikers that they will forfeit their union membership unless they return to work forthwith, with the result that firemen and enginemen joined the strikers and refused to work with the union "scabs."

With our labor movement in this confused state it is difficult to doubt that there is some common impulse which causes strikes in such numbers, with such sympathetic relationships and with such demonstration of a design to win rather by force than on the merits of the industrial struggle. Does Mr. Gompers know what is going on in his organization, or has he lost control to the "borers from within"? What are non-unionists to think of strikes for domination, with the ruthlessness of the foreign Soviets, although under cover of professions of Americanism, brotherhood and humanity?

PRIMARIES.

Senator Johnson, so successful in the primaries of Michigan, fruitful this year as they were four years ago in extremes, in curiosities, one might almost say in jokes, if the radicalism of Detroit were a joke and not a disease, is naturally displeased with the poor old New York primary system. Michigan gives him a fat plurality. In New York his primary dignity scarcely exceeds that of an "also ran." Therefore the New York primary system is "merely a left-handed" way by which the bosses control the "situation." Whatever the iniquity of the New York primary, Mr. Johnson still turns confidently to the virtue of the New Jersey system. He hopes that will produce a plurality for virtue.

The New York system may be successfully attacked on many grounds. It is a negation of representative party government and responsible party control. It is easy for the boss, if he cares for its results. It is easy for organized minority demonstrations, like that of Mr. William M. Bennett, now an ardent Johnsonian. Whatever the faults, glaring and unpardonable, of the New York primary system, at least it doesn't nourish the free and easy methods of some States of the West. Irresponsible as it is, it doesn't allow Democrats to overflow Republican primaries and vice versa. It is not intelligent. It is not just. In effect, it is not honest; but there are States in which the primary system is lamentably worse and more pernicious than that of New York.

Mr. William G. McAdoo's criticisms and questions of the Presidential primary system are, perhaps, more altruistic and general than Mr. Johnson's, but are they really better founded or more tenable? He repeats the obvious fact that only a small percentage of voters participate in State primaries for Presidential candidates, and that the delegates are sometimes instructed by an absurd minority of voters. How would things be changed if, as Mr. McAdoo proposes, there should be a Federal primary law? Is Federal legislation so rare that the voters who won't go to a State primary will go eagerly, patriotically and reverentially to a Federal primary?

One great trouble with the Presidential primary is that it means nothing. It is a nursery of obscurities and waggeries. If it is to be of any use at all, it must be as an expression of the sentiment and desire of a party in regard to candidates. That it is not. That, apparently, it can't be made. Mr. McAdoo wants uninstructed delegates. He wants a really deliberative national convention. That would be wise. That may be possible in Utopia, but it makes a superfluity or an absurdity of the primary, State or Federal. In that, theoretically, "the will of the people," that is the will of the voters of each party about Presidential candidates, is expressed. If no attention is to be paid to that expression, if the oracle of the people is not to be followed, what is the object of Presidential primaries? A national convention of uninstructed delegates with open minds is to meet. Good. The old constitutional theory of Electors of President and Vice President was good, according to the essentially conservative or aristocratic opinions of 1787, but it didn't work. Neither does the primary.

WISCONSIN TRUE TO FORM.

Senator La Follette is in the habit of carrying Wisconsin. That he should capture the delegation to the National Convention is no miracle since he has taken a La Follette delegation into the last three that have been held. This will make the fourth time that the country has been treated to that spectacle, so it is pretty well used to it. Now and then he meets with a reverse, but never in the election of delegates to a National Convention.

Wisconsin radicalism wears a somewhat different aspect from radicalism in other States, in that while it represents the same ideas it is in the leash of one man, who works with other radicals only as he chooses. He has not even given any indication that he will cast his strength to Johnson, the most radical of the candidates, though it is difficult to see where else he can cast it. His delegations have been in the habit of voting for himself, at least in the early stages of the balloting. His conceit is so great, and he is so blind to all other considerations, that it is quite conceivable he thinks the lightning may strike him next June, and for that reason has refrained from giving any encouragement to the Johnson movement.

He is so strong that the opposition faction did not dare declare for any candidate, but fought only for uninstructed delegates. It is made of many stanch Americans and of other elements shading off into a pro-Germanism barely distinguishable from La Follette's own. Even Senator Lenroot voted against the tabling of the McLemore resolution when he was in the House, and Governor Philipp, who headed the opposition in the primaries just held, but who ran far behind the lowest candidate on the La Follette ticket, straddled the fence as much as he could during most of the war. Pro-Germanism is and always has been so strong in Wisconsin that hardly any leading politician, except the late Senator Husting, dared to take an out-and-out anti-German stand, though there was plenty of the purest American patriotism among the rank and file and in the newspapers.'

So Senator La Follette's renewal of victory means merely that "the Dutch have taken Holland." A radical victory has been won again in a State that gives such victories with constant reiteration. The delegation will presumably vote for La Follette until even his vanity cannot withstand the proof that he cannot be nominated, and then swing reluctantly and ungraciously to Johnson; and La Follette will again satisfy himself with the assurance that he just missed it by an inch and would have got it if he had not been "betrayed." The individual or faction that betrays La Follette in each convention may differ, but the betrayal is always there.

RENT LAWS IN PRACTICE.

The first application of the new rent laws has, to all appearances, justified their enactment. The fact is the more encouraging because it took place in the Bronx, where profiteering has been widespread and the public resentment clamorous. In eviction cases, when Justice Robitzek granted stays that ran as long as a year, there were tumultuous cheers from the tenants who thronged the court; but there were also demonstrations of approval when he granted as "reasonable" increases over the rental of April, 1919, which, while less than the landlord demanded, averaged well up toward 20 per cent. No better evidence could be forthcoming that the exactions of many landlords have been wolfish and that the public is disposed to welcome the policy of live and let live.

Very gratifying also, and more than a little surprising, is the fact that, out of the 400 profiteering cases that came before him in a single day, Justice Robitzek disposed of some 360 by direct decision from the bench, and with no recorded protest. The result was doubtless facilitated by the fact that many of the cases were identical in character, coming in groups from the same apartment house. Yet the facts seem to have been well sifted, including the question of the amount of repairs allowed during the term of the lease. In one case in which the landlord had spent a substantial sum an increase of 25 per cent. was allowed. Chairman Hilly of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering points out that under the law the courts might grant an increase of 50 per cent. over the rental of last year, though he admitted that such a case was hypothetical and "academic," as no landlord as yet discovered had been lenient enough to make such an advance justified. The commonest case of oppression was that in which landlords have required tenants to sign leases taking effect next October which call for an increase of 25 per cent. In a large proportion of such cases, Mr. Hilly says, if the tenants will bring their cause to court the advance will be measurably reduced.

Important as these developments are to tenants now in possession, they have a far wider significance as affecting the problem of new construction. Permanent relief can come only when the supply of apartments is adequate to the needs of a rapidly growing population. The rejoicing of the tenants would be vain if prospective builders were discouraged from facing the many uncertainties in the market for labor and for building materials, and the equally great uncertainty in the supply of money on mortgage. Thus far the rent increases have erred, if at all, on the side of liberality. No builder need be discouraged by the fear of being denied an attractive profit.

PARTISANSHIP AND THE CONSTITUTION.

According to a special rule reported Wednesday by the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives, that body will vote at 5 o'clock this afternoon upon the resolution to declare the war at an end. Senate Document Fifty-six, issued by the Fifty-fourth Congress, is a report of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations of that day. In the simplest and clearest way it utters in advance an unconscious judgment on the frivolous and fruitless proceeding to which the Republicans of the House have committed themselves:

> If any given power belongs to the executive branch of the Government, presumptively it does not belong to the legislative branch.

Under the Constitution, Congress has specifically the power to declare war. The power to make peace by treaty is shared by the President and the Senate. For more than a hundred years it has been the prevailing theory of the Constitution and the actual fact that control of foreign relations is an executive duty which rests upon the President. The President possesses the initiative in foreign relations. A joint resolution of both houses or a single resolution by either is no more than an academic expression of opinion. Peace is not so made. Doubtless Mr. Wilson will have an honest pleasure in repeating for the instruction of Congress, should it need instruction on this subject, the convincing and ironic remarks made by Richard Olney, Secretary of State, in regard to certain expressions of opinion by Congress about the foreign policy of the United States. It is in the power, and it may be in the pleasure, of Congress, for partisan or political reasons, to utter the thoughts that arise in it in regard to foreign relations. In point of efficacy, such resolutions are mere wind and foam.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Making the Best of Old Age.

Seventy years is not really such an advanced age, declares Dr. William S. Welch, long and highly eminent as pathologist at Johns Hopkins and still very active in directing the School of Hygiene and Public Health. As Dr. Welch has just rounded out the allotted three score and ten, he speaks from experience as well as knowledge, but even he probably would admit that he is not as young as he was thirty or forty years ago.

Of course, old age does have its compensations, when good health goes with it, but the compensations are all of a negative character, and the best of them are not enviable by those in possession of youth, the most precious of all treasures in spite of its numerous troubles and dangers.

Being wise, Dr. Welch does not eulogize old age; he merely declares that it can be endured with calmness by philosophers, and an analysis of what he says brings out that in his own case he finds his seventy years a burden easily carried because he retains some of the bodily and all of the mental activities that are the common possession of ambitious and fortunate youth. In other words, he doesn't much mind being old, because he is still young.

As a matter of fact, age and youth are not matters of years. Senescence may begin at any time and it may be long delayed. What is called—ever so vaguely!—"constitution" seems largely to determine the arrival of the dreaded hour when powers begin to fail, and "constitution" is a legacy, not an achievement.

Duty and Interest Conflicting.

A significant admission was made by Dr. Welch. The old man, he said in effect, faces a trying dilemma in that retirement, the cessation of his accustomed activities, has its serious dangers for him as an individual, but he is under something of an obligation to make place betimes for the oncoming generation. To linger on the stage as long as he can gives him his best chance of personal survival, but to do so creates a weary waiting for youth and robs it of its rights.

That is a defensible presentation, and of its truth everybody can mention illustrations, but it is a theory, too, that can be attacked with some hope of success, for in it lurks a fallacy—the fallacy that there is in the world a fixed amount of work to do and of rewards to win, and that what one man does and has deprives another of the chance to do and have.

The converse of these statements is not easily proved, yet the converse is sound, up to a certain point, at least. That is about all that can be said of any statement out of mathematics, and even mathematics recently received an appreciable jolt from the disturbing Dr. Einstein. He has not thrown doubt on the multiplication table—as yet or for use in grammar schools—but from the revered axioms of geometry he has removed a prop or two, and they were none too firmly established when he turned his attention to them.

Retirement from business or profession is only dangerous, or at any rate is most dangerous, for men who have failed to provide themselves with more than one interest in life. But that is a hard saying, too, for they are just the men who make the successes in life. The embarrassing conclusion is to be escaped only by denying reality to their successes. It can be done, but usually it is done by those who have not made a success of any kind.

Suburbanites Taking Great Risks.

Among the grievances laid before the "Flying Squadron" now here engaged in the hunt for profiteers is one against coal dealers, formulated by some surprisingly courageous residents of New Rochelle. That they complain is surprising, because the suburbanite learned during the war to be very cautious in his treatment of coal dealers, for to be on bad terms with one of them meant that he could get fuel from none, and that was a most unpleasant predicament. They found it wise, therefore, to submit to everything, to pay what was demanded, and not to show resentment even when the man from whom coal had been bought for twenty years or so cut off all credit and made the drivers demand payment in full before they began to unload.

That form of severity is now somewhat mitigated in the suburbs—for customers with a good reputation—but the good old days have not returned. The suburbanite well remembers when, if he ordered his Winter supply of coal in April, he got the April price, the lowest of the year, though delivery was made at the dealer's convenience any time before Fall. Now the April order is received, filed and acknowledged, but with the acknowledgment comes notification that payment will be at prices current when delivery—still at the dealer's convenience—is made.

This is a new form of bargaining, a new business method. The coal dealers have every reason to like it, but to the coal-buying householder it seems to be of jughandle architecture—all on one side and the one side not his.

As for present prices for anthracite, the New Rochelle complainants to the Flying Squadron spoke of $12.95 and $13.30. In the once famous play "Adonis" the lady who was looking at tidies asked, when Mr. Dixey told her their price, "Isn't that high—for tidies?" and he answered, "No—not for tidies!" So, $12.95 and $13.30 are not high—not for coal—when you must have it, no matter what it costs.

Everybody Is Glad to See Him.

San Diego has given the Prince of Wales a welcome of the warmth to which he became accustomed when he was on this side of the continent. Therefore it safely can be assumed that his reception would be of like cordiality anywhere in the United States. One would like to deduce from the Prince's American experiences, and probably that, too, would be safe, that of real animosity to England there is very little in this country and that the little there is can be considered of no importance.

To be sure, this visitor is young and a Prince, which makes him interesting and likable, even in a democracy, especially as his manners are simple and his theories of royal rights are sane. But he is thoroughly British, and in high degree he represents and stands for the British Government. Yet never a hostile cry is raised against him, and his only perils are from too many big dinners and too many long speeches, the inevitable evidences of good-will.

A most useful ambassador is this boyish Prince. He is serving his country well, as he should, but he is serving us also, for he enables us to disclose to ourselves and others that old animosities are dead or dying fast, and that though some of us, in the heat of politics, do stupid and boorish things, we expect them to be understood and ignored by the objects of a hostility that is only pretended.

An Alsatian's Language Problem.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to correct a statement in a letter in The Times by stating that Esperanto is not a jargon but a language which has a fixed grammar, known to be better than that of any existing national language. It is simple and clear in spelling, reading, writing, dictation, singing and talking and practical in its use whether for business, scientific or political transactions.

My concern has been using Esperanto for several years in business and entertains correspondence with nearly all countries. For thirty years I know French, for eight English, making still many mistakes in using both languages. I cannot clearly pronounce such words as: World, worth, earth, though, thought, nor can I make any differentiation in pronouncing the words hidden place and hidden plays. As to French, I serve you with this sentence: "Si six scies scient six cypres combien de scies scient soixante-six cypres!" I am an Alsatian and I don't want you to pronounce the German words Hecht, Pfeife, Pfruende, Zwetschkenknoedel, because you could never do it! Yet an Esperantist would be able with the Esperanto letters to pronounce them better than any one else. Any Englishman having learned Esperanto is able to pronounce the words Pripet, Cerna, Trieste, Fiume, Bukarest, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Ukrainia, Moskva, Petrograd, Zara, Spalato, Dubrovnik, Sarajevo, Cetinje, Vladivostok, Vladikavkaz, Blagoviestchensk, etc.

Esperanto is in fact a living language, spoken among its admirers and in international congresses, where more than forty-five nationalities have met.

"Concurrent Power."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There has been considerable discussion recently as to the meaning and effect of the word "concurrent" as used in the Eighteenth Amendment, commonly referred to as the "prohibition amendment," and many conflicting theories have been advanced.

In this connection the use of the word "concurrent" by the Supreme Court of the United States, in some of its decisions dealing with the concurrent power of the States and Congress to pass laws regulating railroad rates, may be of considerable significance.

For example, in its opinion in the case of Southern Railway Company vs. Reid (222 U. S. 424), the Supreme Court at page 436 says: "It is well settled that if the State and Congress have a concurrent power, that of the State is superseded when the power of Congress is exercised." And the court goes on to discuss the question as to what extent and how directly the power must be exercised by Congress to have such effect.

The Supreme Court has repeatedly declared that "as to those subjects which require a general system or uniformity of regulation the power of Congress is exclusive. In other matters, admitting of diversity of treatment, according to the special requirements of local conditions, the States may act within their respective jurisdictions until Congress sees fit to act; and, when Congress does act, the exercise of its authority overrides all conflicting State legislation."

A CONFESSION.

I sit by you, Confessor-wise,
  While you confide your griefs to me;
Already start from brimming eyes
  The tears I give in sympathy.

You count them o'er; you hesitate;
  You scarce can trust the light of day;
Your earnest eyes elaborate
  The trials you have heart to say.

You play your game; and I, no less,
  But what a hypocrite I feel!
The ills I must not even guess—
  How can I hope to help, to heal?

Make no mistake! These tears that flow
  For griefs expressed are seldom shed,
But for the thing you've kept from me—
  The sorrow you have left unsaid.

EMILY LOUISE WHITING.

FRENCH ART EXHIBIT HERE.

To be Under Direction of French Ministry and Permanent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 8.—Under the direction of the French Ministry of Beaux Arts a permanent exhibition of French art and artistic production is shortly to be opened in New York, and to make the final arrangements Charles Plumet, the famous French architect, has just sailed for America.

Before leaving he disclosed something of his plans and discussed the nature and aims of the exhibition. It is to be housed in a building entirely furnished and decorated with French work of the modern kind.

"America is saturated with French work of the eighteenth century and other great epochs," was one of M. Plumet's declarations, and he makes no secret that the object of the exhibition will be to show French modern work and prove to America that it is better than German.

Like many other Frenchmen, he declares that the country is crushed beneath its past, but he denies that it cannot any longer produce. On the contrary, he declares that a fine era of production and artistic creation is just beginning, which, while following French tradition, does not merely copy the old.

The basis of M. Plumet's whole attitude toward the national art is that it conforms to national conditions and changes of circumstances. In one concrete example he laid bare his point of view and the folly of slavish traditionalism. "Is it not," he asked, "most frightful nonsense to make an elevator car in the style of Louis XVI.?"

That is a crime of which French architects have been not unfrequently guilty in the last twenty years, but it is a crime which is never repeated by the modern school which M. Plumet represents.

Since 1895, when their period began, they have been somewhat overshadowed by the Germans, who were quick to seize and exploit what were originally French ideas for modern decoration. Aided by their exhibitions and prizes they succeeded in relegating France to a very secondary place, at least in commercial exploitation, and it is with the object of recovering the lost ground and taking the lead that M. Plumet is going to New York with the Government's backing to organize the exhibition.

ALBANY PASSES CITY BILLS.

Senate Democrats Charge Republicans Plan to Split Machine Here.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—Democratic members of the Senate today, while the Downing bill to abolish the office of City Chamberlain was under debate, expressed amazement at the interest in affairs exclusively concerning the City of New York displayed by their Republican colleagues from up-State.

The bill was introduced on behalf of Controller Craig and is regarded as a blow aimed at Mayor Hylan, with whom just now the Controller is at war. Under its provisions all machinery, as well as the powers and functions of the City Chamberlain's office, are transferred to the office of the Controller.

After the Downing bill had been passed the Republicans lent themselves to the promotion of some measures introduced on behalf of the Hylan administration while Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, sat in the Senate chamber.

Senator James J. Walker, leader of the Democratic minority in the upper house, charged openly that the Republicans had got behind the Downing bill for the purpose of promoting strife among the Democrats of New York City.

The bill was passed by a vote of 34 to 14, only one Republican, Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara, voting against it.

After the passage of the bill the Senate without a murmur of dissent advanced to the order of final reading the Lynch bill conferring power upon the Board of Estimate to lay out bus routes, to contract for the manufacture of buses and to appropriate $1,000,000 toward the cost of operation for the first year.

Another Hylan bill advanced was that amending the Charter provisions enacted last year and related to the newly created Board of Purchase, of which Commissioner Whalen is Chairman.

NEW PRINCETON TRUSTEES.

E. D. Duffield and L. B. Stillwell Are Elected to Board.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 8.—Edward D. Duffield of South Orange, N. J., and Louis B. Stillwell of Lakewood, N. J., were elected today to the Board of Trustees of Princeton University at the April meeting of that body. Mr. Duffield will succeed Dr. John De Witt of Princeton, '61, a member of the board for many years. Dr. De Witt recently resigned. Mr. Stillwell will succeed the late Archibald D. Russell.

Mr. Duffield was graduated from Princeton in 1892. He is Vice President of the Prudential Insurance Company of Newark. Mr. Stillwell is a member of the Royal Society of Arts and of the British Institute of Electrical Engineering, and was at one time President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

James D. Denegre of St. Paul, Minn., was re-elected for a three-year term as regional trustee from the Northwest.

Moses Taylor Pyne, '77, J. O. H. Pitney and Charles McAlpin presented to the university the original of a petition sent in 1781 by Dr. John Witherspoon, President of Princeton, to the Governor of New Jersey, asking to reduce the trustees' quorum from twelve members to nine during those troublous days.

WINS AID IN CATHOLIC DRIVE.

Archbishop's Plea Spurs Workers in Campaign for Charities.

Spurred by the words of Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes at the dinner tendered him in the Hotel Commodore by prominent Catholic laymen on Wednesday night, volunteer workers in the drive to collect $500,000 for the present needs of the Catholic charities, which begins on April 17, yesterday announced their determination to bend every effort to raise an even larger amount. The Archbishop's plea for their service in the various activities of the diocese has not gone unheeded and many [illegible] to devote their time to other tasks [illegible].

Archbishop Hayes's reference to Americanization struck a popular appeal among the 500 laymen who heard it. He told them that the Catholic Church loved America and wanted to co-operate wholeheartedly in any movement which worked for the betterment of our country. With great earnestness, Archbishop Hayes dwelt on the service of the Church.

"If you give me $10,000,000 and left me alone I [illegible]. Money in this instance does not count; it is only a condition. What I want and what I am pleading for is a larger service from the Catholic laity of my diocese, a service that will reach out and get into the lives of our poor people."

Mr. Gillespie is chairman of the Executive Committee of the campaign. The others associated with him are W. Bourke Cockran, Nicholas F. Brady, William D. Guthrie, Henry Heide, Morgan J. O'Brien, John G. Agar and George MacDonald.

PAPERMAKERS PLAN TO AID PUBLISHERS

Firms Will Ask Customers to Release Portion of Contracts for More Needy.

CONFERENCE FIXES METHOD

Scheme Contemplates National Organization—See Greater Supply, but 7% Shortage in 1920.

A plan to supply newsprint paper to publishers who are facing suspension of their publications because of inability to obtain a supply in the open market was agreed upon yesterday at a conference of representatives of paper manufacturers at the office of the Newsprint Service Bureau, 18 East Forty-first Street, according to Willard E. Carpenter, publisher of the Courier-Herald of Lincoln, Ill., and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Inland Daily Press Association, composed of newspapers of the thirteen central States. Mr. Carpenter, who came to New York City on this errand, said that a national organization would be built up to supply publishers in need and said that sufficient support had already been obtained to insure the success of the plan.

Mr. Carpenter said that the International Paper Company and George H. Mead of Dayton, Ohio, the principal paper manufacturing and distributing firms represented at the conference, had written to their customers asking the latter to release 1 or 2 per cent. of the amount of paper called for by their contracts during the months of April, May and June. It is proposed to use this paper to relieve hard-pressed publishers who are shown upon investigation to be unable to obtain a sufficient supply through the usual trade channels. Distribution will be through the Newsprint Service Bureau and committees to be appointed in each State at the price fixed in each contract.

Mr. Carpenter denied recently published reports that the supply of print paper is dwindling. "On the contrary," he said, "the amount of paper which will be produced this year in the United States and Canada will be 10 per cent. greater than the amount produced last year. The shortage is due to an increased demand, which is almost entirely due to the great increase in advertising, which had been dammed by the war and was released with comparative suddenness instead of developing gradually."

Figures compiled by the Newsprint Service Bureau showed that 2,400,000 tons of paper will be produced in 1920, as compared with 2,182,000 tons in 1919, Mr. Carpenter said. "This was an increase of at least 25 per cent.," he said, "over the amount manufactured five years ago."

Mr. Carpenter said he was satisfied by personal investigation that the paper manufacturers were doing everything possible to increase production, and stated that before the end of 1920 new paper machines would be installed which would increase the manufacturing capacity by 65,000 tons a year.

He said that the shortage of print paper this year would probably be about 7 per cent. of the amount demanded. Some publications would be forced to suspend, largely because of the increased price rather than because of an actual inability to get paper, he said, but the number had been exaggerated.

Favors Newsprint Tariff Relief.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The House bill permitting the importation duty-free of newsprint paper valued at eight cents or less a pound was reported favorably today by the Senate Finance Committee. The measure has been urged by many publishers. Under the present law the duty-free value is five cents or less.

O'BRIEN SUCCEEDS BURR.

New Corporation Counsel Named by Mayor Hylan.

John P. O'Brien, Assistant Corporation Counsel since 1901, yesterday was appointed Corporation Counsel by Mayor Hylan to succeed William P. Burr, recently appointed to the Supreme Court bench by Governor Smith. Mr. O'Brien's salary will be $15,000 a year. He lives at 253 West 105th Street. As head of the Franchise Bureau of the Law Department Mr. O'Brien has helped his former chief in traction proceedings and particularly in the present Board of Estimate inquiry. It is said he will continue the present inquiry as the city's legal representative.

Mr. O'Brien had charge of the Kings County Lighting Company and the Consolidated Gas Company cases. He has served under Corporation Counsels Whalen, Delaney, Ellison, Pendleton, Watson, Polk, Hardy and Burr. The Mayor had difficulty in deciding between Mr. O'Brien and Assistant Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, who has been in the Law Department many years, and since Mr. Burr's resignation has been in charge of the office. The Mayor chose Mr. O'Brien, he said, because of his seniority and his familiarity with traction matters.

WANTS SIX-TRACK TUNNEL.

Broadway Association Favors Wide Concrete Route to Jersey.

At the quarterly meeting of the Broadway Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday, resolutions were adopted asking Governor Smith of New York and Governor Edwards of New Jersey, and the Legislatures of both States, to consider the building of a concrete tunnel with six roadways under the Hudson, instead of the twin-tube four roadway type chosen by the engineers.

T. Kennard Thomas, a civil engineer, submitted a plan providing for a six-roadway tunnel which he said would be a better and more serviceable tunnel than the one proposed. John F. O'Rourke, who has been advocating a concrete tunnel, also spoke as did E. W. Taylor, editor of Rider and Driver, and Deputy Police Commissioner F. A. Wallis.

The New York and New Jersey Tunnel Commission thoroughly investigated all types of tunnel and on the report of their board of Consulting Engineers, and of their chief engineer, Clifford M. Holland, for the twin-tube type.

ELEVATED CUTS SERVICE.

Curtailment Due to Decrease in Returns, Says Statement.

Service on the elevated lines operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company has been reduced because of a steady decrease in returns. Complaint made yesterday to the Public Service Commission that the service was inadequate was met with the statement that President Frank Hedley of the Interborough Company had threatened some time ago to cut service on the elevated trains if the returns continued to be unsatisfactory.

The elevated lines have run about $4,000,000 a year behind operating expenses and costs. Inspectors of the commission reported that during the rush hours 80 per cent. of the passengers [illegible]. The commission is still investigating the service.

WOULD BAR LAYMEN FROM CONFERENCES

AGAINST INTERCHURCH MOVE

Passes Resolution Upholding Anderson — Dry Leader Says He Will Never Apologize to Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 8.—After a spirited debate the New York Methodist Conference, in annual session at St. James's Church, this city, voted against admitting laymen into membership of the annual Methodist conferences throughout the United States. Only eighteen votes were cast in favor of admitting laymen, and 146 votes were cast against it.

This question was sent down to the annual conferences for action by the last General Methodist Conference, and will be reported back next month at the quadrennial general conference to be held at Des Moines, Iowa. Tomorrow the chief business will be the election of six laymen by the Lay Electoral Conference.

The first speech against admitting laymen was made by the Rev. Dr. James Roscoe Day, Chancellor of Syracuse University. His stand was supported in speeches made successively by the Rev. Dr. Fields of Ossining, the Rev. Dr. Arthur Thompson, pastor of Fordham Church, New York City; the Rev. Dr. Jacob E. Price, pastor of Washington Heights Church, New York City; the Rev. Dr. Andrew Schriver, retired, of Chester, N. Y.; the Rev. Dr. Ezra Tipple, President of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., and Dr. Macmullen.

The only man who spoke in favor of admitting laymen was the Rev. Dr. Frank J. Belcher, in charge of Five Points Mission, New York City.

Condemn Interchurch Movement.

The Interchurch World Movement came in for severe adverse criticism and at times half a dozen men were on their feet at once.

Dr. Tipple introduced a resolution to the effect that a campaign be entered upon to bring the endowment fund of the Conference up to $600,000. He explained that at present it is $355,000.

The Rev. Dr. George M. Fowles, Treasurer of the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church, stirred up the trouble by offering the following amendment:

"Resolved, that this commission be authorized to arrange with the Interchurch World Movement that this campaign may be included in the general financial program of that movement."

It was pointed out that this would conflict with the interchurch campaign. Dr. Hermance had remarked that he thought the conference had enough love for the Methodist Church to conduct this campaign without any outside help.

Dr. Tipple said he believed "it would be utterly fatal to this particular campaign to tie itself up to the interchurch movement."

Dr. Macmullen remarked he "thought it would be unfortunate for this conference to go on record as opposing the Interchurch World Movement."

Dr. Fowle's amendment was finally passed, in spite of the opposition of 70 as against 40 votes.

At the invitation of the Temperance Committee, William H. Anderson came here and addressed the conference this evening in one of his characteristic attacks on the State Legislature. When he concluded the conference adopted resolutions indorsing him.

DR. JOHN A. BRASHEAR, SCIENTIST, IS DEAD

PITTSBURGH, April 8.—Dr. John Alfred Brashear, for nearly forty years one of the foremost makers of astronomical instruments in the world, died Wednesday night, at the age of 80, in his home here. Recently he had devoted much of his time to disbursing the Henry C. Frick fund for public school teachers.

He began life as a machinist in a rolling mill, but early set out to manufacture for himself the most perfect telescope he could construct. Working in his own lodgings, after ten hours in the mill, he succeeded, aided by his wife, in producing instruments of such high calibre that Dr. Langley of the Allegheny Observatory across the river called the attention of his patron, William Thaw, to him. The result was that Brashear was enabled to leave the mill and founded in 1880 the workshop that later sent out some of the finest pieces of astronomical mechanism ever made.

Among the Brashear achievements was the discovery of the standard method of silvering astronomical mirrors, the making of the first spectroscope in 1885 for the Madison Observatory and the great spectroscope for the Lick Observatory, the manufacture for the French Government of the optical train for the refractometer to measure the value of the meter in terms of light waves.

JAMES G. COLLINS DEAD.

Highway Superintendent Who Long Contested His Dismissal.

James G. Collins, who was Superintendent of Highways of New York City in 1902 and 1903, until he was ousted by Borough President John F. Ahearn, died Wednesday night of a hemorrhage at his home, 175 East 116th Street, in his 61st year. He was in the plumbing business at his home address, having practiced the trade since youth.

Mr. Collins had become prominent in local Democratic politics when he was made Highway Superintendent. He did not accept his dismissal meekly. He sued the city for reinstatement and salary and was reinstated by the courts in 1911. Mayor Gaynor countered, however, by abolishing the office. The lawsuit has been up time and again, and on nearly every occasion the original plaintiff won, but the Corporation Counsel continued the fight on fresh points. Thus the salary claims grew to more than $40,000. The action is now almost, though not quite, settled, a cash payment having been made by the city in 1916.

John Jay Orvis Dies at 80.

John Jay Orvis, organizer of building and loan associations, died on Wednesday at his residence, 1,281 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, at the age of 80 years. He was for several years a salesman for manufacturers of agricultural implements and later conceived the idea of amalgamating several companies, raised capital and formed a large combination now known as the J. I. Case Implement Company.

Said to be Shakespeare Descendant.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 8.—John Dolbey, 82 years old, said to be a direct descendant of William Shakespeare, died today in the Home for Aged Men and Couples, where he and Mrs. Dolbey were living. He had been a shoemaker here for twenty-five years. He fought during the Sepoy mutiny in India.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica states that Shakespeare's family became extinct in 1670.

Police Commissioner of New York in 1902 Was Long Prominent in Public Life.

John Nelson Partridge, better known to New Yorkers as Colonel Partridge, the title resulting from his eight years' command of the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Westport, Conn., where he had lived for the last fifteen years. Born in Leicester, Mass., in 1838, after the civil war he settled in Brooklyn and made that his home for forty years.

Colonel Partridge, until age restricted his activities, played a prominent part in the public life of New York and the old Borough of Brooklyn, and from 1886 to 1897 was President of the Brooklyn City & Newtown Railroad. Included in a long list of public offices he held were: Fire Commissioner and Police Commissioner of Brooklyn in the eighties, State Superintendent of Public Works, Police Commissioner of New York City in 1902 under Mayor Low. It was during his tenure of this last position that he brought forward the project of moving Police Headquarters from Mulberry Street to Times Square.

Of All Man's Work.

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"What good does all that beauty do?" said a widow in her first grief, seeing the marvelous works of art distributed throughout The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, "the dead cannot enjoy it."

God must be an idealist, a lover of beauty; for while some of us push beauty aside, He has filled the universe with it.

Alone with nature, you find peace and consolation.

"Of all man's work of art, a cathedral is greatest; a vast and majestic tree is greater than that," said Henry Ward Beecher.

That is the reason Mr. Frank E. Campbell made The Funeral Church a temple of the Beautiful, of Art, of Quietude.

The dead cannot enjoy the beauty of The Funeral Church, but the living can; and the fond remembrances of the last rites beautifully rendered make life's hard roads easier, burdens bearable.

And, do not forget, The Funeral Church, non-sectarian, with its ample seating, and executed in purest Gothic style, is available without charge.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 8.—Yadkin County, native heath of Ernie Shore, saw two things here today for which it has waited patiently these many months. Among other rarities it saw Babe Ruth hit what was probably his record drive of a long and celebrated career, a smash that topped the right field picket fence at the Fair Grounds here, a matter of some 600 feet distant from the home plate, and it saw Ernie Shore pitch a winning game in his own backyard, somethnig heretofore denied Yadkin more by chance than through any fault of Ernie's.

Incidentally it saw the Yanks win a ball game from the Dodgers, 3 to 0, which was considerable of a novelty.

All the action was confined to the sixth inning and the major part of that was furnished by Ruth. Young Conlan was trotted out by Robbie as the sacrificial offering and the Yanks lost no time in taking advantage of the situation. Peck singled at the outset and Pipp sacrificed, whereupon Ruth took a toe hold at the plate and slammed the ball high and far over the heads of the assembled multitude, overflowing the outfield.

Although the ball cleared the short fence and bounced across the track Ruth was forced to return to second because of ground rules.

According to those who witnessed both performances, the wallop exceeded Ruth's record hit at Tampa last year, which was estimated to have traveled all of 550 feet before touching the ground.

Dineen Calls One Foul.

Naturally Yadkin and Environs waxed enthusiastic, particularly since Ruth had shot a previous blow over the heads of the crowd in the fourth inning and another in the eighth that Dineen ruled foul, though many stationed in the vicinity of the ball's ultimate resting place thought otherwise. Both would have been home runs on any major league park, taking it for granted that Dineen erred in the latter instance.

The Ruth clout of the sixth followed by Lewis's single, Muesel's out, Pratt's single and Hofmann's double, accounted for the only three runs of the game. Thereafter Conlan was supreme, but the damage was done.

It was Ernie Shore Day and the Yank did himself proud in the face of 5,000 spectators, who knew him from childhood, and were willing to admit it at any time. They were all with him, but that did not stop Ernie from getting into difficulties, although he confined the Dodgers' attack to three hits over a five-inning stretch.

Errors Embarrass Shore.

Errors by his supporting cast, however, were prone to embarrass Ernie at odd moments, but he came through with his head up. Right at the outset Pratt threw Olson's bounder into the crowd and the Dodger took second. Neis struck right out, but Kilduff bounced an infield hit off Ernie's index finger, Olson going to third. Kilduff, however, died stealing and Ernie disposed of Myers on a pop-up to Pipp. The latter messed up Konetchy's grounder to start the second and Hood walked, but Baird, Elliott and Miljus died in order, Ernie coming in for much in the way of honorable mention from his friends in the stands.

Again in the third did the Yanks attempt to kick Ernie out from under his cap, but it was not to be.

Gleich muffed Olson's easy fly as a starter, but retrieved the ball and likewise himself in time to throw the runner out at second. Myers walked in the fourth, but was considerate enough to die stealing before Koney's double to left.

Ernie's most trying ordeal came in the fifth, which Elliott inaugurated with a double to right. He went to third on an out, but Eernie tightened up and curve-balled Olson and Neis to death on strikes.

BATS WIN FOR GEORGETOWN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Georgetown defeated Boston College here today, 12 to 2, driving Fitzpatrick, the Hub team's star pitcher, from the box. Maloney, who finished the game, was not hit hard, but was wild. Reynolds, who pitched for Georgetown, was effective and steady.

Georgetown had two five-run innings. Georgetown got a quintet of tallies off Fitzpatrick in the second on four singles, a double and two errors. They scored five times on Maloney in the sixth on four passes, a wild pitch, four stolen bases, two errors and a pair of hits.

Madden's single, Fitzpatrick's double and a single by Dempsey gave the visitors their two runs in the third.

Cornell 'Varsity Nine May Play Team of Convicts

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 8.—If Faculty approval is obtained, the Cornell 'Varsity baseball nine will play a team of convicts in the prison yard at Auburn on Sunday, May 21. An invitation has just been received by the Cornell team from the Mutual Welfare League at Auburn prison for a game to be played on that date.

The baseball management is heartily in favor of the game and hopes Faculty approval may be obtained. Sunday baseball games ordinarily would not be considered, but this game is regarded as exceptional. The Auburn Mutual Welfare League has no time to play on week days. The league is a self-governing association of convicts organized by former Warden Thomas Mott Osborne.

HARPER'S WILDNESS HELPS GIANTS WIN

New Yorkers Overcome Early Lead and Down Red Sox at Norfolk by 7 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., April 8.—The wildness of Harry Harper cost the Red Sox another ball game today, the Hackensack lefthander "blowing" an early lead run up by his club, and permitting the Giants to win by a score of 7 to 5. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning to permit both clubs to catch a boat for Cape Charles, where they entrained for Reading, Pa.

Waite Hoyt faced the Giants' batters at the start of the game and worked six innings. Harper assumed the pitching burden in the seventh and was very wild. His inability to keep the ball where he wanted it and errors on the part of Hendryx and Hiller made it an easy matter for the Giants to forge ahead. Fred Toney and Arthur Nehf pitched for the Giants, the former going six innings. A home-run drive by George Kelly was a feature of the game.

The Sox got two runs rather cheaply in the first inning. Hooper lifted a pop fly in front of the plate which McCarty permitted to fall to earth while he waited for Frisch to come in for it. McNally then moved Hooper along with a sacrifice. Menoskey singled to centre, and when Kauff allowed the ball to hop between his legs and roll to the fence, Hooper scored and Menoskey went to second. Hendrix singled to left, Menoskey pulling up at third. Doyle went back into right field for a fine catch of a fly from McInnis's bat, but Menoskey scored after the catch.

In the second inning Foster led off with a base hit to left and advanced on a sacrifice by Hiller. Walters popped to Fletcher, but Hoyt rapped a single to centre and Foster counted for the Red Sox's third run.

The Giants got a start in the fourth inning, when Frisch singled to centre and Kelly slammed the ball over the fence in right centre, but the Sox added to their slender lead in the fifth, when Menoskey walked and scored on a two-base slam by McInnis.

In the sixth the Giants again pulled up to within a run of their opponents on a base on balls to McCarty, a single by Toney and an error by Hendryx.

In the seventh, when Harper went to the mound, the big blow-off came. Harper passed Young, the first man to face him. Hiller threw out Fletcher, but Doyle doubled to right centre, scoring Young. Statz, sent up to hit for Kauff, walked, and Frisch hit to Hiller. Hiller tried to force Statz at second, but his throw went over McNally's head and Doyle scored, Statz reaching third. Kelly hit to Foster, whose throw to head off Statz at the plate was too late. McCarty then singled to centre and Frisch cantered over the plate with the fourth run of the inning.

The Sox managed to score a run in the eighth in the course of a rally that fell short.

N. Y. AGGIES ARE SWAMPED.

Special to The New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., April 8.—The Holy Cross team wound up its annual Southern trip here today, swamping the New York Aggies by a score of 17 to 5. As a result of the cold weather only seven innings were played, Gill and McLaughlin alternating in the box for Holy Cross, while Powers went the entire distance for the Aggies. The hitting of Len Dugan and the fielding of Gagnon were features.

ORMONDA IS FIRST IN KEYSTONE PURSE

Shea Filly, at 3 to 10, Is Hard Pressed to Beat Clean Gone at Bowie.

BOWIE, Md., April 8.—William Shea's fleet filly Ormonda furnished a real thrill here this afternoon when she captured the Keystone Purse at seven furlongs in one of the best and closest finishes that has been seen during the meeting. Though she was out in front and set the pace practically all the way, she was, in the parlance of the turf, as straight as a string at the finish and was obliged to do her very best in the last few strides to gain the verdict over Clean Gone by a neck. The Decision was third in a field of six starters.

The race, which was the feature on the card, was witnessed by another large crowd despite threatening and cold weather. A flurry of snow greeted the early arrivals at the track, but the weather became warmer as the day progressed. The track was fast and those who attended were not disappointed with the sport.

It might have been different had Ormonda failed to make as game a finish as she did in her race. The filly had been made a 3 to 10 choice in the mutuels and was the heaviest played horse of the day. Her first effort here when she was defeated by Slippery Elm indicated that she needed that race, and today she had no such horses as Slippery Elm to beat.

The summaries:

Heydler to Explain Rules.

President John A. Heydler of the National League will address a meeting of umpires, coaches and managers of high school teams of New York this afternoon at Public School 27 in East Forty-second Street, for the purpose of elucidating the new baseball rules. The meeting has been called by the Baseball Committee of the High School Games Committee. F. E. Brewer of the Curtis High School is Chairman.

Bombardier Wells Scores Knockout Over McGoorty

LONDON, April 8.—Bobmardier Wells, the English heavyweight, tonight knocked out Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., in the sixteenth round of a twenty-round bout at the Holborn Stadium.

Eddie McGoorty's most important bout in the last year was that of Sept. 2, in London, in which he was knocked out by Joe Beckett in the seventeenth round. Previously, in 1919, McGoorty had scored knockouts in London against Harold Rolph; in Plymouth, England, against Patrick Curran; in Dublin, against Tom Gummer, and in London, against Harry Reeve and Bandsman Rice. After his defeat by Beckett he lost another bout, on a foul, to Balzac, in Paris.

LICENSE IS DENIED TO JOCKEY KNAPP

Rider's Application Refused, with No Reason Given—Loftus's Plea Turned Down.

The veteran jockey Willie Knapp, who in his long career on the turf has ridden many noted horses, will not be seen in silks this year. This was disclosed yesterday by an announcement from the License Committee of The Jockey Club that it had denied to Knapp a license to ride this season. Another announcement following the meeting of the stewards of The Jockey Club disclosed that that body had refused to reopen the case of Johnny Loftus, who also was recently denied a license for this year.

Although it was known that the License Committee was making a very close inspection of all the applications, the denial of a license to Knapp came as a complete surprise. It was not known that his standing had been questioned, for his name had not been connected with any questionable tactics on the race track. Knapp was set down once before, but was reinstated in 1917 and until yesterday it was not known that he had again offended racing officials. No reason was advanced for the action taken in his case.

Knapp was one of the oldest riders in the country in point of service, having been a jockey for about eighteen years. Last season he rode for Harry Payne Whitney until the latter part of the year, when he accepted several mounts for Willis Sharpe Kilmer, and rode at times for various other stables. At the beginning of the year, he met with fine success and was considered one of the best riders on the local tracks. As the season advanced, his riding fell off and toward the end he had lost much of his early fame. However, this was due apparently to declining ability and no charge of dishonesty was ever made against him.

For some time Knapp has been galloping horses for R. L. Gerry in Maryland and has evidently been preparing for another year in the saddle, though it was thought that he would become a trainer this year.

Loftus, who was denied a license some time ago, has ever since been making efforts to get into good standing again, and had sought to have his case reopened. When the case came before the stewards yesterday they refused to take any action, and Loftus lost his last appeal.

It was apparent when the meeting was over that Knapp and Loftus would not be alone among jockeys who will be missing this season. Licenses were also denied to Jockeys C. Gilbert, J. Groth, T. Parrington and N. Berger, and the license recently granted to Jockey Kirschbaum was revoked. The stewards also refused to reopen the case of Jockey G. Byrnes, who has been seeking reinstatement.

The applications of V. Hendricks, Cecil Knight, D. McDermit, Frank Martin and Clyde Phillips for licenses as trainers were denied. Also all racing associations were requested to refuse further entries from J. C. Sturgis.

At the meeting of the Jockey Club the new selling race rule, which was suggested by the Maryland Jockey Club, was adopted. This is designed to do away with the evil of this kind of race. It prevents an owner or any one acting for him from claiming his own horse in a race, and is expected to put an end to the practice of entering horses for much less than their real value. The rule also provides that a horse claimed shall not again start in the name of the original owner for a period of thirty racing days.

Harry Payne Whitney, who has one of the finest racing stables in the country, and who has long been an important factor in the success of the sport, was elected a member of the Jockey Club.

RACING DATES CUT TO 100.

Maryland Board Will Have to Act on Janney Bill Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8.—Governor Ritchie has not yet named the members of the State Racing Commission provided for in a bill passed by the Legislature for the regulation of the tracks in this State. There will be one Republican and two Democratic members of the board.

The big question that will come before the commission, and one that cannot be ignored, will be the cutting down of the number of racing dates in the State. The Janney bill originally set the limit at 110 days, while this was cut down to 100 days in the House, an amendment accepted by some of the racing people in order to ward off a greater reduction. There was a suggestion that the Senate might make another reduction, but the racing people so handled the fight as to make Senators who favored racing believe that any amendment would have the effect of driving off the Bowie people in the House and killing the bill when it returned for concurrence in the amendment. Thus the bill got through with 100 days.

SAYS DEMPSEY IS TO BOX.

Special to The New York Times.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 8.—Jack Dempsey, it was asserted here tonight, will defend his title as heavyweight boxing champion of the world in the ring at Benton Harbor on July 5. His opponent will be selected from the list of most available heavyweights.

The authority for the foregoing statement is Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, who was in Kalamazoo today making preliminary arrangements for the match following his return from Los Angeles, where he spent a week with Dempsey. The latter, Fitzsimmons said, accepted his proposition and a contract will be signed as soon as Dempsey's trial, set for April 17, is ended. Fitzsimmons plans to build an arena on the lake shore that will seat 50,000 persons.

BOXING TITLE FOR McTIGUE.

New Yorker Wins Canadian Middleweight Honors by Knockout.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 8.—Mike McTigue of New York, boxing instructor of the New York A. C., tonight won the middleweight boxing championship of Canada by knocking out Eugene Brosseau of Montreal, the titleholder, in the fifth round of a ten-round match.

HARVARD ADOPTS ORIGINAL BOATING

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 8.—Coach William Haines turned the Harvard 'Varsity crew upside down this afternoon, and when the shift was made only three men of the nine who had seats in the boat last Saturday held on, while every man who rowed with the eight the first day on Lynn Harbor was back in position, although not boated the same.

Three members of the 'Varsity eight were sent to the second crew—Peirson, coxswain; Jenney, stroke, and Pond, No. 7. Peirson rowed in the Yale race in June, whole his two companions were promoted from the second crew last week, and are now returning to their old positions.

The three men who ascended to the 'Varsity were Williams, freshman coxswain last year, and holding the same position all season on the second 'Varsity; Olmsted, a letter man, who was dropepd from No. 4 two weeks ago, and Burden, who also lost his place a short time ago. Olmsted's improvement as stroke in the second shell convinced Coach Haines that he was just the man for the regulars. His weight, 183 pounds, is thirty pounds heavier than that of Jenney, whom he displaces. This change came as a decided surprise, as Haines had intimated that he expected to use both Jenney and Pond against the Navy on April 24.

Today's new boating was:

Bow, Davis; 2, Duncan; 3, Burden; 4, Kane; 5, Sedgwick; 6, McCagg; 7, Terry; stroke, Olmsted; coxswain, Williams.

TIGER CREWS IN A RACE.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 8.—Princeton's 'Varsity oarsmen had their first practice race of the season on Lake Carnegie here this afternoon. Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, head coach, sent the 'Varsity, the Junior 'Varsity and the third 'Varsity through a hard trial spin and expressed himself as well satisfied with the outcome.

He staked the third boat to a start of one length and it was this crew which crossed the finish line in the lead. The 'Varsity and the Junior Eight started even and the first boat stayed behind all the way. The second crew pulled half a length ahead of the 'Varsity and gained on the winners, who were half a length in front at the finish.

'Varsity—Bow, Page; 2, Terry; 3, Bryan; 4, Curtis; 5, Pyne; 6, Cooke; 7, Milne; stroke, Creswell; cox., Rosenbaum.

KRAUS IN COLUMBIA CREW.

Return of Veteran Will Cause Shakeup in First Boat.

Another shakeup in the starboard side of the Columbia 'Varsity crew is expected to follow the appearance at rowing practice yesterday of Jack Kraus, a 189-pound oarsmen from the 1918 first boat. It was the first time this year that Kraus had found time to report, he having been detained heretofore by his studies in the Law School. He will report regularly from now on, and is an almost certain fixture at one of the starboat positions. Until he has unlimbered and smoothed over the rough places in his stroke he will be kept in the third 'Varsity combination.

Both Kraus and Mulligan, a sophomore who tips the scales at 201 pounds, may be used by Rice to bolster up the starboard side before the race with Yale on April 24. Figures prepared yesterday by the Blue and White coach show that the port side is superior in weight, in addition to being stronger in other qualities. The oarsmen in the port seats average 177 pounds, 8 pounds heavier than the other side of the shell. The addition of either Kraus or Mulligan would help to offset this advantage.

The weights of the 'Varsity oarsmen boat as now seated are as follows: Saacke, bow, 158 pounds; Curry, No. 2, 170; Swinburne, No. 3, 158; Gallico, No. 4, 185; Herman, No. 5, 179; Scovil, No. 6, 181; Van Houten, No. 7, 181; Leys, stroke, 166.

Coach Rice sent both the 'Varsity and Junior 'Varsity crews on a series of sprints yesterday afternoon, the two shells racing on the straightaway in front of the boat house.

NICKALLS SHIFTS ELI CREWS

Hord and Walker Promoted to Places in 'Varsity Eight.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 8.—Three shifts were made in the Yale 'Varsity crew today by Coach Guy Nickalls. Hord, who has been rowing No. 4 in the second shell, was put at No. 4 in the first boat, replacing Schieffelin, who was moved to No. 5. Walker was taken from No. 5 in the junior eight and placed at No. 3 in the 'Varsity. These shifts sent McHenry and Flagg to the second crew. Hord and Walker are experienced oarsmen, the former having rowed No. 2 on the 'Varsity last year and the latter having rowed at Oxford last year and on the Yale freshmen eight in 1916.

HARVARD TRAINING STUNTS.

Dr. Lee Tells National Convention of New Use for Photos.

The delegates to the twenty-seventh annual convention of the American Physical Education Association, now in session at the Waldorf, attended yesterday, almost a thousand strong, a meeting presided over by William A. Stecher of Philadelphia, at which the topic "Physical Efficiency" was discussed by F. W. Maroney, director of physical education of the State of New Jersey; George Wittich, Director in the Milwaukee public schools; George J. Altman of the Technical High School of Springfield, Mass., and Jessie Whitham of the Central High School of Detroit.

The feature of this meeting was the general discussion, led by Carl L. Schrader of Harvard. Mr. Schrader said the old method of testing for physical efficiency was limited, covering a few groups of muscles but not testing the entire body. He said these tests were not sufficiently inclusive, being made from so few muscles, and were tests only for strength and endurance.

The newer method consists of a considerable number of varied exercises that bring all the parts of the body into play. These are repeated frequently and examinations made of the subjects year by year so that an accurate line can be obtained on progress and physical improvement or retrogression. The value of this plan, Mr. Schrader said, lies in the fact that the instructor can get some definite idea of the health status of his pupils and not merely a line on whose strength is greatest and which one can endure the most effort. Frequently, he said, the individual who is strongest may fall far short of being the one in the best health.

Dr. Roger I. Lee of the Department of Hygiene of Harvard addressed the therapeutic section on some training stunts now being put into effect at Cambridge. He said men on entering were subjected to a side-view photograph showing their postures. These were divided into three groups—bad, fair and good, according to the way the individual carries himself.

When the freshman sees how he looks to others, he is carefully trained in the proper carriage by exercises such as are used in the army for "setting up" recruits. Each year, on his return to college, he is photographed again, thus having pictures of himself as he progresses or falls back during his entire college career. The plan, Dr. Lee said, is proving of great benefit. Men are learning how to carry themselves as nature ordained.

Enters Marathon Although He's Not Yet 48 Years Old

A. Monteverde of Morristown, N. J., one of the oldest distance runners of the ranks of the Amateur Athletic Union—he admits to 47 years—will be a starter in the annual Boston A. A. marathon race, which will be held from Ashland to Boston on Patriots' Day, April 19. Monteverde does not take much stock in the Osler theory, but is rather inclined to claim kinship with the proverbial brook. For years he has entered this annual competition. The distance, twenty-five miles, does not bother him, for he always finishes the full course. Monteverde was competing before many of the crack athletes of today were born. His plan to race again in the Boston fixture became known yesterday, when Jacob W. Stumpf granted the Morristown veteran permission to leave the Metropolitan A. A. U. district.

TO HEAR CHARGES IN BROWSER CASE

A hearing on the charges against Max J. Silver of the Mohawk A. C., representing the Bronx Athletic League on the Metropolitan A. A. U. Board of Managers, brought by Herman Browser of the Brooklyn A. A. and the Forty-seventh Infantry, Brooklyn, will be held April 29, it was announced last night by Jacob W. Stumpf, Chairman of the special committee appointed by Frederick W. Rubien to investigate the matter. The matter was scheduled for discussion last night at a meeting in the Bar Association but action was postponed at the request of Browser and Captain Timothy J. Mahoney of the Forty-seventh Infantry, who left early in the evening for Buffalo. Silver attended the meeting and agreed to the postponement.

The case involves the disqualification of Browser from the Frank Bopp Memorial 1,000-yard special race at the Post Office Clerks' games recently in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. Silver, in his capacity of inspector, ruled that Browser had stepped inside an improvised border of the track at one of the turns. Browser protested the decision but Silver was upheld in his action by Referee Herman Obertubbesing.

Browser subsequently took the matter up with President Rubien of the Metropolitan A. A. U. In a written communication, now in possession of Chairman Stumpf, the Brooklyn athlete charged that Silver had been prompted in his disqualification decision by personal malice. In support of his contention Browser submitted for consideration a series of circumstances prior to the race which Browser held corroborated his viewpoint. Silver denied the alleged prejudice.

President Rubien took cognizance of the matter and appointed the Registration Committee a special committee to hear both sides and recommend further action. The members of the special committee, in addition to Chairman Stumpf, are Warren Fielding, New York A. C.; Stephen S. Byrne, Trinity Club; Martin A. Klein, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, and John J. Deignan of the St. Bartholomew Club. This committee will hold a hearing on the case April 29 at the Bar Association. Irrespective of the testimony adduced, whether it be conclusive or doubtful, the committee can make no decision in the matter. Instead, it will recommend to the Board of Managers of the local A. A. U. what action is thought necessary and the board will either approve or disapprove.

The case is unique in local A. A. U. history. There is no precedent to guide the investigators and for this reason the committee is confronted with a complicated and confusing situation. If the charges of Browser are substantiated and the committee decrees that such drastic action is merited, Silver may be disqualified as a member of the A. A. U. Board of Managers, an action which would automatically terminate his career as an athletic official in this district.

The possibility of recalling the prizes awarded for the race or of ordering a re-running is negligible. An official closely identified with the case yesterday gave it as his opinion that it would be impossible to recall the prizes or rerun the race because of the unique circumstances of the case.

CLEVELAND BOXER WINS.

A special bout between Al Corbett, of the Central A. C. of Cleveland, the 110-pound amateur champion of Ohio, and Tommy Moran, of the St. Vincent Ferrer A. C., was the main feature of the amateur boxing tournament that began last night at the New York A. C. The Ohio titleholder was a runner-up in the national championships this week at Boston, being eliminated in the semi-finals after he had sprained his hand. He stopped off in this city yesterday on his way from Boston.

Corbett proved himself to be a worthy contender for national honors. Pitted against the veteran Moran he eclipsed even the performances of A. J. De Vito at the same club recently in the metropolitan championships. The bout was of special interest, because it gave some indications of what the Cleveland boxer would have done had he met De Vito in the Boston finals.

Although Moran withstood the Ohio man's onslaughts for the allotted three rounds, Corbett won by a wide margin. He unleashed a fusillade of jabs and punches that backed the St. Vincent Ferrer fighter around the ring, and in every round Corbett had a decided advantage in points. He was the superior in both speed and aggressiveness, and in the third round had Moran hanging on for time. The judges were unanimous in awarding the decision to the Cleveland boxer.

In the other four classes the preliminary bouts were run off and the way paved for the final clashes at each weight tomorrow evening. Only one of the battles ended in a knockout, Harry Wiese of the Bronx Church House, sending Sam Catalina, unattached, to sleep in the second round of one of the 120-pound preliminary bouts. Three other matches were stopped by the referee when one of the amateur fighters seemed to be in distress.

In the 150-pound class one semi-final bout was staged. Michael J. Murray of the Paulist A. C. gained the judges' decision from Max Reiner, unattached, in three rounds. In a semi-final clash in the 120-pound weight James Romano of the Greenwich House defeated S. Katz of the Clark House A. A. in three rounds on decision.

150-Pound Class; Trials—Michael J. Murray, Paulist A. C., stopped Louis F. Toole, St. Bartholomew A. C., in first round; Max Reiner, unattached, stopped J. J. Archambault, unattached, in first round; Charles Martin, unattached, stopped S. Brown, Jersey City, in first round.

SHEA BEATS WHITE IN CUE TOURNAMENT

STANDING IN POGGENBERG CUP TOURNEY.

Player.	W.	L.	H.R.	P.C.

C. E. White	1	3	26	.250
J. M. Shea	1	4	16	.200
J. Low	0	4	19	.000

Charles E. White was virtually deprived of any chance to repeat his victory of a year ago in the 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament for the J. F. Poggenberg Memorial Cup when he was defeated by J. M. Shea at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. A unique incident in connection with the game was the fact that both players made the same number of points, 115, but White, being a Class A player, was playing for 250 points, while Shea, a Class C player, was playing for 115. So, instead of being tied Shea in reality defeated White by 135 points.

It was the third defeat that White has sustained since play began in the final round. Last year's winner has won only one game. He has only two more to play, and if he wins both of them he will only break even on his schedule of matches. Robert Steinbugler is out in front with three victories and no defeats. He has three more games to play. George Spear is in second place with four victories and one defeat. He has two more games to play. Francis Appleby is running third with three wins and one loss and has two more games to play. Thus it can be seen that White's chances are so slim that he practically can be counted out of winning the tournament again.

Shea startel off with a rush, and it was apparent in the first inning, when he made a run of 13, that he was in stroke and that White would have to be at his best to have a chance against him. For his first eleven innings Shea had an average of an even 5, and the score then stood at 55 to 43, in favor of Shea.

In only four innings of the thirty-four that the game consumed did White show to advantage. It was not until his seventh turn at the table that he was able to make any considerable progress. Then he clicked off ten points before missing on a comparatively easy shot. In his tenth inning he put together a collection of sixteen buttons and missed on a close one. A stretch of nine innings passed before he again managed to get the balls together and hold them for any length of time. This effort gave him a run of 17. Six more innings elapsed before he again made any headway. It was then, in the twenty-fifth round, that he made his high run, a cluster of 22. In between these runs many blank innings found their way.

The score by innings:

J. M. Shea (115)—13 1 3 0 5 7 1 1 14 6 4 1 1 7 3 10 7 1 0 0 0 17 5 1 1 0 2 0 1 0 0 0 2 1. Total, 115; average 3 13-34; high run, 17.

C. E. White (250)—2 0 3 4 0 1 10 4 2 16 1 1 0 0 9 8 1 0 17 0 0 2 0 3 22 0 1 4 4 0 0 0 0 0. Total, 115; average, 3 13-34; high run, 22.

MEYER TO TRY COMEBACK.

Former Champion Sprinter Wants Place on Olympic Team.

Alvah T. Meyer, former Irish-American A. C. sprinter, who several years ago reigned supreme among local sprinters and in 1912 held the national furlong title, will strive for a berth on the track and field squad which will wear the American shield in the Olympic Games at Antwerp, Belgium, this Summer. Meyer yesterday transferred his A. A. U. registration from unattached to the Knights of St. Antony, and is expected to start on an intensive outdoor campaign with the arrival of the cinderpath season.

Meyer essayed a comeback early in the now waning indoor season and competed in several races with the view to rounding into form through competition. While training for the Guaranty Club's games in February, Meyer pulled a tendon and was forced to rest. He is on the road to recovery now, however, and plans to resume competition with the coming of the outdoor season.

Army Officers to Play Navy.

A baseball game is to be played in this city early in June between the officers and ex-officers of the army and the officers and ex-officers of the navy under the auspices of the Army and Navy Club of America. This will be followed by a tennis tournament in July and a polo match in August.

FAVORITES TRIUMPH ON THE PINEHURST COURTS

TILDEN'S GAME TOO FAST FOR SIMMONS

Champion Gains Easy Victory in North and South Tennis Tourney at Pinehurst.

EIGHT REACH THIRD ROUND

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8.—A strong field of thirty lawn tennis players got under way on the clay courts of the Pinehurst Country Club today in the second annual united North and South championship. Under the efficient direction of Referee William C. Roker and his assistants, two rounds of singles were completed, bringing out a well-balanced octet consisting of William T. Tilden, 2d the playing through titleholder; Harold Throckmorton, New Jersey State champion; the brothers Fred and Ralph Baggs, G. Carlton Shafer, Samuel Hardy, Raymond Bidwell and S. Howard Voshell.

There was general regret that an injury forced the eleventh-hour withdrawal of the brilliant Vincent Richards, ex-champion of the United States indoors. His partner in the national mixed doubles title, Miss Marion Zinderstein, is here to defend the women's challenge cup, which she won last season, and the feminine stars, who are exceptionally well represented, will begin their singles tomorrow.

With ideal court and weather conditions, except for a high wind, all of today's matches went about as expected, Tilden and Voshell, who are on opposite sides of the draw, showing the most impressive form. The champion began with a default and then ran through Kenneth Simmons, formerly of the Yale team, allowing his opponent only one game in each set. Tilden's speed utterly bewildered the youngster, who succeeded in scoring only three points in the first five games of the match. The winner again flashed the fast and accurate driving game with which he recently captured the national indoor titles, earning his points largely from deep court.

Voshell Plays Strongly.

Voshell, who started by drawing a bye, looked equally strong when he reached the third round by a one-sided victory over N. A. Rose at 6—2, 6—0. The left-hander had his deadly service working beautifully, and, while he was compelled to do much volleying, he was infallible in the air as well as off the ground. If the metropolitan champion meets Tilden in the final round, as seems likely, a great battle should result.

Samuel Hardy, the Western veteran, won two matches today without having to exert himself unduly. His condition is not of the best, as he caught a cold in the recent tournament at the Seventh Regiment Armory, but his knowledge of court tactics and general steadiness carried him past both his opponents today in straight sets. N. R. Sinclair, in a morning session, gave the former Chicagoan the closer battle of the two.

Throckmorton, who is in Pinehurst on his honeymoon, showed his usual early season inclination to wildness, and, as a result, he was carried into a deuce set by H. Ballou, after winning the opener at 6—1. The wind, however, unquestionably affected the Jerseyman's game, and he never quite had the confidence to bring off his most brilliant shots. He will have his hands full to dispose of the chopping game of Fred C. Baggs, who today eliminated Arthur Sweetser, the old Harvard 'Varsity man, and Norman Johnson of the West Side Club in quick succession. Sweetser put up a great fight for the opening set, after trailing at 0—4 on games, and the chopper barely succeeded in pulling out of danger by an 8—6 score. But after that he had things very much his own way.

Hard Match for Bidwell.

The only three-set match of the day resulted from the meeting of Raymond Bidwell, a member of the Massachusetts State champion doubles team, and R. W. Seabury, who has been an active player in the tournaments of New Jersey. Bidwell's game is largely service and volleying, with a dependable overhead smash, but his ground strokes are less reliable, particularly on the backhand. Seabury had a fast forehand drive working today, and with this he repeatedly passed Bidwell as he came to the net, mixing in a deep lob now and then for variety.

G. Carlton Shafer, veteran of many a tennis tourney and twice a runner-up for national honors, indoors, advanced through two rounds today in handy fashion, his passing drives being in particularly good shape. The wind affected his service and lobbying somewhat, but he overcame this handicap by shooting the ball low to the side lines as his opponents came in. The second of these, H. C. Wick, put up a pretty fight at the net and brought off some shots that had the gallery applauding.

Ralph Baggs also went through the day without the loss of a set, his victims being S. W. Merrihew and R. B. Weeden.

It is planned to start the men's doubles on Saturday with some additional entries still to be heard from. For the women's singles, which begin tomorrow, the draw is as follows:

FIRST ROUND—Miss Leslie Bancroft vs. Miss Gertrude Della Torre; Miss Bogart vs. Miss M. D. Straffin.

SECOND ROUND—Mrs. B. F. Briggs vs. Miss Esther Tufts; Mrs. E. C. Sohist vs. Mrs. H. A. Throckmorton; Miss Helen Gilleaudeau vs. Miss Bertha Sexton; Miss Katherine Force vs. Miss Edith Sigourney; Miss Marion Zinderstein vs. Miss Judith Jenks; Miss May Ballin vs. Miss Phyllis Walsh; Mrs. De Forrest Candee vs. Miss Florence Ballin.

FIRST ROUND—William T Tilden, 2d, won from Richard Rousse by default; R. B. Weeden defeated F. N. Prencil, 8—6, 6—2; Ralph B. Baggs defeated S. W. Merrihew, 6—2, 6—3; Fred Hawthorne won from Louis Graves by default; Harold A. Throckmorton defeated H. Baleau, 6—1, 8—6; F. C. Baggs defeated Arthur Sweetser, 8—6, 6—1; Norman Johnson won from A. H. Chapin, Jr., by default; H. C. Wick, Jr., defeated G. S. Bryan, 6—1, 6—1; G. Carlton Shafer defeated Fred Otis, 6—2, 6—1; Samuel Hardy defeated N. R. Sinclair, 6—4, 6—3; H. R. Knowlton won from Harvey Flint by default; R. B. Bidwell defeated J. N. Newton, 6—0, 6—2; R. W. Seabury defeated Sigmund Spaeth, 6—1, 6—2; N. A. Rose won from R. L. James by default.

SECOND ROUND—Tilden defeated Kenneth Simmons, 6—1, 6—1; R. L. Baggs defeated R. B. Weeden, 6—4, 6—2; Throckmorton won from Hawthorne by default; F. C. Baggs defeated Norman Johnson, 6—4, 6—0; Shafer defeated Wick, 6—2, 6—3; Hardy defeated Kknowlton, 6—0, 6—1; Bidwell defeated Seabury, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3; S. Howard Voshell defeated Rose, 6—2, 6—0.

SHAWNEE GOLF CLUB SCHEDULE IS FIXED

Four Events on List Will Take High Rank Among Tourneys on Eastern Links.

The Shawnee Country Club is the first of those visited by Metropolitan linksmen to prepare for its golfing season and to announce its full schedule of invitation tournaments for the season. Bernard Fairfax, the Secretary, yesterday divulged the plans, which call for four of the events which in past years have become important fixtures. Although situated somewhat over the border line of the vague area known as the Metropolitan district, at the Delaware Water Gap, Shawnee, nevertheless, is so accessible to New York as well as to Philadelphia golfers that its tournaments invariably command the attention of many of the leading linksmen of the East.

Last September the women's national championship was held at Shawnee, with the result that the annual women's invitation fixture was omitted. This event is included this year along with the nationally important open tourney, and the Buckwood Trophy affair and the men's Fall invitation event. The women's tournament will start the series and will be played June 23-26.

The open affair has been set for a time likely to attract the fancy of the returning American and the visiting English professionals. Hagen, Barnes and McNamara, who will be in England late in June for the British open, will return the first of July with Harry Vardon and Ted Ray. It is expected the group will linger around New York for a week or two in order to play in the Metropolitan open, July 28-30. The Shawnee open, scheduled for July 21-22, will therefore serve as an excellent tuning up opportunity. Last year Jim Barnes led the field of many prominent pros, Hagen excepted, with a 285 and Mike Brady was second with 293.

On Aug. 5 to 7 the Buckwood Trophy will be contested, and, if past tourneys may be taken as an example, the field will be representative of the best golf in the East. This event was held in June last year and was won by George Hoffner of Philadelphia, who defeated Pat Grant, another Quaker, by 1 up.

The men's Fall tournament is listed for Oct. 14-16. G. Grace, the Bethlehem steel magnate, was the unexpected winner last year over Herbert B. Newton of Whitemarsh by the convincing score of 5 and 4.

TO FILM HARVARD STARS.

Motion Pictures of Track Athletes Will Be Made Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 8.—The Harvard Graduates' Advisory Track Committee today arranged with a motion picture company to send a man to Soldiers' Field tomorrow afternoon to photograph the foremost of the Crimson athletes, as well as the whole squad together. These films, with others depicting Fred Kelly, the hurdler; Matt MacGrath, the New York hammer thrower; Homer Baker, the half-miler, and Frank Foss, the former Cornell pole vaulter, will be shown on the screen next Thursday evening in the Union at a meeting where compulsory attendance is demanded of all candidates for the team. By exhibiting these pictures the Harvard management hopes to develop each man so that he will know the correct form for his event.

Virginia Poly Beats Trinity.

BLACKSBURG, Va., April 8.—The Virginia Polytechnic Institute's baseball team today defeated Trinity College by a score of 3 to 0.

CUTTING BROTHERS REACH FINAL ROUND

R. Fulton Cutting and his brother, C. Suydam Cutting, qualified yesterday for the final in the national amateur court tennis championship at the Racquet and Tennis Club. They will play the final match tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and on Monday the winner will meet Jay Gould, holder of the national title, in the challenge round. The two New York players had no difficulty yesterday in disposing of their Boston opponents. Suydam Cutting in the first match won from Philip Stockton, 6—0, 6—0, 6—2, and Fulton Cutting defeated D. P. Rhodes in the other semi-final, 66—1, 6—2, 6—2.

The two Cuttings are finished tennis players, and only recently played for the club championship at the Tennis Club, Suydam Cutting winning after one of the longest and most severe matches ever played here. There is much speculation about the outcome of the final tilt tomorrow, many of the clubmen believing that Suydam will again disclose his superiority because of a steadier game and a greater variety of strokes. The smashing game played by Fulton Cutting yesterday, however, brought him adherents who believe that his speed and aggressiveness may overcome his brother's skill.

The Fulton Cutting-Rhodes match yesterday furnished the better competition in the semi-finals, especially in the third set, when Cutting played the winning openings with great success. He found the grille, dedans and winning gallery for sensational kills on more than one occasion, and Rhodes's conservative game with its carefully placed shots could not cope with Cutting's smashing drives.

Rhodes started out well and took the first game of the opening set. The score of this game was 4—2, Cutting getting his two points on a net off service and a chase. Rhodes twice forced Cutting to drive into the net and won two points on chases. Cutting cut loose after that game and took the next six games in a row. Three of these, the second, third and sixth, were love games. The seventh game brought out some spirited rallies and three times the score went to deuce before Cutting took the game and set.

Cutting won the first two games of the second set, each at 4—2 in points. Rhodes came back strongly and took the third at 4—2, and pulled the set to two all by winning the fourth game at 4—1. Cutting had to work hard to win the fifth game, and the score twice went to deuce before he pulled it out at 6—4. Then he ran up three games in a row for the set.

Rhodes displayed his best game in the third set. He took the first game, 4—2. Cutting won the second, 5—3, his floor game being especially good at this time. In the third game Cutting found the grille twice in succession and took the game handily at 4-2. The fourth game brought forth the stiffest opposition of the match from Rhodes, and after bringing the count to deuce several times Cutting won at 9—7. In this spirited game Cutting's playing for chases on both the hazard and service sides of the court brought out his best court play and in both defending and attacking a chase he was superior to his opponent. In this game and in the succeeding game Cutting found the winning gallery. gallery.

The fifth game furnished exciting rallies and three times the score went to deuce before Cutting pulled it out at 7—5. Cutting also took the sixth game, which brought the count to five games to one. Rhodes surprised Cutting in the seventh game and his skillful placements brought him the game at 5—3. Cutting again found the winning gallery in the early part of the eighth game and he took this at 6—4, gaining with it the set at 6—2 and the match.

Fulton Cuttin vs. D. P. Rhodes.

Suydam Cutting had an easy time in defeating Philip Stockton of Boston. The Boston racquet wielder failed to win a game in the first two sets. He scored only eight points in the first set and only nine in the second. With the match well in hand, Cutting let down a bit in the third set, and Stockton's opposition was more effective. In six of the nine games of the third set Stockton forced the count to deuce, and at times made the competition very interesting.

After capturing the first two sets at love, Cutting lost the first game of the match at the start of the third set. Stockton found the dedans opening and also scored a service ace in winning the game at 4—2. Cutting made it one all in games when he took the second game at 7—5. His final point in this game came when he deflected the ball off the tambour, the ball carroming out of Stockton's reach for the winning point. The third game went to deuce before Cutting won at 5—3. The score of the fourth game was the same, and Cutting had to bring his best strokes into play to win.

The point score of this match was as follows:

C. S. Cutting vs. Philip Stockton.

BLUE RIBBON FOR IYO YEN.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 8.—Mrs. Leo F. F. Wanner of Meadow Brook Farm, L. I., withdrew Champion Lotte von Edelweiss from competition in the shepherd dog class in the Pinehurst Dog Show today and interest centred chiefly in the Pekingese classes, both of which were won by Sheepshead Bay exhibitors.

M. Taketa's Iyo Yen, winner in the Pekingese specialty show, was adjudged first in winners, dogs, and Mrs. Sidney Franc's Lulu Lumine of Eltinge first among winners, bitches.

The Rexden Kennels of Princeton, N. J., carried off the firsts in both shepherd dog classes, winning with All Altwurtemberg and Looki van der Baar.

H. S. Pugh's Rex received the first honors among the American foxhounds, and the two firsts in the pointers classes went to Charles S. Garce's Dairo and B. F. Lewis's Lansdowne Roxy Lynn. A. H. Cooper of Philadelphia won the Irish setters' classes with Lansdowne Royal Red. The Sylvania Kennels of Harrisburg, Pa., were successful in the chow classes, winning with Sylvania Black and Sylvania Flamching.

OBREGON GRILLED ABOUT ALLEGED PLOT

LATTER HINTS OF OFFER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 8.—Public opinion here is greatly aroused over developments in the case of General Cejudo, who was arrested after surrendering to the Government, charged with complicity in a plot to start a revolution.

General Obregon, a candidate for the Presidency, who is giving evidence in the case, denied, according to a statement issued at the War Department, all knowledge of any plot and denied knowing Cejudo. He stated that he had had so many offers from rebel leaders to help his campaign that he could not remember them all.

When shown a letter written by Cejudo to Obregon offering the help of Felix Diaz and of other rebels in the State of Vera Cruz to start a revolution, Obregon stated that that was the first time he had seen or heard of the letter.

On examination Cejudo stated that he wrote to Obregon and Pablo Gonzales offering his help.

The session was suspended until Friday.

LAREDO, Texas, April 8.—General Obregon, candidate for the presidency of Mexico was expressly summoned to Mexico City in connection with the trial of Robert F. Cejudo, former rebel leader, arrested on a charge of conspiring to engineer a revolt against the Mexican Government, according to Monday's Mexico City papers.

Telegraphing from Matamoros in answer to the summons of the Secretary of War, General Obregon said that he would go to the capital. Just before his departure he issued a statement, bidding good-bye to the public and expressing his fear that he would not be able to continue his candidacy.

The trial of Cejudo which is being conducted in the strictest secrecy is developing into great gravity because the names of many prominent men and high officials are being involved as it progresses, according to the papers.

General Carranza was called before the inquisitors Sunday and besides General Obregon, Candido Aguilak, son-in-law of the President, Augustin Milan, Governor of the State of Mexico; Guadalupe Sanchez, chief of military operations in the Vera Cruz district; Antonio Gedina, chief of the Jalapa district and General Francisco Bertani have been called.

PARIS CAFES SELL ABSINTHE

Police Confiscate All Stocks of Forbidden Liquor on Discovery.

PARIS, April 8.—Absinthe, forbidden during the war, has recently been creeping back into the stocks of some cafés in this city, and its consumption has assumed proportions sufficient to attract the attention of the police.

Great difficulty has been encountered in the past by those fighting the use of this liquor, which is being served under various names, no one being able to give an exact definition of it. Government officials, however, have now developed a test which police officers can apply on the spot, and if a drink shows the presence of absinthe all stocks of the beverage are confiscated and the vendor is arrested.

ITALIAN STRIKE CALLED OFF.

It Was Declared Without Authorization of the Labor Federation.

ROME, April 8.—The General Confederation of Labor and the Socialist Party leaders last night ordered a cessation of the general strike proclaimed in Bologna, Florence, Leghorn, Modena, Spezia and other places, after a conflict between police and workmen near Bologna, in which seven workmen were killed and several injured.

The strike was declared by local unions without authorization of the Confederation and the Socialists. Attempts to bring about strikes in Rome, Milan and other large cities failed.

Three workmen were killed in a fight with the police near Modena Wednesday.

JAPANESE WIN BATTLE.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Fighting between Japanese and Russian forces at Khabarovsk ceased late Tuesday, the Japanese Embassy was informed today, with the surrender of the Soviet troops.

The Japanese suffered 260 casualties in the ten-hour conflict, while the Russians lost 408 dead, 1,500 prisoners, and seven guns.

taken from the receptacles, which were as carefully returned to their positions in the rows under the counters.

"How burglars could get out of this building with half a ton of sweaters without being discovered by the police is beyond me," declared Mr. Guttman last week. "The detectives working on the case are just as mystified about the robbery as we are. The front door of the building had not been tampered with, nor had the door leading to my loft. I believe that the burglars left the window open to deceive us into the belief that they got into the loft by that means. The fact is, they couldn't have got in that way because they would have had to force the window from the outside, and there is not the slightest indication that they did so.

"All the sweaters taken were received by the firm within the last few weeks for the Spring trade. We have orders which we must fill, and if the burglars would only return the sweaters so that we could meet our obligations in that respect we would willingly give them more than they can receive for the sweaters in any of the 'fences' throughout the country in which, I understand, they dispose of such merchandise. A safe expert told me today that it must have taken burglars five and a half hours to bore those two holes through the safe. I'm sorry they didn't get the safe open, for I believe if they had got the $1,000 in money inside the safe they would have passed up the sweaters."

In the hope that the burglars may return the sweaters to them in consideration of a reward, Guttman Brothers inserted the following advertisement in The Times this morning:

> $2,000 reward for return of silk sweaters missing from 30 West 21st St.; no questions asked; merchandise needed. N. Guttman, telephone Chelsea 9894.

Three Taken in Burglary.

Magistrate Ten Eyck yesterday in the Tombs Court held Louis Siamone, 17 years old, of 32 Thompson Street; Angelo Palentino, 31 years old, of 152 Rivington Street, and Anthony Appiscopa, 22 years old, of 552 Broome Street, in $10,000 bail each for examination tomorrow morning on suspicion in connection with the burglary of $11,000 worth of silk from the Universal Export and Packing Company at 44 Watts Street early yesterday. The three were arrested after Policeman William Mahoney of the Fifth Street station became suspicious of the actions of Siamone while he was driving a horse attached to a cart at Suffolk and Rivington Streets at 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

The policeman told the Magistrate he thought the appearance of a cart in that neighborhood at that hour in the morning was suspicious, and when he stopped the horse and peered into the cart he saw a miscellaneous assortment of silk, evidently thrown into the vehicle hastily. Siamone, he said, then attempted to escape, but after a short chase the policeman captured and questioned him.

Siamone, the policeman said, declared that he was taking the silk from 44 Watts Street to 152 Rivington Street under instructions from two strangers. Mahoney called other policemen, and they ordered Siamone to drive the cart and the silk to the Rivington Street address. Siamone, the policeman declared, led them to the top floor, where they found other bundles of silks, but the men whom Siamone said had ordered him to drive the cart had disappeared.

MRS. CROKER EAGER TO BARE HER PAST

Says She Is Willing to Answer in Court About Every Act of Her Life.

ISSUES FIRST STATEMENT

Declares She Never Was a "Broadway Favorite" or Actress.

CALLS SONS HYPOCRITES

Croker's Doctor Says He Should Live to be 100 and Is in Sound Condition.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 8.—Mrs. Richard Croker, who has been silent since court proceedings were brought by Mr. Croker's children to tie up his Florida property and to have an examination into his mental condition, made her first statement today on the controversy.

"Mr. Croker has tried for two years to keep quiet about the quarrels his children were picking with him," said Mrs. Croker, "and I have tried to help him because I appreciated how he felt towards his own children and because I thought I ought to. Now that they have started the proceedings it is a blessing to have everything come out, because all that we have to do is to tell the truth, and we certainly cannot be blamed for that when we are forced to defend ourselves. For the first time I see how at last we may have justice done and put a stop to this whispering propaganda. I know what they are trying to have understood about me—that I have used my husband's money for my family and other things that are not very nice. The only way to meet these insinuations now that the papers have published them broadcast, is to go on the witness stand and invite them to ask me everything they may wish to, and it will be a great satisfaction to talk this matter out and get done with it.

"I can honestly say that there is not a single act in my life that I am not willing to have them ask me about. Mr. Croker is to me a remarkable man and I have a great love for him. I have not used his money for my family and he and I have been very happy in our companionship. It has been fascinating, working things out together and living in perfect accord and perfect understanding.

Not a "Broadway Favorite."

"All of the startling things which I have seen printed about my career are false. It has been said that I was a Broadway favorite and that I made my stage début at some restaurant and that I was known as 'Little Bula,' an actress at the Hippodrome. One article says I have two little sisters I am educating and that I built a mansion for my father and mother and that I have hidden away securities in Oklahoma. I have read about myself all these things I am telling you, and a lot more.

"The truth is, I hardly know anything about Broadway. I am not an actress. I have never been on the stage at the Hippodrome; I have never been on any stage, except that when I was going to school of expression. I very frequently appeared at lectures and little entertainments, where I told Indian stories. I am not educating my two little sisters; I am the baby of the family, and my sisters are married, and I have never had anything to do with their education. My father and mother live in the same modest little house that has been their home for the last ten years, beginning four years before I was married.

"I have read that I have bought them a farm. They have owned the farm for forty years. I never bought a foot of land for any of my family in my life. I have no securities in Oklahoma, and never did since I was married, but Mr. Croker had $30,000 there in a bank once for five months at 5 per cent. interest, and then he drew it out because he wanted to use it in some land down here.

"There is about that much truth in most of the things that are said. I lectured at boys' and girls' schools, and, therefore, I am an actress at a restaurant. I studied voice culture in connection with completing my education in New York, and that, no doubt, helped to make me more of an actress. My husband made a short-term loan in my native State, and, therefore, I have large sums of money secreted there, and so on, ad infinitum.

Accuses Children of Hypocrisy.

"To me one of the cruelest things in this persecution is the hypocrisy practiced. Until my husband took away his power of attorney from his son I thought his children were fond of me. They were always writing me. It was 'Dear Bula' and 'How are you getting long?' and 'How we do enjoy your letters' and 'We are so anxious to hear from you,' and they always wanted to know if there wasn't anything they could do for me and were always winding up the letters 'With much love.'

"Another thing that has been spread around about me is that I was the boss. I suppose that was because of the claim that was to be made that I exercised too much influence over Mr. Croker. That is funny. I have helped him and been with him all the time, but no one who knows him could imagine him not being boss. One of our friends said the other day that the only driving of Mr. Croker I had done was in his automobile. I drive him everywhere in that. I have tried to be a good wife to him and I know that I have taken good care of him because his health shows it. And I have not spent much of his money. We live quietly and only have one servant. One reason we have been happy together is that neither of us care for society. I have studied and worked and taken care of him and found my happiness that way; and now I am looking forward to a time after this trial when we can be at peace and have everything settled. No one who has not gone through something like this can realize the relief it will be."

R. B. Garrett, Mrs. Richard Croker's brother-in-law, arrived from his home in Pryor, Okla., today with affidavits from Mrs. Croker's girlhood friends and photographs of records, which will be used at her trial. Character affidavits were also received from ex-Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, from Mrs. Croker's uncle, Representative W. W. Hastings, of the Second Congressional District, and from Houston B. Teehee, Register of the Treasury, whose signature appears on all Liberty bonds. These three told of having known Mrs. Croker and her family intimately for many years.

Referring to his examination by Dr. Ralph N. Green, an alienist, Mr. Croker said today he had read a claim that Dr. Green had been asked to examine him because he was an old friend of his.

Says Croker Should Live To Be 100.

"I never saw Dr. Green until he was introduced to me in my lawyer's office just before the examination started, nor heard of him an hour before," said Mr. Croker. "He was here testifying at the Howell murder trial, and I was told that he was the leading alienist in the State. If I was crazy I wanted to know it, without further waiting, so I had him sent for and took him home. He not only said after two days of various tests and observations that I was perfectly sane, but told me I was organically sound and ought to live to be a hundred. He said I had the blood pressure of a man of 50 and that my blood analysis showed up A1. He said my liver, which I was a little afraid of, was in perfect shape."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A tax of 100 per cent. would be levied on all political campaign contributions and expenditures in excess of $1,000 under a proposal introduced in the Senate today by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, as an amendment to a pending tariff measure.

It would also require persons, firms or corporations making campaign contributions or expenditures to list them in their income tax returns.

The Senate has once rejected the 100 per cent. tax. Senator Thomas offered it as a rider to a revenue bill, but though it was supported strongly in some quarters, it was rejected on the ground that it was a subject for original legislation.

Senator Borah said that he heartily favored Senator Thomas's proposal.

FEARS UPLIFTERS SEEK BONUS MONEY

Committee of Former Service Men Will Investigate Justice of Demand.

A committee of three, Richard H. Waldo, N. T. Raymond and T. C. Bolton, representing the City Club Post of the American Legion, started for Washington last evening to gather at first hand facts concerning the plan for a flat bonus for all former service men and to ascertain the need for such a gift from the Government. This was announced at a discussion of the bonus question held by the post in the City Club last evening. The sentiment in the organization is against the plan.

Mr. Waldo, who presided, presented to his audience an entirely new view of the motives that actuate some in advocating that the men be further rewarded for their services. He declared that some of those engaged in uplift work already see in the bonus a means for increasing the incomes of their organizations and seek not only the money but the power that comes through the administration of a great fund.

"There are already some very pretty plans developing for obtaining a part of the bonus money," said Mr. Waldo. "There is a plan to put up to the many men who do not want the bonus the proposition: 'If you don't want it take it any how and give it to us.' It will take $2,000,000,000 for the payment of the bonuses and some $200,000,000 could be collected in this way for semi-public purposes. Quite a neat sum that these gentlemen have their eyes on. No wonder they now favor bonuses.

"Another organization in New York is planning to obtain by this same method nearly $1,000,000. They figure that 50 per cent. of the men in New York County will accept the bonus without eagerness, and they can be induced to turn it over for some semi-public use. It is high time we erase all these plans. Take care, they may make daughters of the horse leech of us. It must not be overlooked that the War Risk Insurance act makes it possible to do wonderful things for the service men."

G. P. Compton advanced among other reasons against the granting of a bonus that for the American Legion to come out with such a demand would mean loss of power. This demand, he said, would be only the beginning, for others would logically follow.

Irwin Rackoff spoke in favor of the bonus and dwelt at length upon the gratitude of the country for the men who went forth to war and of the financial ruin that had followed for many of these. He said these men should be given the chance to make good with "something in their pocket."

Eugene Stern of White Plains, also defended the bonus plan. He said men in the Engineers had worked long hours in France beside laborers transported from this country who got $7 or $8 a day while the service men drew only $1 and worked longer hours.

The sentiment of many men at the meeting was expressed by Chumley Jones when he said:

"We would vote for the men who need it, but not for those who do not need it. This is a statement I hear on every side."

Some time was then occupied with a discussion of who needed the money and how to determine these.

"It is held by some," said Mr. Waldo, "that the men who served, whether in France or in this country or England, got something that they will be able to cash in on for the rest of their lives."

There was applause when a former non-commissioned officer said that commercializing a man's duty to his country was wrong and that he opposed it. Another who met with approval said that if the American Legion put itself on record on a "stand and deliver" policy it would lose the support of the public. A bonus was only the beginning, another speaker warned. Next would come the demand for exemption from income tax, he said, and then civil service preference would be sought and so it would go until the motives that brought the Legion into existence would be lost sight of.

Post Denounces Bonus.

G. Amsinck Post of the American Legion, composed of representative business men of the city, has joined in the movement within the Legion opposing as a "hold-up" flat Government bonuses for men who served in the war. "Selfish political activities" have no place within the organization, resolutions passed by the post at a recent meeting say. The post asks that the flat bonus plan advocated by the National Executive Committee of the Legion be dropped and that the committee confine its activities to the task of providing for wounded and disabled men and the families of soldiers and sailors who lost their lives in the war.

The Jane A. Delano Post of 132 East Forty-fifth Street, which is composed of nurses, has also passed resolutions opposing the flat bonus.

DENIES EVADING SERVICE.

McCombs Says Richard Croker, Jr., and Howard Were Rejected.

Richard Croker, Jr., at a conference yesterday with his counsel, William F. McCombs, denied a statement made by his father to a TIMES reporter last Tuesday to the effect that both he and his brother Howard evaded war service in the American Army.

The father said he wrote to his son Richard from Ireland when the war was in progress that it was time both he and Howard joined the American fighting forces. "The letter I got back from Richard made me sick," Croker, Sr., continued. "The only thing I could get out of it was that he was afraid to go."

Mr. McCombs after the conference said that Richard Croker, Jr., had informed him that both he and Howard had endeavored to get into the war, but that both were rejected. He said Richard was a little over 36 at the time and that Howard was a little more than 30. Richard, Jr., informed Mr. McCombs that soon after the United States went to war with Germany he tried to join the American Aviation Corps because of his [illegible] with engine construction.

Mr. McCombs announced yesterday that none of the Croker children would appear in Judge Donnell's court in Palm Beach when the hearing on the injunction is called next week.

POLITICIANS A PERIL, DECLARES GEN. WOOD

FOR A CONSTRUCTIVE POLICY

Special to The New York Times.

GALESBURG, Ill., April 8.—General Leonard Wood, continuing his campaign for the Illinois indorsement for the Republican Presidential nomination, was greeted today by enthusiastic crowds. He is greatly pleased with the cordial receptions accorded him everywhere in Illinois, but he makes it plain in conversation with his friends that he does not think it probable that he will be able to get a majority in Governor Lowden's State. If he gets a substantial vote, with a delegate here and there, he will be more than satisfied.

Last night in Peoria the hall in which General Wood spoke was packed to its utmost capacity by an audience of more than 4,000. The police estimated that fully as many people as were in the hall had to be turned way at the doors.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent talked today with one of the leading Republicans of Illinois, who is one of Governor Lowden's most influential supporters in this part of the State. This man said that in his opinion the poor showing that Governor Lowden made in South Dakota and later in Michigan, where he was a bad third, would undoubtedly affect the vote for the Governor in the Illinois primaries next Tuesday.

"I am confident," he said, "that the Governor will carry Illinois, but the majority will not be so impressive as would have been the case had he shown more strength in South Dakota and Michigan. For the last few days, particularly since the victory of Hiram Johnson in Michigan, a lot of Republicans here in Illinois have been doing some deep thinking. They are, generally speaking, friends of the Governor, but they are almost convinced that Lowden is out of the running, and many among them are unable to reason why they should vote for a man who apparently has little, if any, chance of getting the nomination."

Two days ago, at Macomb, where General Wood spoke to an open-air audience of perhaps 5,000 people, several of his supporters brought to him copies of a printed appeal to non-Catholics to vote against him. These appeals, printed on fine paper, are being mailed from Chicago. Those brought to General Wood read:

"Major General Leonard Wood is now, and has been for eighteen years, a trustee of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. Georgetown is a Catholic college."

Deplores Raising of Religious Issues.

Some of General Wood's friends wanted him to make reference to this propaganda in the course of his talk at Macomb and other places, but he refused to do so.

"I am not now, and never have been," said the General, "a trustee of Georgetown University, although I would consider it an honor to be the trustee of such a fine institution as I happen to know Georgetown University to be. I am a Protestant, a fact which all of my friends know, but I have nothing but contempt for any person or persons who would seek to influence an election in any of our States by injecting the religious question. Our Catholic citizens are among our most substantial and patriotic people, and those who would seek to divide our people along religious lines are not good citizens, to put it mildly."

General Wood left Peoria at 6:30 o'clock this morning and arrived at Canton, where he made his first speech of the day at 8 A. M. There, despite the early hour, a crowd of about 2,000 people greeted him and escorted him to the public square, where he made a fifteen-minute speech. From Canton he went to Bushnell, where he was welcomed by another fine audience. He spoke to the people of Bushnell from the rear platform of his train.

At Bushnell he made his first references to the politicians, male and female, who seek to advance themselves by stirring up racial and class antagonisms among the people of the United States. He said:

"We want no class legislation in this country; no autocracy of wealth, labor or power; no class standing over the other class; no groups of men saying: 'You work, and we will eat.' What we want is a fair deal, a square deal for all, respect for law, for the rights of property, the rights of mankind; and we can get it, if we pull together.

"This American people of ours is made up of all elements, all blood-strains, from every race on earth. We are now fused into one mass by war. We want to do away with all racial prejudices. We want to shun the politician as a dangerous man and a faker who tries to gain the votes of one class of our population by attacking another, the man who tries to gain votes by attacking German-Americans, Irish-Americans or any other racial group.

"We want to stand for one flag, one loyalty, one country; and that is America, and America a long way first."

Says Constructive Policies are Needed.

At Quincy General Wood made two speeches, the first to a capacity audience in the largest theatre and the second to about 1,500 old soldiers at the Illinois State Soldiers' Home.

"In the coming political struggle," he said at the first, "the Republican Party must not attempt to win on the mistakes of the other party. The nation is quite cognizant of what may be called the mistakes of the war, many of them unavoidable; but those are past, and we have no particular interest in them except to remember them as lessons for the future and avoid repeating them. Our road lies ahead, not behind; and we want to have constructive policies, not only as a party but as a nation."

At Monmouth, and again at Galesburg, General Wood declared that men who sought to gain votes in the United States by attacking friendly nations overseas were "men who are unfit to occupy any position of trust or responsibility."

"There are men," General Wood added, "who seek advancement politically at the cost of international peace, as well as at the cost of harmony at home."

Urges Women to Enter Politics.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., April 8.—General Wood made a plea for the entrance of women into politics in an address delivered here today. "I believe they are going to be a tremendous influence for good," he said.

"The women," he declared, "have been dreaming dreams and seeing visions, but now they are going to have an opportunity to realize those dreams and to make substantial those visions if they will only come into the political field on terms of full equality with the men."

He advised the women when they get into a party to "clean it up from the inside," and added that "the men may attempt to teach you practices you must avoid, but you must come in and level up national politics and see to it that the men of your families go to the polls."

Two Districts Elect Mrs. C. H. Sabin.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, wife of the President of the Guaranty Trust Company, ran for re-election on Tuesday as a member of the Republican County Committee from the Fifth Election District of Southampton. When the returns were tabulated yesterday Mrs. Sabin discovered that she had not only been re-elected but had also been elected to the same committee from the Seventh Election District, where her friends wrote her name on their ballots.

Grayson Denies Setback to President; Weather and Affairs Keep Him Indoors

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Rear Admiral Carey T. Grayson, the President's physician, informed THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent tonight, in response to inquiries, that there was not the slightest foundation for current reports that there had been a setback in the improvement of the President's health. Dr. Grayson said he did not care to dignify these reports with any formal denial, and then added:

"I can tell you for your information that the President is in better condition than at any time since he was taken ill. He is steadily improving, and there has been no setback. I consider his condition now very good and that it is as good as could be expected."

When it was mentioned that the President had not been out motoring for more than a week Dr. Grayson said there was no significance whatever in that. Aside from the fact that there had been cold and raw weather in Washington during the last week, Dr. Grayson said the President had other things to centre his attention.

WOOD MEN CLAIM 14 MICHIGAN VOTES

JOHNSON MEN WANT ALL

Primary Result Is Looked Upon as Eliminating Lowden—Hard Fight Is Expected in Jersey.

Advices yesterday from Michigan managers of Major Gen. Leonard Wood's campaign credited General Wood with fourteen Michigan delegates, although the State was carried by Senator Johnson. The Wood managers say General Wood carried seven Congress districts and that the Michigan primary law entitles him to the two delegates from each district.

The Johnson managers say the entire thirty delegates must be counted for their candidate, as he carried the State. Frederick Moore, a local Wood manager, said yesterday:

"We believe that we saved fourteen delegates out of the lot. Of course, Detroit, which comprises Wayne County and is one Congressional district, swamped us, but we carried practically all of the country districts. Senator Johnson, of course, got the delegates at large as well as the district delegates in the cities he carried, but we are entitled to all the other districts."

Think Lowden Out of Race

Mr. Moore said it was the opinion of many Western Republicans that results in Michigan practically eliminated Governor Lowden of Illinois from the Presidential race.

Eastern managers of the Wood and Johnson campaigns are centring their attentions on New Jersey. The primary contest there April 27 promises to be one of the most interesting in the country. The two Johnson delegates at large, Ballard and Layden, are said to have formed a working agreement with United States Senators Frelinghuysen and Edge, Republican organization members of the "Big Four," who refused to declare for General Wood, and will work against the Wood "Big Four" candidates, Griggs, Runyon, Stokes and Raymond.

Norman J. Gould and Thomas W. Miller, Eastern managers of the Wood campaign, said yesterday that the New Jersey campaign was progressing favorably for General Wood and that they are confident of obtaining the entire delegation for him.

William M. Bennett, defeated candidate for delegate at large on the Johnson ticket in the New York primaries, said yesterday that late returns showed he received more votes in certain election districts up-State than any of the four organization candidates.

Senator Moses, Southern manager of General Wood's campaign, said yesterday:

"General Wood now has 111 delegates pledged to him, and the rest of the 300 will be publicly committed to him before convention time."

Filed in Oregon Primaries.

It was announced that General Wood's name had been entered in the Oregon primaries. A slogan was chosen to comply with the primary law. It is "Law and order; Government based on sane and constructive liberalism."

It was also announced that Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late Colonel Roosevelt, would open her campaign for General Wood in Illinois with a speech in Chicago on Friday night.

At the headquarters of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in the Hotel Commodore it was announced that at a meeting of the Republican District Committee of the Twenty-second Assembly District resolutions were adopted indorsing Dr. Butler's candidacy.

ORGANIZING FOR WOOD TO BE CONTINUED HERE

Meetings to be Held in Every Assembly District in City in Next Two Weeks.

A series of meetings to bring about the formation of local Wood organizations will be held in every Assembly district in New York City within the next two weeks, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Women's Department of the Leonard Wood Campaign Committee at its headquarters in the Hotel Imperial. Former State Senator Courtlandt Nicoll and Mrs. Edward S. Van Zile, who have charge of organization for the Greater New York Campaign Committee, announced that Wood organizations of both men and women had been completed in the Seventh and Ninth Assembly Districts and that similar organizations would be established in the Fifth, Tenth and Eleventh Districts within a fortnight.

Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., will have a meeting of business women at her home, 10 East Ninety-fourth Street, on April 28. Miss Grace Parker will be the speaker. Mrs. Grant Squires will have a meeting at her home, 300 West Seventy-sixth Street, next Monday afternoon.

A Wood rally will be held this evening in the Riverside Republican Club, 107 West Ninety-seventh Street, the regular Republican organization of the Seventh Assembly District. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, President of the Women's Republican Club, and Mrs. Marie Cross Newhaus have charge of the meeting. Walter Wile and Assemblyman Noel B. Fox will speak.

FORD ASKS FRAUD INQUIRY.

Telegraphs Senate Committee to Investigate Elections Charges.

DETROIT, April 8.—A telegram urging an immediate and thorough investigation into the charges of fraud in connection with the Newberry-Ford Senatorial campaign in Michigan in 1918 was sent to the United States Senate Elections Committee by Henry Ford this afternoon. That the investigation is particularly urgent now because of countercharges growing out of the recent Newberry trial "that I also expended large and unlawful sums" was the contention of Mr. Ford.

"These charges are being published broadcast," the message stated. "For more than a year I have urged this investigation, and now I appeal to you personally to order the immediate taking of testimony."

The Elections Committee, which already has ordered a recount in the Michigan Senatorial election, is scheduled to meet Friday.

LOWDEN FIGHTING HARD IN ILLINOIS

His Supporters Are Impressed by Wood's Strength, but Confident of Victory.

THOMPSON A BIG FACTOR

Mayor of Chicago Is Not Expected to Oppose the Governor's Candidacy.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 8.—While General Wood admittedly has developed strength during his tour of the State, the managers of Governor Lowden assert tonight that their candidate will carry the State as a "favorite son" by a comfortable margin. A close fight is expected in Cook County, but the word was passed out today that Mayor William Hale Thompson, whose powerful political machine dominates the county, would keep his hands off and the Lowden managers accept this as and indication of victory. A write in Johnson campaign has also been started by friends of the California Senator, who is not officially designated on the ballot, and the Lowden managers feel that whatever votes go to Johnson will be drawn from the Wood strength.

The forces behind Governor Lowden are making a hard fight, for they realise that a Wood sweep of the State would be a serious, if not a fatal blow to the prestige of the Governor as a contender in the convention.

On the other hand, the situation is not so perilous for Wood. It will be sufficient for the purposes of his campaign if he makes a fair showing, and that seems probable in any event. The Wood managers, for instance, would be very well satisfied, if they obtained from twelve to fifteen of the fifty-eight delegates from Illinois to the convention.

The outcome in Chicago appears to be under the control of Mayor Thompson. Thompson and Lowden have never "played ball" very well, but the Mayor has his political future to look after. He wants to be re-elected National Committeeman and has his eye on the United States Senate. For these reasons practical politics will play a part in what the Thompson machine does in the primary.

At first glance it seems that, while Thompson might find the passionate outbursts of Senator Johnson to his liking, his interests lie in other directions, as nobody in political circles here believes that Johnson will be nominated at the National Convention. In such conditions, where the national issues are concerned, it probably is more to the interests of Mayor Thompson at least not to attempt to defeat Lowden as a "favorite son" by throwing his weight to Wood, no matter how far apart Lowden and Thompson may be in local and State matters.

At any rate, it is generally understood that Thompson and his organization will remain neutral and not attempt to overthrow Lowden because of past troubles. If this proves to be the case, Lowden's chances in Cook County will be greatly improved.

There has been no definite evidence here as yet of a massed movement among the radical elements of the character which gave Senator Johnson his great plurality in Michigan. Neither of the declared candidates in the Illinois field makes the peculiar appeal to the radical element that Senator Johnson does. The Lowden forces are counting on substantial support from labor because, they say, labor is opposed to militarism in any form.

The final fight of the campaign will centre here during the next few days. Governor Lowden will reach Chicago tomorrow morning to make his final appeal, and General Wood will speak in Chicago Saturday evening before going East.

There is a good deal of gossip among women members of the Democratic Party in the Middle West about William G. McAdoo as a possible candidate for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket. Much of this talk has to do with the fact that he is the son-in-law of President Wilson, and wonder is being expressed among the women as to whether this will hurt his chances.

Mr. McAdoo apparently gained much strength with the women by his management of the Liberty Loan campaigns. He insisted that they should take an active part and got them all interested in two things—the Liberty Loan drives and in Mr. McAdoo. From the talk heard here Mr. McAdoo is almost as well advertised among the women as is Herbert Hoover. Most of them seem to like him. The McAdoo sentiment among the women has received an impetus from Mr. Hoover's avowal that he is a Republican.

Lowden Again Preaches Economy.

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, in an address here tonight, reiterated his charges of governmental extravagance. He asserted that rigid economy was necessary "if the country is to avoid the rocks of bankruptcy."

The Governor spoke before the St. Louis Women's Republican Club. Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns of Chicago, National Women's Director of the Lowden campaign, in a speech urged the women to support him.

Governor Lowden argued that the heavy taxation was partly due to "duplication of work in the many unnecessary Government offices" and suggested that many of these offices be merged to reduce taxation, "which means reduction of the living cost."

"You can't reduce the high cost of living until you reduce the high cost of Government," he said.

LA FOLLETTE LOSES TWO.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, April 8.—Two uninstructed delegates will attend the Republican National Convention from Wisconsin. Late returns today assured the election of Henry Lockney of Waukesha and John M. Whitehead of Janesville, from the First District.

La Follette continues to hold his lead as the returns from upstate counties drift in. It is certain that all but two of the delegates will attend the Chicago convention pledged to follow his wishes.

The La Follette delegates may vote to support Hiram Johnson for President. They will meet at Madison in the near future to discuss convention plans. It is expected, unless the Senator wills it otherwise, that the pledged delegates will vote for La Follette on the first and perhaps the second ballot, but will then switch to the man of La Follette's choice. A statement by E. J. Gross, "We will vote for La Follette or a Progressive of his type," sums up the position of the pledged delegates.

The rumor that La Follette would swing to Johnson originated in Madison two weeks ago, when one of Johnson's campaign managers called on the Senator. "Among the present candidates Johnson is the only one I can support," La Follette is reported to have said on that occasion.

HOOVERITES FRAME NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

LUCEY REMAINS CHAIRMAN

Aim Is to Develop Sentiment for Hoover, but Not to Enter Primary Contests.

Formation of a national Hoover organization to take over the clearing house activities of the Hoover National Republican Club and to promote the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for President on a broader scale was announced yesterday after a meeting at the home of Oscar S. Straus, 5 West Seventy-sixth Street, on Wednesday evening. The new organization will retain the name Hoover National Republican Club and the headquarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt.

Captain J. F. Lucey, who has been temporary Chairman of the preliminary Hoover National Republican Club, remains as temporary Chairman of the new national organization. The names of other officers will be made known later. Except for a few California friends, the old temporary organization was made up mostly of Eastern adherents of Mr. Hoover. An attempt will be made to have the new organization really national in its character.

To Develop Hoover Sentiment.

The new organization followed the policy indicated in recent statements by Mr. Hoover by adopting resolutions stating that its purpose was to develop Hoover sentiment rather than to initiate new contests for delegates and calling for economy in campaign expenditures and giving pledges for full publicity. That the hope of Mr. Hoover's nomination is based on the possibility of his selection as a "compromise" candidate was indicated by a resolution, adopted for the guidance of Hoover clubs throughout the country, stating that their efforts should be devoted to presenting Mr. Hoover's qualifications and not in disparagement of other candidates.

Julius Rosenwald of Chicago and Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, son of William H. Taft, are among those active in the new organization.

Denial was made at the Hoover headquarters of the report that Wednesday's conference had been abandoned because of non-attendance. The transfer of the conference from rooms which had been reserved at the Hotel Astor to the home of Mr. Straus was done merely for convenience, it was stated. Hoover Republican clubs representing organizations in twenty-five States were said to have been represented.

The conference approved Mr. Hoover's statement of principles as expressed in his communication to the California Hoover Republican Club and adopted the following declaration of principles for the guidance of Hoover clubs throughout the country:

"First—The objects of the clubs are to show by enrollment the extent of the public interest in national issues as emphasized by Mr. Hoover and to convince delegates to the Chicago convention of the support of this movement from all elements in the community rather than at this late date and with unequal organization to formulate new contests in the primaries.

"Second—This effort should be directed to accent those national measures and the qualifications of Mr. Hoover for their administration, and not in disparagement of other candidates.

"Third—There should be the strictest economy in necessary expenditures and records kept available for full publicity of receipts and expenditures.

"Fourth—As far as possible, this effort should be conducted by the service of volunteers."

Corresponding Officers.

Percy Jones, Toledo; Frank L. Fetzer, Denver; Miss Mabel Choate, New York City; Herbert Myrick, Massachusetts; W. B. Ayer, Oregon; Walter Thorp, Minneapolis; W. A. Duples, Massachusetts; Alfred Coates, Rhode Island; Julius Rosenwald, Chicago; Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati; Jay Cooke, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Caroline Slade, New York City; Robert Scoville, Connecticut; H. B. Earhart, Detroit; E. A. Peden, Texas; Huntley Spaulding, North Rochester, N. H.; F. Fulton Cutting, New York City; J. W. Sherwood, Great Falls, Mont.; R. F. Bicknell, Boise, Idaho; Dr. H. E. Barnard, Indianapolis; W. B. Tagg, Omaha; Sarah Field Splint, Mrs. H. C. Pratt, Gertrude B. Lane, Katherine B. Davis and Mrs. E. M. Whitlock, New York City.

At Mr. Hoover's office at the American Relief Administration, 115 Broadway, it was said he would make no reply yesterday to the letter from Chandler M. Wood, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts, asking whether he would accept the Democratic nomination for President if offered. Doubt was expressed as to whether Mr. Hoover had received the letter.

From another source it was learned that Mr. Hoover is expected to reply to this letter within a few days, making a further definite statement as to his position. According to this information, Mr. Hoover probably will reiterate that he is a Republican and indicate that he has no aspiration for the Democratic nomination. Such a statement, it was said, would remove a certain embarrassment to the Hoover Republican movement, which has been increased by Mr. Hoover carrying the Democratic primaries in Michigan while running fourth in the Republican primaries in that State.

CROKER ON CANDIDATES.

Thinks Wood Strongest Republican, Bryan Dominant Democrat.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, April 8.—Richard Croker digressed from the subject of his trial long enough today to talk on national politics, a subject on which he has not spoken for publication for years, having declared that he was out of politics.

"Who is the strongest candidate?" he was asked.

"Looks to me like Wood," said Mr. Croker.

"But who is the strongest Democratic candidate?"

"They have no strong man, have they? I haven't heard of him."

The former boss of Tammany Hall was asked what he thought of Bryan and Hoover.

"Bryan is the strongest man the Democrats have at present," he said. "I do not know whether he could be elected, but he will dominate the convention anyway. As for Hoover, the machine won't back him, and he can't do anything unless he breaks the machine, and probably that couldn't be done."

Mechanics Take Taxis to Work.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Mechanics in this city are making such high wages that they disdain riding to and from work in street cars and have become habitual users of taxicabs. Drivers of taxis reap a daily harvest, particularly in the vicinity of the new Drake Hotel, in process of construction on Lake Shore Drive, and at the Hotel Ambassador, another mammoth hostelry being built.

Desecration of Russian Churches.

Seize Three More Irish Pickets in Front of British Embassy

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Irish pickets appeared at the British Embassy again today and were promptly arrested by the police on charges of violating a Federal statute.

The pickets arrested were Misses Mary Galvin of 1,529 South Taylor Street, Philadelphia; Maura Quinn, 5 Boynton Street, Jamaica Plains, Mass., and Katherine McKeon, 1,311 Castle Avenue, Philadelphia.

The women did not furnish bail and were taken to the House of Detention to await preliminary trial before United States Commissioner Richardson.

The State Department will take no action to stop picketing of the building by women. An official remarked today that the picketing "which imposes upon the United States Government an affirmative and positive duty when directed against the British Embassy, becomes one of the humors of our civilization when applied to the State Department."

CROWDS IN JERSEY WELCOME JOHNSON

HE ATTACKS NEWSPAPERS

Urges Repeal of War-Time Legislation and Lessening of Living Cost.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, spoke last night in two labor centres in New Jersey—Paterson and Passaic. He had crowded meetings in both places, especially in the former city, where 2,500 people filled the high school auditorium and gave the Senator an enthusiastic welcome.

Senator Johnson prefaced his discussion of national and international questions with an attack on certain New York newspapers. He said:

"Every newspaper that responds to big interests hates a direct primary. Before the Michigan election all the papers which respond to power and influence were telling how Michigan was the pivot of the nation. They were preparing the people for the great event, the expected success of one of my opponents. THE NEW YORK TIMES, after preparing its readers for this victory, now offers an alibi.

"THE TIMES has now discovered that I won the primary in Michigan because the people of the State were radical and because of the unrest, Bolshevism and pro-Germanism there. I had 69,000 votes in the City of Detroit; my next highest opponent had 16,000, so now THE NEW YORK TIMES says that Detroit rendered its decision because of its wickedness. The trouble with my opponents was that they were relying on the money and power of organized politics.

Attacks The Times.

"They overlooked the people. We matched the people against organized power in politics and we won. Perhaps, if this same organized power in politics cannot influence you, they will print alibis to show the wickedness of New Jersey. I have no moneyed interests behind me. I have only the attributes God gave me. Having no interests behind me, I do not worry over what comes from THE NEW YORK TIMES and its little flunkey in your city."

The reference was to a local newspaper, The Paterson Press-Guardian, which yesterday printed an editorial attack upon Senator Johnson. Continuing, the Senator said:

"Because I do not speak of the obvious and use fine phrases I am attacked by a paper like THE NEW YORK TIMES and your delectable sheet in this city. If it is radical to say that I won't permit Wall Street to deprive the common people of the rights they have won in the last thirty years, then I am a radical. My only radicalism, however, is that of the square deal, taught me by Theodore Roosevelt."

The reference to the former President was wildly cheered. From time to time during his address the speaker was cheered, but had no difficulty in continuing. Taking up the issues of the campaign as he saw them, Senator Johnson declared that the great question now facing the nation was whether to travel "the straight and narrow pathways of Americanism, or the entangling byways of European and Asiatic intrigue."

After declaring that he would welcome the extension of The Hague Tribunal into an international forum, Senator Johnson insisted that Article X. of the League covenant "puts the world in a straitjacket and ties the hands of generations to come." He made an obvious reference to Herbert Hoover, as he had in former speeches, by declaring that one of his opponents was "a candidate on all the tickets."

Sees No National Cure-All.

"Many problems have come out of the war," said Senator Johnson, "and many lessons have been learned from it which we may apply in peace. We learned the lesson of service and that there is a place for every person. No man has a cure-all for all Governmental ills. No man has a panacea for everything. We can only touch here and there at a tangent. Any man who pretends to have a cure-all is not worth listening to.

"We passed many laws during the war, laws granting more power to one man and one Administration than ever before. The world never saw such autocratic power in modern times. I would like to do many things. I would repeal this wartime legislation and I would just be American again."

Referring to the high cost of living, Senator Johnson said that behind every man stalks the grim spectre of want.

"With the laws we have," said Mr. Johnson, "the high cost of living could be alleviated to a great extent. The Government could run the whole gamut from producer to consumer and punish the profiteer, wherever it found him."

The speaker declared that the present taxing system was wrong as it placed a burden on the small partnership and should be amended. He attacked what he termed the saturnalia of expenditure in Washington and then said:

"This is no year for the anaemic politician. It is the time for red-blooded men who can give as well as take a blow. There are real things for a real man to take a real stand on. This is a campaign in memoriam. Every candidate is running on the traditions of the greatest American, Theodore Roosevelt."

Senator Johnson declared that the League of Nations was a real issue in the campaign, and the people, he said, would have an opportunity to make their decision regarding it. He said the League would entangle the United States in the affairs of Europe and make the army of the United States police the four corners of the world.

Leaving Paterson, the Senator spoke in Passaic under the auspices of the Passaic Republican Club in the High School auditorium. He was introduced by Mayor John H. McGuire, who said the Senator had made a success as Governor of California and as United States Senator, and added: "I feel he would make a great success as President of the United States."

The Republican Club has not declared for Mr. Johnson, but has invited all the Republican candidates to speak in the city. Senator Johnson made the same speech in Passaic as he did in Paterson. About 1,000 people filled the auditorium comfortably and none had to stand.

ASSERTS WAR FOUND ACTIVE NAVY READY

DENIES CHARGES BY SIMS

Morale in Service Was High and Fleet Prepared for All Emergencies, He Asserts.

FEARS HARM FROM INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Admiral H. B. Wilson, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, disagreed today with many of Rear Admiral Sims's criticisms of the Navy Department's conduct of the war. Before the Senate Investigating Committee the Admiral declared the active fleet never was better prepared for war than in April, 1917. The department whole-heartedly and energetically co-operated with the Allies from the moment war was declared, and "full and complete" plans were prepared to meet a German naval offensive.

The navy's accomplishments in the war, the Admiral said, "deserve the commendation of the nation," for they were so stupendous as to make "relatively unimportant" any mistakes.

Five days after the United States declared war Secretary Daniels told representatives of the allied Admiralties that the United States Navy would do whatever they suggested as best for the common cause, the witness said, and plans then agreed on were immediately placed in effect. At that time, he asserted, the foreign officials did not "express any dire need for urgency" for naval assistance.

They suggested, he said, that the United States take over the work of patrolling the waters adjacent to this country, and one representative suggested that the United States send "one destroyer abroad in order that the flag may be shown to let it be known that the United States Navy has actually joined the naval forces of the Allies."

Says Department Co-operated.

"I fully believe that both representatives (those of France and Great Britain) felt that they had successfully accomplished their mission; that they were more than pleased with their reception by the Secretary of the Navy and were especially impressed with the hearty manner in which the responsible officers of the Navy Department had shown their desire to co-operate and thus further the cause against the common enemy," declared Admiral Wilson.

"No nation upon the approach of war has had a force of battleships more nearly prepared for battle than was the force to which I was attached and which spent the Winter of 1916-17 in Southern waters," he testified. "I feel sure that if this force had engaged an enemy on its cruise north in the Spring of 1917 the victory would have been ours."

Morale in the service was high at that time, the officer said, and the active fleet prepared for any emergency.

Asked by Chairman Hale what the American fleet could have done had the German fleet broken through the British line during the war, the Admiral said, "We would have given it a pretty good drubbing."

"What vessels we had were in as good condition in April, 1917, as the British fleet was in August, 1914," he said.

"Couldn't you have prepared more fully between 1914 and April, 1917?" asked Chairman Hale.

"I don't think so, when you consider the sentiment in the United States during that period," replied the Admiral.

Chairman Hale said the committee was "only trying to learn the mistakes the navy made to avoid them in the future."

Asserts Mistakes Are Studied.

"It doesn't need any one to make a stir to bring the mistakes out," replied the witness. "They are being studied by the brightest minds in the navy and the lessons will be well learned."

"The Congress of the United States has the right to investigate these things and will do so," retorted Chairman Hale.

"I don't question that," replied the officer. "It is no pleasure for me to be here, but I feel it my duty. My conscience is perfectly clear as to the navy's performance in the war and to my part in it."

On cross-examination the Admiral suggested that greater authority and responsibility be given the chief of naval operations, but said that he would not have that official encroach on the authority of the Secretary of the Navy, for he added: "The navy's salvation is to have a civilian at the head."

Asked by Chairman Hale concerning Admiral Sims's charge that delays by the department in the first six months prolonged the war four months and cost 500,000 lives, Admiral Wilson said:

"I do not believe that can be true. On the contrary, our co-operation shortened the war and saved much life and property. I believe our naval forces from the start co-operated in a most successful manner with the Allies."

Rear Admirals F. Fletcher of the General Board and Thomas Washington, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, will be heard tomorrow.

Fight Walsh as Greenwich Leader.

STAMFORD, Conn., April 8.—Greenwich millionaires are going into politics. The Greenwich Republican Club, whose officers include Alfred L. Ferguson, Calvin M. Truesdale, Julian W. Curtiss, Weld Stevens, M. B. Foster, Clifford D. Mallory, Irving Bacheller and Colby M. Chester, was organized last night for the purpose of ridding Greenwich of its Republican leader, James F. Walsh, who is one of Connecticut's "big four" politicians. He was denounced at the meeting and it was stated that an effort would be made to elect anti-Walsh delegates to the coming conventions.

Tennessee Republicans Unpledged.

HAVEMEYER JILTED HER, SAYS MANICURE

TELLS OF ROSES AND CANDY

Asserts He Posed as "Mr. Palmer" and That She Didn't Know He Was Married.

Hector Havemeyer of 875 Park Avenue, grandson of the late William F. Havemeyer, founder of the sugar refining firm of that name, was revealed as the defendant in an action for $100,000 damages for alleged breach of promise to marry by a complaint filed yesterday in the Supreme Court. The complainant is Harriet Hearn, a former manicure in the Grand Central Terminal, who alleges that Mr. Havemeyer, whom she says she first met under the name of "Palmer," installed her in rooms in the Hotel Richmond, 70 West Forty-sixth Street, visited her daily, and promised to introduce her into society and take her on a trip South before she learned that he was already married and had a child.

The complaint, filed by Rosenthal & Halperin of 1,476 Broadway, attorneys for Miss Hearn, alleges that Mr. Havemeyer was introduced to her as "Mr. Palmer" last November by Samuel Foster, a special policeman at the Grand Central Terminal. In an affidavit Miss Hearn says:

"Mr. Palmer claimed that he had been watching me for more than a month and that I was the one woman and the only woman for him. He made me believe that he loved me and that he was going to take me South. He promised to marry me and to introduce me into society.

"One day at luncheon Mr. Palmer told me that his real name as Hector Havemeyer. I found that I loved him so much that he could tell me anything and I would believe him. Now, Hector Havemeyer not only refuses to see me, but also refuses to pay the balance of the hotel bills. The hotel people made me give up the room when the rent wasn't being paid. Since that time I have had nothing but trouble. Everything I own is being held at the hotel."

The complaint, which alleges that Mr. Havemeyer promised to marry Miss Hearn in December last, apparently was served about a week ago upon Henry Uttal, 32 Broadway, as Mr. Havemeyer's attorney, because, as explained by Miss Hearn's lawyers, the process server had been unable to reach Mr. Havemeyer personally at his home or at his office, 165 Broadway.

Mr. Uttal in his answer, which was filed simultaneously with the complaint, denied on behalf of his client Miss Hearn's allegations and set up as an additional defense that the latter is married to a man named Garry Hearn. The plaintiff denies this allegation.

Hector H. Havemeyer of 875 Park Avenue is 48 years old. He married Miss Rae M. Russell in 1902.

SAYS TRICK COST HER BABY.

Mother, Seeking Revocation of Adoption, Charges Fraud.

Mrs. Margaret O. White, housekeeper for the Rev. Dr. A. H. Allen at 24 Gramercy Park, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to revoke the adoption of her daughter, Marion Hope White, 3 years old, by Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Williams on the ground that they induced her to sign a consent to the adoption of her baby by deception.

Mrs. White says she was married in 1916 to Harold B. White, a motion picture actor, and that he abandoned her just before the birth of her daughter on May 16, 1917. She says that she put the baby to board with the Williams family and paid $20 a month for its maintenance while she was employed last Summer as housekeeper at Sea Girt, N. J. She alleges that Mr. Williams came to her and asked her to sign a paper which he told her was necessary in order that he and his wife could keep possession of the little girl and take her to the country. Mrs. White had no one to advise her as to the legal effect of signing the paper, she says, but afterward found that she signed a consent to the adoption.

Mrs. White alleges that Mr. Williams is 60 years old and his wife 45, and that since his wife is employed at Tiffany's the child is in the care of Mr. Williams most of the time. She states that she is able to earn a living as hotel auditor, accountant, nurse or housekeeper, and that her sister, Miss Hannah Counihan, who is curator of the Anderson Art Galleries, and her brother, William J. Counihan, head of theatrical enterprises, will assist her to care for her daughter.

"There was never any necessity for my child to be adopted by strangers," said Mrs. White. "My baby still remembers me and still shows her childish affection and attachment for me. I have been suffering the greatest anguish and the keenest anxiety because of the fact that I have lost my child, and very earnestly ask the court to set aside the order of adoption because my consent was obtained by deception."

FAIL TO DISPLACE JUDGE.

Appeal of 4 Alleged Albany Profiteers Is Denied at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 8.—Federal Judge Harland B. Howe this afternoon denied applications made by four Albany corporations, under indictment for profiteering, to remove him from jurisdiction over their cases. He ordered the defendants to proceed to trial at once.

They had filed affidavits that he was "biased and prejudiced" against the defendants, basing their assertions on statements which they charge he made during arguments before him on demurrers to the indictments Tuesday.

Judge Howe, in his order, said that he had never seen or heard of the defendants before the case was called, and insisted that the allegations which the defendants made as to statements by him were false.

The defendants, according to present indications, will proceed to trial with Cotrell & Leonard as the first defendants, the Paris Suit and Cloak Company second, the John G. Myers Company third, and the Schenectady Clothing Company fourth.

"HOODWINKED," SAYS COLT.

Because Samuel Pomeroy Colt, President of the United States Rubber Company, knows less about Jersey cows than about rubber, he alleges in papers filed in the Supreme Court yesterday that he was defrauded by T. J. Cooper & Sons, dealers in registered cattle, of Coopersburg, Pa. He makes a claim for $20,500, of which $3,000 is for feeding part of a herd since Jan. 26, 1918, when, he asserts, the dealers agreed to take them back.

The dealers sued Colonel Colt recently for a balance due on the cattle, after he had paid $5,000. In his answer he asks that the complaint be dismissed because the cattle are on his farm at Bristol, R. I., and since it will be necessary to have experts go outside of New York State to examine the cows in support of his allegations that he was defrauded, the courts of New York should not have jurisdiction over the action.

Mrs. Daniels Suffrage Delegate.

Appointment of Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, by President Wilson as representative of the United States to the eighth congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance in Geneva, Switzerland, June 6-12, was announced yesterday by the National American Woman Suffrage Association. Thirty-one countries will be represented in the congress, new woman suffrage organizations from Argentina, Uruguay, Greece and Spain having been admitted since the armistice.

IRISH LOYALISTS DECIDE TO UNITE FOR DEFENSE

LONDON, Friday, April 9.—The Daily Graphic says that the situation in the South and West of Ireland has become so serious that the loyalists have not only decided to organize for their own defense, but are appealing to English sympathizers to aid in the new movement.

Irish republicans, says The Graphic, are beginning "an organized campaign of what is practically expropriation of land, under threats of violence and murder."

One thousand and eighty-nine outrages were committed in Ireland between January, 1919, and March 29, 1920, according to an official White Paper, which attributes them to the Sinn Fein movement.

Thirty-one police, military and officials and five civilians were killed, 81 were fired upon and 52 were assaulted.

DUBLIN, April 8.—A new form of outrage has been devised by Sinn Feiners. While a fashionable dance was in progress at a public hall in Dungarvan, a popular seaport of County Waterford, the building was attacked and the windows were smashed. This was done with stones that fell in the ballroom and caused a stampede of the dancers.

Following this shots were fired, and the front door of the hall was smashed in by the assailants, who, when they got inside, demanded that the Union Jack flags hanging around the hall as decorations should be handed over to them. When these had been handed to them they withdrew. The ball then continued without further interruption.

Early in the day a request had been made that the Union Jacks should be replaced by Sinn Fein flags as decorations, but this was refused. The women dancers were much upset when the raiders fired revolvers.

W. F. Snyder Sent to Matteawan.

William F. Snyder, 74 years old, who asserted he was a Federal Deputy Attorney General under President Benjamin Harrison and a former Auditor General of Pennsylvania, was adjudged insane by a commission yesterday and committed to Matteawan. Snyder was arrested at his home, 801 St. Nicholas Avenue, on March 8, under an indictment charging grand larceny. It was alleged Snyder sold stock in an aviation company to aviation officers on the promise that they would be provided with paying jobs when demobilized. Friends advised the District Attorney that Snyder had been a victim of mental trouble, and the commission was named. Mrs. Snyder testified that her husband had not been normal for twelve years as the result of an attack upon him by holdup men.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Pressure remains low over the Northern States from the Great Lakes eastward to Maine, and it is low and falling over the West Gulf States and the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions. It is high over the North Plains States and the Western Canadian Provinces, except British Columbia. Cool weather continues over the North States from the Mississippi Valley eastward, while moderate temperatures prevail in the Southern States and generally west of the Mississippi River.

Within the last twenty-four hours there were light local snows in the region of the Great Lakes and the North Atlantic States and rains in the Gulf States and locally over the Rocky Mountain region and North Pacific States.

A disturbance that is now over Texas will advance eastward and be attended by threatening weather and showers Friday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Tennessee and the lower Ohio Valley, and Saturday in the South Atlantic and Middle Atlantic States and the upper Ohio Valley. Otherwise the weather will be fair in the States east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the eastern half of the country during Friday and Saturday.

ST. LOUIS
SALE BY TENDER

Offers are invited for the sale of the Steel Twin Screw Passenger Steamer "ST. LOUIS" as she now lies afloat at the yard of Messrs. W. & A. Fletcher & Company, Hoboken, N. J., where she can be examined.

The "ST. LOUIS" is 10,230 tons gross register, has two sets of quadruple expansion engines, six double ended and four single ended boilers, approximate dimensions 535 ft. long, 63 ft. beam, 25 ft. 6 inches depth, built by Messrs. Wm. Cramp & Sons, Philadelphia, in 1895. New boilers fitted in 1903.

Intended purchasers must satisfy themselves as to the vessel's condition and particulars as she now lies cleaned out and open for examination.

All offers must be accompanied by certified cheque for 25% of bid, successful bidder to take possession of vessel upon confirmation by letter of acceptance of his offer, at which time the balance of purchase money is to be paid. We reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Tenders to be handed in on or before noon, Thursday, April 22nd, 1920, at which time they will be opened, and to be addressed to COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ....6¾@7½ for the best names
Wednesday ....6¾@7½ for the best names

Another Use for Carbon.

The superiority of the nitrogen lamp over the common carbon or arc light took away the large market which carbon enjoyed for that purpose. Another outlet for the material, however, came along with the growth of the moving picture industry. The carbon light for projecting machines is one for which a substitute has not been found. The outlet for the material in this field is said to be larger than what it enjoyed before, when arcs were the common form of street lighting.

Printcloths Were Dominating.

Buying of printcloths dominated yesterday's activities in the local gray goods market. April-May deliveries of 39-inch 72-76s were sold at 30 cents, with the same goods disposed of for July, August and September at 28½ cents each. For April 39-inch 68-72s buyers paid 27 cents. Spot business in 38½-inch 64-60s was put through at 25½ cents, with a cent a yard less paid for July-August deliveries of the same construction. For shipment in May and June, 27-inch 64-60s sold for 16½ cents. Sales in other quarters of the market did not develop much of interest.

Chop Suey Eaters, Attention!

Chopsticks are going out of fashion in the Far East, according to an authority on matters pertaining to the American cutlery trade, and many inquiries are being received from Hongkong for American table knives and forks. Carving sets of the more inexpensive kinds are also being asked for by dealers in that part of the world. The same authority says, however, that the American cutlery manufacturers, having developed a higher quality of blade since the outbreak of the war, are devoting the most of their attention to domestic requirements. The call for the goods in question is taken by these manufacturers as another indication of the increasing popularity of American cutlery products throughout the world.

Discounts on Navy Goods.

Until April 20 the Navy Department will sell its surplus goods in quantity lots at the following discounts: Orders of $10,000 or more, 5 per cent.; $25,000 or more, 10 per cent.; $50,000 or more, 15 per cent., and $100,000 or more, 20 per cent. Lieut. Commander Eugene H. Tricou, senior member of the Board of Survey, Appraisal and Sale for the Third Naval District, which includes Brooklyn, calls attention to the advantage of getting immediate delivery, which has been facilitated by perfecting the organization for the purpose. He emphasizes, too, the quality of the goods sold, mentioning the fact that all goods sold to the navy had to pass rigid examination.

Lace Week Anticipations.

The lace and embroidery trade expects especially good results from the emphasis that will be given their lines during the period from April 26 to May 8. The wholesalers anticipate more than the usual co-operation from the retail trade owing to the fact that laces and embroideries are enjoying the favor of fashion. Conditions in the wholesale line at present are fairly active, but the full effect of concentrated retail selling which commences the latter part of April will come at that time. More seasonable weather, it is also stated, will encourage heavier orders. Importers are somewhat troubled over the strikes abroad, which are holding up shipments from the foreign forwarding centres.

Imported Veilings Attractive.

A number of attractive novelties are included in the more recent importations of veilings. Among them is a neat invisible mesh effect, on which various patterns are rather heavily worked out. Solid leaf effects worked out in wool are seen on the borders of some of the new veils, these being developed in green, rust, King's blue, &c. Effective scroll and flower patterns in ribbozene embroidery are seen also, particularly in border designs, although the use of this material is not altogether new. The so-called face patterns have apparently given way to wide borders, these often being turned back over the bodies of hats as smart trimming touches. Colored designs on dark meshes are frequently seen in the new veils. Jade is much used in this way, and is particularly effective when employed on a veil of brown mesh.

Raw Silk Prices Unsettled.

The Yokohama raw silk market opened the week with a fair-sized business on the basis of 3,500 yen for the double extra and 3,430 yen for the best No. 1 to extra qualities. A slump on the Silk Exchange which followed, however, brought the price of Shinshu No. 1 down to 3,150 yen, and another break on the exchange of 150 yen, which followed, left the market weak and unsettled. Stocks available there are placed at 17,000 bales by cables received in this city by H. L. Gwalter & Co. Cables from Canton report the market stronger, with holders greatly concerned over the unfavorable weather conditions. Prices are hardening. The Shanghai market also is showing a better tone and is reporting more business, chiefly for European consumption. At Milan the Europeans are also buying, but there is no American demand there. News of the break in prices at Yokohama stopped a promising spurt in buying activity locally.

Business in Discounts.

For the stores which have been accustomed to take their profits from discounts, the present time, according to a store expert, offers exceptional advantages except for one thing. This, he declared, was the fact that, as anxious as wholesale sellers are to sell on specially liberal terms in order to get money, the buyers are hampered from accepting such proffers by the same need of money. In other words, money is getting to be expensive, if the word can be used, and both buyer and seller are confronted with the problem of converting merchandise into it. There is a tendency, he notes, toward eliminating what might be called "intermediate terms," that is, cash is sought and if it cannot be obtained immediately no inducement is held forth in between the cash and net basis of payment.

Silk Shirts Still "Good."

In spite of a number of cancellations based on pessimistic reports said to be without foundation, silk shirts are far from dead articles. On the other hand, according to opinion expressed yesterday in the local trade, they are just as "good" as they ever were, as many of the "weak brothers" in the retail haberdashery trade are going to find out before very long. Admitting that there is little incentive for buying silk shirts at retail as against cotton ones with the breath of Winter still in the air, trade authorities contend that the coming of real warm weather, with the consequent shedding of coats that takes place in many parts of the country on informal occasions, will greatly stimulate the call for the merchandise. It is then, the same authorities say, the cancelers referred to are going to feel the need of merchandise they could have had, but which is now being snapped up by other merchants who can look ahead.

Margins of Profit.

Although campaigns to eliminate the profiteer are in full blast at present and the retail business is decidedly in the limelight, the more detailed knowledge [illegible] investigators [illegible] since they started to work [illegible] to provide a proper designation for mark-up and profit. As a merchant pointed out yesterday, expenses and profit are still lumped together under the head of "margins of profit," and [illegible] a margin of profit of [illegible] per cent. [illegible] by a fair price [illegible] [illegible] at [illegible] to the bank and deposit. The storekeeper, of course, knows that the margin of profit means anything but that, since the mark-up to cover operating and selling expenses may come to 25 per cent., leaving him a scant [illegible] per cent. to put in the bank. Consequently, those merchants who are striving to correct opinions about their business would appreciate a more accurate substitute for the phrase "margins of profit."

TO ARBITRATE FIRE LOSSES.

Companies Agree On Plan to Settle Differences Among Them.

Fire insurance companies have agreed to arbitrate differences between companies over the amount of liability each should pay on claims. The importance of this agreement, according to officials of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, lies in the fact that companies are frequently involved in expensive lawsuits against each other over disputes on liability.

Under the plan, which is operative immediately as 75 per cent. of the members of the board have voted in favor of it, all disputes will be heard and passed upon by a Committee of Arbitration to be appointed from the membership of the board.

The agreement, however, does not affect the relations between the companies and the policy holders. Backers of the plan have only sought to do away with litigation.

LIQUOR SELLERS FACE JAIL.

Court Announces Last Fines for Volstead Act Violations.

Federal Judge Garvin in Brooklyn yesterday announced that hereafter he would impose jail sentences on persons convicted before him of violations of the Volstead act. He said that the impression was current that all violators of the law had to do was to plead guilty and be fined.

He fined Christian Meyer of 423 Fulton Street $250 and Charles Hublander of 2 West Park Avenue, Corona, $50 for violating the Volstead act. Morris Boyansky, a drug clerk of 205 Powell Street, was fined $25 for selling alcohol. Mrs. Ida Silverman of 608 Third Avenue was fined $50, and her son, Alexander Silverman, was fined $10. The two latter said that they were selling wine for sacramental purposes.

MAYOR INSPECTS 5TH AV.

Police Band Marches Tonight in Thoroughfare's Celebration.

Mayor Hylan and other city officials were guests of the Fifth Avenue Association yesterday and under the guidance of Robert Grier Cooke and William Pedrick of the association were taken on a tour of the thoroughfare and acquainted with the features of the celebration. The city officials witnessed a pageant entitled "A Day's Work," which was given by the pupils of the Washington Irving High School in Madison Square Park in the afternoon.

"The Mayor gave frequent expressions of his interest in what he saw," Mr. Cooke said. "He told us he welcomed the co-operation of our organization in working for the betterment of the city. We have received scores of letters complimenting us on the success of this, our first attempt at an annual celebration of this character.

"The attention of the people has been focused on the avenue this week and many have offered constructive suggestions for its betterment. For instance, several have spoken about the few billboard signs which remain. We welcome suggestions from the public, for, after all, Fifth Avenue is their street."

Tonight the Police Band will march down the avenue playing the march named after the thoroughfare. Illumination of the store windows will continue.

United Neighborhood Houses Dinner

The United Neighborhood Houses of New York gave a dinner last night at the Hotel Pennsylvania to celebrate the completion of the first year of the organization. Dr. John L. Elliott, Headworker of Hudson Guild; Miss Josephine Schain, Headworker of Recreation Rooms; George J. Hecht, Chairman of the Publicity Committee; Miss Annie W. Goodrich of the Henry Street Visiting Nurse Service; Harold Reigelman, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, and George J. La Monte, Treasurer, spoke.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Heavy realizing sales came into the stock market after a broad advance yesterday, a development which caused much irregularity in the industrial list at the close of business. Issues which had scored sharp gains since Monday declined, in many cases, from 2 to 4 points, but at the same time a number of railroad equipment, sugar and specialty shares left off with sizable gains. While the selling was doubtless a natural product of the week's upturn, tempting traders to convert part of their profits into cash, the comment of the Street indicated that uncertainty over several fundamental factors as affecting business and transportation had a share in furthering sales. The spread of insurgency among union railway workers was considered as a disquieting matter, threatening a serious handicap upon freight movement from various Western and Mid-Western railroad centres. The first report of the year by the Department of Agriculture upon the Winter wheat outlook was considered hardly satisfactory, showing a condition of the growing plant 6% per cent. lower than the ten-year average at this season.

These two news items found application to sentiment in the afternoon. [illegible]

FINANCIERS PLAN $250,000,000 ISSUES

$30,000,000 FOR N. Y. C. R. R.

Announcement of Equipment Certificate Sale Expected Today—Standard Oil May Seek $100,000,000.

New financing aggregating close to $250,000,000 is being discussed by bankers and railroad and industrial leaders and it is expected that most of this will be definitely announced within a very short time. Market conditions now are regarded as especially propitious and it is pointed out that the big issues which already have been offered to the public have been absorbed in remarkably quick time and in a manner to give great encouragement both to bankers and to applicant concerns.

The New York Central, it is expected, will announce the sale of an issue of equipment trust certificates to a banking group headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. today. This issue, it is believed, will be between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 and the offering price is likely to be in the neighborhood of 7 per cent. The New York Central, like other roads, has been contracting for considerable amounts of new equipment lately, and as equipment securities are usually regarded as prime and are more readily taken by private and institutional investors than other forms of railroad securities, [illegible]

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Time Money Appears.

Not only did call money rates remain easy, that is to say at 6 per cent., throughout the day, but for the first time in quite a long while there was time money to be had by brokers. The amount offered, it was reported, was in the neighborhood of $5,000,000, and if this is so the brokers ought to be greatly encouraged—as doubtless they were—for time money, at anything approaching reasonable rates, is the ultimate desideratum of the stock brokerage profession. The rate at which time loans were made yesterday, again according to report, was [illegible] per cent., and the money was placed [illegible] needless to add, the offerings were quickly absorbed.

"Hidden Gold."

Comparing yesterday's Bank of England statement with the arrivals of gold, and the added amount said to be on the Philadelphia, which is due to arrive today, the exponents of "hidden" gold stocks at London can make out quite a case for their contentions. To date, the Bank of England has lost a little more than [illegible] say [illegible] in the three weeks since the movement started. [illegible] such a thing would be entirely possible.

* * *

Lire and Francs.

The persistent weakness of French francs and lire have been occasioning no end of comment and gossip among exchange brokers, but no one seems to have any very definite idea of just what is happening to cause these unusual movements. [illegible] are weaker even than francs.

* * *

Par Collections.

The advocates of the Federal Reserve system's par collection of checks plan claim to have won a notable victory in the decision of United States Judge Beverly D. Evans in the case of the American Bank and Trust Company against the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta. [illegible] presentation of one check and the presentation of several at one time.

* * *

A Stutz Motor Reflex.

Yesterday's stock market dealings supplied further evidence that the shorts in issues comprising a relatively small number of shares were in a highly nervous condition. [illegible] and feeds out a heavy flow of offerings.

* * *

Motor Merger Talk.

Speculative attention to the motor stocks yesterday brought the first gossip heard in several months of merger possibilities. The Maxwell Motor Car Company and the Hupp Motor Company were linked together, and stock of the latter was advanced more than three points. Confirmation was lacking, but this did not detract from the exercise of imagination in respect to the outlook for a consolidation of certain automobile concerns. [illegible] expectation of communities of interest between producers later on.

* * *

No Allis Chalmers Dividend.

Directors of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company failed to declare a dividend on the common stock at yesterday's meeting, thereby disappointing traders who had accumulated the shares of late. The report covering 1919 operations was reviewed by the board and will be issued shortly.

* * *

Equipment Issues Rise.

Railroad equipment shares were prominent in the morning's rise and held their gain fairly well in the afternoon reaction. Haskell & Barker moved up more than 3 points net, Baldwin 3⅜, American Locomotive 1⅝ points and Railway Steel Springs 1⅞ points. Pressed Steel Car swung upward to 100¾, a gross gain of 3 points being recorded at this level, but offerings were sufficient later to remove almost all the rise. This stock is a puzzle to traders who lay stress on small capitalization. Its outstanding $12,500,000 common stock looks small in comparison with many other issues, but it has not lent itself easily to pool operations.

Up to the Brotherhoods.

In local railroad offices it was stated that apparently the strike of yard employes in the Chicago terminals gradually was giving way to the efforts being put forth by the railroad brotherhoods and the executives. The latter are cooperating to break the so-called outlaw strike, and reports from Chicago received in the financial district indicated that considerable headway had been made. In the words of one railroad man: "It is up to the Brotherhoods to handle this situation and from what we hear they are doing it well; the outlaw strike should be ended within the next few days." It was admitted that other terminals between New York and Chicago have been affected to some slight extent, but the cases have been isolated and were reported to have no connection with the Chicago organization which is handling the strike in that city.

Rails Ease Off.

The majority of the railroad shares were inclined to be easier yesterday, and, while no heavy selling was apparent, there was enough stock offered during the day to depress prices fractionally. Reading closed with a net gain of about a point, and Northern Pacific was fractionally higher, with several other issues displaying a firm undertone. Among these were Louisville & Nashville and Southern, and Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Illinois Central.

* * *

U. S. Realty Touches High.

United States Realty was one of the features, and on a fair volume of business sold at 69¾, a new high record for the year. When the last-hour reaction started, however, it was apparent the speculators had been attracted by the issue, as it eased off sharply to a closing at 66. That this was due to profit taking was the general opinion.

Information Regarding Foreign Internal Loans

The constant discussion regarding the depreciation in the value of foreign currencies prompted us to prepare a new circular which explains briefly the reasons for this depreciation. The circular explains why it is to the advantage of Americans to buy the internal loans of European governments rather than purchase drafts of deposit money for their account in foreign banks.

Brief descriptions of some of the more attractive foreign investments are included.

NEW HAVEN ORDERS FORTY LOCOMOTIVES

Stock Will Cost $2,800,000—Southern Pacific to Buy 65 Cars and Build 4,000.

COACHES AT $25,000 EACH

Program Includes 30 Baggage, 2,000 Box, 1,000 Flat and 1,000 Stock Cars and 65 Cabooses.

On the eve of the big railroad meeting in Chicago today, where it is expected a comprehensive report will be submitted showing just what the equipment needs of the railroad are, it was learned that the Southern Pacific Company has placed a substantial order for passenger coaches and baggage cars with the Pullman Company, and will build more than 4,000 cars in its own railroad shops. It was also learned that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has placed orders for forty large freight locomotives. These are estimated at $70,000 each, making the value of the order $2,800,000.

The order placed with the Pullman Company is for 35 passenger coaches, 28 for the Southern Pacific and 7 for the San Diego & Arizona, and for 30 baggage cars. The average cost of passenger coaches now is in the neighborhood of $25,000, according to some estimates. This would mean an expenditure by the company on this item alone of $750,000, while baggage cars cost in the neighborhood of $20,000, making the bill for the latter $600,000. Just what the cost of the 2,000 box cars, 1,000 flat cars, 1,000 stock cars and 65 cabooses the company is planning to build in its shops will be cannot be estimated, as the only available figures are those quoted on similar equipment by the car manufacturing companies.

It was learned yesterday that the construction program of the company distributes the car building to the shops both east and west of El Paso. It is expected that the majority of the equipment will be manufactured in the Los Angeles and San Francisco shops, although some of the building will be done at Houston and Algiers.

In connection with the purchase of locomotives the New Haven issued the following statement:

"To the extent of its financial ability the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is increasing transportation capacity to better meet the commercial requirements. Contracts have been made for forty large freight locomotives. They will operate on the Shore Line. This will release other engines of less capacity for service on other lines of the system for which they are well suited. The delivery of the new power is promised during July and August. Construction of the large terminals for freight trains and classification at Cedar Hill and at Providence has been resumed, and if the circumstances enable the continued prosecution of the work both of these facilities will be largely completed by the close of the season. The new locomotives and the yard improvements if completed should greatly improve the service before the end of the present year."

Stock Dividends in Whitman Mills.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 8.—The Directors of the Nonquitt Cotton Spinning Mill of this city have recommended that the capital stock be increased to $4,800,000 by means of a stock dividend of 100 per cent. Directors of the Manomet Mill recommended a stock dividend of 66 2-3 per cent., increasing the capital to $5,000,000, and also recommend that new capital be issued to the extent of $3,000,000, bringing the total capital to $8,000,000, to be subscribed at par by the stockholders in proportion to their previous holdings. Both corporations are controlled by the William Whitman interests.

ELDER STEEL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, INC.
First Mortgage Serial 7% Gold Bonds
Due $215,000 Annually, Jan. 1921~1930 Inclusive.

THE Elder Steel Steamship Company, Inc., was organized under the laws of the State of Delaware as successor to the Eldorado Steamship Company, which has heretofore conducted a general maritime and steamship business with headquarters at the Port of New York.

For detailed information regarding the First Mortgage Serial Seven Per Cent. Gold Bonds, attention is directed to a letter from Mr. George R. Elder, Jr., President of the Company, copies of which will be supplied upon request and from which the following is summarized:

Security: These bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage upon the two steel steamships, Deerfield and West Catanace, appraised at $2,479,875 and $1,901,925, respectively, an aggregate valuation of $4,381,800, or more than 200% of this issue of bonds.

Description of Ships: The S. S. Deerfield was completed in 1918 and the S. S. West Catanace in 1919. They are both of the oil burner type, and the Company is fully protected as to fuel requirements through a very advantageous contract with the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), extending to August, 1921. The S. S. Deerfield is a refrigerator ship of 9,725 deadweight tonnage and is one of the two largest American meat carrying steamers. The S. S. West Catanace, of 8,453 deadweight tonnage, is considered the most desirable size for a general cargo carrier. These two vessels are of the most modern construction and have the highest classification under Lloyds and the American Bureau, respectively.

Earnings: In accordance with the terms of existing contracts, the gross receipts from January 15 to July 20, 1920, will amount to about $2,010,000. For the calendar year 1920 the gross receipts are estimated at $2,730,000, and the net profits, after deducting all operating and voyage expenses, including insurance, management and repairs, at $1,560,000. After deducting Federal taxes for this period, estimated by independent auditors at $225,000, the balance amounts to $1,335,000, as compared with annual bond interest requirements of $150,500.

Mortgage Provisions: In accordance with the provisions of the mortgage, the Company covenants that:

It will not voluntarily create or suffer to be created, any lien or charge having precedence over or parity with these bonds and that it will promptly pay or secure all lawful claims or demands, however arising, which, if unpaid, might by law have precedence over or parity with the bonds as a lien or a charge upon the vessels.

It will maintain the mortgaged vessels and equipment in good repair and first class seaworthy condition, in accordance with the highest classification and rating for steamships of their ages and types in the American Bureau of Shipping, Lloyds or similar classification bureau.

While any of these bonds are outstanding, it will keep the steamships covered with insurance with responsible underwriters, for an amount equal to not less than 125% of the par value of bonds outstanding. The trustee covenants to see that the vessels are kept fully insured in the event of any such omission on the part of the Company.

C. A. MORSE HEADS NEW STUTZ MOVE

Broker Is Made Chairman of Committee to Handle Shorts' Interest.

EXCHANGE DEMANDS DATA

Requires Statements of Closing Commitments in Motor Stock on April 7.

Charles A. Morse of the firm of Clark, Childs & Co. and President of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, has been selected to head a committee which will handle the interests of the shorts in the Stutz Motor Car Company corner, which resulted in a suspension of trading in the shares on the New York Stock Exchange more than a week ago. The appointment of Mr. Morse followed a number of conferences which were held early in the day. His selection was urged by many of the brokerage firms in this city whose customers are short of Stutz stock, and also by several out-of-town firms. The full committee will consist of three members, the additional two to be appointed by Mr. Morse today. There was no intimation last night as to who the members would be.

The law firm of Rosenberg & Ball has been retained to act with the committee. James Rosenberg of the firm would not comment on the situation, refusing to outline any policy which the committee might pursue. It is understood, however, that the situation has passed the point of amicable settlement, and is only a step removed from the courts. According to report, the representatives of the shorts will refuse to make delivery of borrowed stock should such a demand be made by Allan A. Ryan, the intimation being that he will have to take legal measures to recover.

While the New York Stock Exchange, in so far as it is officially concerned, is not taking positive action, it is understood that it stands behind the committee which is about to be appointed, and that the backing of the Exchange will be accorded to the utmost in any court action which may ensue. A demand put out yesterday by the Exchange was held by some to be a part of the plan for bringing about a [illegible] of all information on Stutz which could be of advantage to the committee representing the shorts. This was addressed to all Stock Exchange members by E. V. D. Cox, Secretary of the Exchange, and read as follows:

"I am instructed by the Committee on Business Conduct to notify you to furnish immediately to this office the following information in connection with your position in the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., at the close of business, April 7, 1920. How many shares long? How many shares short?"

At the Exchange this demand was characterized by one man as an endeavor to get fuller details as to both the long and short holdings of Stutz Motor Car stock, with the idea of determining whether there was a big short interest on the part of the operator. It was not admitted that the procedure had anything to do with the legal side of the controversy. However, the Exchange some days ago, just after the suspension of trading in Stutz, stated that the biggest short interest uncovered by an investigation carried on by the Business Conduct Committee was 700 shares. But the stories of a big operator being short of Stutz have persisted. The new investigation, it is understood, will be carried on very much more completely than was the initial proceeding, which showed that Allan A. Ryan controlled actual certificates for stock and contracts for delivery which were in excess of the total capital of the Stutz company.

The appointment of Mr. Morse to head the committee which will direct the shorts in their endeavor to escape from the toils brings the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, it is believed, directly into the fight. The Board of Governors of the association was not in session yesterday, but it is known that Mr. Morse was in consultation with a number of the Governors before consenting to serve as Chairman of the committee to represent the Stutz shorts.

It developed that almost at the same time that 200 shares of Stutz stock was bringing $701 a share at auction on Wednesday a client of one Stock Exchange house was selling Stutz at $300 a share. Part of this block was disposed of several days ago to Allan A. Ryan at this figure and the balance went in odd lots to some of the shorts, who were only too eager to grasp an opportunity to buy long stock wherewith to cover their commitments on the short side. It is understood that a number of the shorts are becoming nervous over the tense situation and would gladly cover if the stock could be obtained. Practically all long stock, however, has been disposed of by this time for short covering except that locked up with Allan A. Ryan & Co.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The First Trust and Savings Bank of Cleveland, the Youngstown Securities Company and Merrill, Lynch & Co. are offering part of an issue of Truscon Steel Company 7 per cent. preferred stock at par, $10 a share.

Halsey Stuart & Co. and the William R. Compton Company have announced the purchase of $2,150,000 Elder Steel Steamship Company, Inc., first mortgage 7 per cent. bonds, the $215,000 each year from Jan. 1, 1921, to 1930, inclusive. The bonds will soon be offered through a syndicate which is now being formed.

William A. Haines, formerly assistant cashier of the Citizens National Bank, has been elected a Vice President of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank.

The membership in the New York Cotton Exchange of F. W. Thomas of Chicago has been bought by Henry M. Peers for a client for $20,000. This price is unchanged from the last previous sale.

F. S. Washburn Charges War Department Bungled Nitrate Business.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Frank S. Washburn, President of the American Cyanamid Company, and its subsidiary, the Air Nitrate Corporation, which built the Muscle Shoals plant for the Government during the war, denied today before the Senate Agriculture Committee charges of "waste, dishonesty or extravagance" in connection with the construction or operation of the plant.

Had the Government operated the plant three years, he asserted, it would not only have saved a sum equal to the cost, $62,000,000, but would have made $20,000,000 additional.

The War Department was charged by the witness with bungling the nitrate business at every point, and wasting millions of dollars.

Winter Wheat Production.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Production of Winter wheat this year was forecast today at 483,617,000 bushels, and rye 75,841,000 bushels, by the Department of Agriculture, which based its estimate on the acreage planted last December, allowing for average acreage abandonment and assuming average influences until harvest.

Condition of Winter wheat April 1 was 75.6 and rye 86.8 per cent. of a normal.

March 29, 1920.

The Tiffin Products, Incorporated, First Mortgage 5½% Registered Certificates are secured by First Mortgage made by the Tiffin Products, Incorporated, and now held by the Prudence-Bonds Corporation.

The property covered by this mortgage is a plot of land containing 102,250 square feet on which is erected a five story concrete building fronting on Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, containing approximately 64,000 square feet of floor space.

The mortgage and all title papers are deposited with the Title Guarantee & Trust Company who hold the same for the equal pro rata benefit of all holders of these Certificates and who certify this fact on each certificate issued.

The earnings of the company are greatly in excess of the interest and amortization charges.

The Certificates are legal for trust funds and the payment of both principal and interest is guaranteed by endorsement by the Realty Associates Investment Corporation - backed by our entire resources.

Yours very truly,
Frank Bailey
President.

FB-B

In considering the features of this issue, it is important to take into account that these certificates offer elements of safety not found in ordinary conservative bond issues, for they are rapidly amortized by payments of principal, so that the security of the issue and the security of your investment, backed by a liberal equity in the first place, grow steadily stronger together, in a mutually cumulative accession of strength.

The unusually conservative features of the issue make it especially attractive for institutions, trustees, and others who desire an investment which is free from fluctuation, and guaranteed as to interest and principal.

You Cannot Afford to Get Less Than 6%

NO business man can afford to keep employes idle or working half time on full pay. Yet many fail to apply the same common-sense rule to their surplus dollars. They let their money lie idle or permit it to earn a low rate of interest.

You cannot afford to receive less than 6% on your invested funds. General experience shows that 6% is the highest rate consistent with real safety. After you make sure of safety, make sure of receiving 6%. The first-mortgage bonds, issued under the Straus Plan, will give you both—safety and 6%, with 4% Federal Income Tax paid.

You as an investor cannot afford to neglect investigating the Straus Plan. Our booklet, "Safety and 6%," shows in detail how it has protected investors from loss for 38 years. Call or write for it and ask for

MAY COTTON SELLS AT 41.75 CENTS

MARKET IS DOWN AT CLOSE

The cotton market was less active yesterday than on the two preceding days, but it was active enough to allow new high records to be scored in virtually the whole list. As a matter of fact, March of next year was the only month which did not sell higher than on earlier days of the week, and the May option established the new high record of 41.75c, while July sold above 39½c. These two were the features of the market.

Little of a news nature developed to change the situation. Advices from the South were as pessimistic as ever, and the private reports again laid great emphasis on the backwardness of the crop and the unfavorable labor situation. But these factors, for the time being, seem to have lost their power for bullish inspiration, and without the aggressive buying which turned up at one time yesterday it is doubtful if the extreme highs would have been scored.

In the active buying movement of the afternoon, both Liverpool and the Japanese agents participated, in addition to the local and trade buyers, and for a time there was a mad scramble for near contracts. Conservative observers around the ring and in the trade believe that the spot situation is highly precarious, and say they would not be surprised to see May sell well beyond the high record established by March at 43.18c.

At the start yesterday there was a reactionary tendency and, as on the day before, the market did not develop its greatest strength until after 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Then for a time it went up rapidly, but it fell back part way again before the close, so that at the end of the day only May and July showed net gains. The rest were down 10 to 20 points from Wednesday's closing.

Exports for the day totaled only 11,578 bales, making the total for the week, with one day still to be reported on, only 77,695 bales. This is less than was expected, and considerably less than in recent weeks, but the recovery in exchange is expected to aid exports next month and for the rest of the season.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
May	41.00	41.75	40.95	41.10@41.25	40.97
July	38.48	39.55	38.42	38.98@39.00	38.54

Exhibiting a billion-dollar work shop

The progressive enterprises that make possible this great showing are co-operating next week in the Brooklyn Industrial Exhibition.

Adequate financial service are part and parcel of the industrial growth signalized by this event.

If you will call at our Booth at the 23d Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, next week we shall be glad to talk over with you such banking or trust matters as may interest you.

It may be we can be

Colombia

Due to transportation conditions between its commercial centers, Colombia has always presented a difficult problem to the American exporter or importer interested in its trade development. As an instance of this, if an agent has been appointed in Bogota, the capital and largest city, it is difficult for him to act also as representative in Barranquilla, the largest port, since a journey of eight days separates the two cities.

In the handling of collections or other export trade transactions, the advantages of dealing with a bank having branches at all the important commercial points of Colombia will be readily appreciated by the exporter and his local agents. The Banco Mercantil Americano de Colombia, affiliated with the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, has branches in eleven of the most important commercial cities and is the only bank in Colombia which covers the country thoroughly.

Through its affiliate in Colombia, the Mercantile Bank of the Americas has the facilities to render excellent service to American firms transacting business in that country.

BURGLAR INSURANCE ADVANCE POSTPONED

Underwriters Reconsider Last Week's Decision to Boost Rates 25 to 35 Per Cent.

INCREASE TO COME LATER

Companies Collecting Statistics to Justify It—Losses Said to be Heavy.

Although burglary insurance underwriters last week announced increases in rates of twenty-five per cent. in New York and thirty-five per cent. in other designated places, they decided yesterday to postpone action. This action at a meeting of the Burglary Insurance Underwriters' Association in the Hotel McAlpin surprised policy holders, who have been advised recently that due to the number of burglaries, of heavy expense of indemnifying them for the loss of goods at current prices increased rates were necessary.

Officials of insurance companies who attended the meeting declined to discuss the reasons for the eleventh hour change and referred inquirers to the headquarters of the association, at 80 Maiden Lane, where the following statement was given out:

"The Burglary Insurance Underwriters' Association at a meeting held yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin decided to postpone the effective date of the increases in residence rates which were adopted at last week's meeting. No new date has been set, but it is understood that when the experience of the members which is now being compiled is ready for consideration increases by locality are a foregone conclusion."

The decision of the association last week to put into effect a new scale of rates was opposed by the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company of 100 William Street, which notified the thirty odd companies in the association that it purposed to stick to the old rates for the reason that they felt that the justification of the increases had not been established. The Aetna people took the position that the association should have deferred action until statistics had been submitted showing the extent of financial drain brought about by the increased cost of indemnifying and the failure of the police in New York and elsewhere to cope with crime. That they convinced the other companies was indicated by the statement given out by the association.

The underwriters were equally uncommunicative on a report that the claims against them for burglary insurance had been greater since the first of the year than ever before. None of them would deny the report. There is reason to believe that their reluctance is due to the fact that they hesitate to say anything that might be construed as criticism against the police. Last Fall, when the insurance men were known to be complaining among themselves of increase in burglaries, one of them admitted that the only reason they did not talk publicly on their feelings was because they had to work with the police.

FINDS GIRL SOUGHT 7 YEARS.

Merchant Obtains Grandchild's Custody, Requested by Dying Daughter.

After a seven-year hunt in this country and Europe Edward Robitzek, a wealthy coal merchant living at 1,018 East 163d Street, the Bronx, has obtained the custody of his 11-year-old granddaughter, Augusta Mildred Meyer, in fulfillment of his daughter's dying wish that her child make her home with him.

Mr. Robitzek's daughter, Rose, married Leopold Meyer in 1907 and separated from him shortly after her daughter was born. In a will on file in Bronx County she specified that her parents should have charge of her daughter, but her husband refused to carry out the provision. Seven years ago Mr. Robitzek obtained a court order granting him the custody of his grandchild, whereupon Meyer fled to Europe.

Two weeks ago Mr. Robitzek obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Mitchell of the Supreme Court ordering Mrs. Leah Meyer of 30 Park Avenue, mother of Leopold Meyer, to produce her grandchild in court. Mrs. Meyer protested her inability to comply with the writ, saying that all she knew was that the child was in a convent in Chicago.

Mr. Robitzek went to Chicago, accompanied by two deputy sheriffs armed with the seven-year-old writ, and found Meyer and his daughter. An agreement was reached whereby Mr. Robitzek promised to drop all legal proceedings against Meyer and his mother and to allow the daughter to visit her father.

SEES NO BIG RISE IN COAL.

Editor of Miners' Journal Says Workers Blocked the Profiteers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 8.—Coal prices will not soar as high as expected a few days ago, declared Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, in a statement issued from the international headquarters of the miners' organization here today. Reports and newspaper comment from all over the country, he said, justified his statement. Mr. Searles's statement follows:

"It was evident that a season of profiteering in coal prices was contemplated and that the profiteers purposed to tell the public the abnormal prices were due to the wage increase granted to the bituminous miners. The miners, however, made it clear to the public that the wage increase would not justify the proposed boost in prices.

"Then Attorney General Palmer corroborated the miners in a published interview in which he said that even if the entire amount of the wage increase was passed on to the public it could not amount to more than 40 cents a ton increase in the price of coal. He warned operators and dealers against attempts at profiteering and instructed United States District attorneys to look out for such cases.

"This has cleared the miners of the charge that they were responsible for the price boost and has had a tendency to put a stop to any reckless profiteering."

BROKERS' STEEL HOLDINGS.

Number of Outstanding Shares Decreases in First Quarter of 1920.

Brokers' holdings of United States Steel Corporation common stock decreased materially in the first 1920 quarter, while brokers' holdings of the preferred stock also were shown to be smaller at the end of March as compared with the preceding quarter. The total of the common shares held abroad also decreased, with Holland the most active seller of the stock. The total of Steel common stock which was purchased by investors during January, February and March was, roughly, 315,000 shares, while the total common liquidated by foreign holders was 20,850 shares.

On March 31, 1920, brokers held 1,700,500 shares of the common stock of the corporation, as compared with 2,015,635 on Dec. 31, 1919, and 2,110,514 on Sept. 30, 1919. Investors held, on March 31, 1920, 3,382,405 shares, as compared with 3,067,400 on Dec. 31, 1919, and 2,972,511 on Sept. 30, 1919.

England	165,220	160,387	160,175

10 KILLED IN JERUSALEM.

183 Wounded in Easter Riots, Including 3 British Officers.

LONDON, Friday, April 9.—It is reported that ten civilians were killed and 180 wounded, and that three British officers were wounded in the disturbances in Jerusalem, April 4, among the Jews, Moslems and Arabs, says a dispatch to The London Times from Cairo, dated April 7.

The dispatch says the exact cause of the trouble has not yet been ascertained. Other disturbances occurred April 6, when the town was packed with British troops. Early in the morning of April 6 Arabs tried to enter the Damascus gate, but were fired on. During further disturbances some houses were burned.

The dispatch adds that from the latest information, although there has been considerable effervescence in the Jerusalem district, the situation is well in hand.

Fish & Marvin sold for Mrs. Adelaide Norris her stucco residence on Highbrook Avenue at Pelham to a client for $25,000; also sold for Mrs. H. Huber Hoge her residence on Siwanoy Place at Pelham Manor to Charles P. Le Royer of the Shepherd Worsted Mills. The property was held at $18,000.

Prince & Ripley, Inc., sold for Mrs. Norman E. Webster the tapestry brick residence, on Palisade Avenue, River View Manor, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., to the Berth Realty Corporation.

R. Franklin Hull of White Plains has sold at Valhalla the estate known as Tantjeus property, including two houses and eighteen lots, to Mrs. Flora Pouslette-Dart of St. Paul, Minn.

Chauncey B. Griffen & Co. sold for W. S. Juten a large plot on the westerly side of Mamaroneck Road, White Plains, to Emil C. Beyer, who will improve the property with a dwelling.

The residence of Mrs. Louise Rudiman situated on Buena Vista Drive, Dobbs Ferry, has been sold to Mr. E. T. Monroe of New York City. George Howe, who negotiated the transaction, also sold for Victor Guinzburg his property consisting of a modern residence and 1½ acres of land on King Street, Chappaqua, to W. H. Horsfall of New York City who will occupy the property.

The Herkimer Company which is now completing a number of houses at Colonial Avenue and Wolfs Lane, Pelham Knolls, has sold one to Frederick A. Jones, for a reported price of $19,500. The buyer will occupy.

Off on Holidays; Up on Charges.

Because he refused to work on the Jewish holidays, April 2 and 3, Philip Appelbaum, a clerk in the New York Post Office, is up on charges of insubordination before the postal authorities here. Appelbaum at first decided to resign, but changed his mind and absented himself.

TENANT SYNDICATES BUYING APARTMENTS

BIG SALE IS PENDING

Negotiations Being Concluded for Purchase of Woodrow Court, a $600,000 Property.

One of the largest apartment houses on the upper west side is about to be taken over by a syndicate of tenants. Negotiations have practically been concluded for the sale of Woodrow Court, a six-story elevator building, occupying the entire block front on the east side of Broadway from 169th Street to 170th Street, recently built by Jacob Axelrod.

Woodrow Court, which occupies a plot 100 by 180, houses fifty-four families and contains eleven stores, which return an annual rental of $70,000. It has been held at $600,000 by the A. H. Investing Company, Michael Kaufman, President, which is selling the property.

It is interesting to note in connection with the deal that the fifteen tenants who have organized the buying syndicate do not at present occupy space in the building, but have apartments elsewhere. Their plan is to operate Woodrow Court on a basis whereby each holds a one-fifteenth interest. The income from the thirty-nine apartments and stores not used by members of the syndicate is expected to pay for the operation and maintenance of the building.

Mr. Kaufman's company sold on Tuesday the Vauxhall, at 780 Riverside Drive, northeast corner of 155th Street, to another tenants' syndicate, representing the present occupants of that house. The Vauxhall was held at $750,000.

Two other deals of similar character were featured in the day's business. The Morgenstern Brothers Syndicate sold to a tenants' syndicate the six-story apartment house at the northwest corner of Convent Avenue and 142d Street, on a plot fronting 100 feet on the avenue and 125 feet on the street. The structure contains accommodations for thirty-two families and was valued at $350,000. Frederick Seybold and John R. Davidson were the brokers in the deal. Negotiations are also pending for the sale of the adjoining house at the southwest corner of Convent Avenue and 143d Street, owned by the same sellers, to a group of tenants.

The Morgenstern Brothers Syndicate also sold to a number of the tenants the six-story elevator apartment house known as the Biltmore Court, at the northeast corner of Grand Boulevard and Concourse and Bush Street, on a plot 100 by 100, and held at $225,000. The house is arranged for thirty-six families and will be conducted by the new owners on a co-operative basis. S. Gerlich was the broker in the sale.

There were a number of deals closed yesterday involving moderate-priced apartment houses in the downtown neighborhoods.

Victor Freund & Son, Inc., sold for William C. Strange to Frederick J. Shalck the two five-story apartment houses, on plots 53.6 by 100.5, at 151 and 153 East Fiftieth Street. This property has been held at $75,000.

M. L. & C. Ernst sold 407 West Fifty-sixth Street, a five-story flat, on a lot 25 by 102, to Walter S. and Samuella Cameron. The sale was negotiated through A. H. Bancker.

Charles R. Faruolo sold the six-story new-law tenement at 2,041 First Avenue for the estate of Louisa M. Gebhard, represented by the office of Scott, Gerard & Bowers, to an Italian investor.

John Finck sold for Cornelia Fredericks the four-story tenement at 1,481 Park Avenue, northeast corner of 108th Street, on a plot 27 by 74, to an investor.

J. Edgar Leaycraft & Co. sold for Winthrop Chanler to an investor the five-story tenement at 419 Third Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100.

John Finck sold the five-story apartment house at 514 West 134th Street, on a plot 40 by 100, held at $52,000. It returns an annual rental of about $6,000.

BUSINESS MEN BUY.

Close Deals for Downtown Mercantile Holdings.

Business men figured as purchasers in a number of important deals yesterday. The Goldberg Brothers Company, which bought the five-story mercantile building at 18 West Twenty-third Street, 20 by 98.9, at auction last month for $78,500 has resold it at a substantial profit, to Charles H. Hall, of Springfield, Mass., a dealer in novelties, whose New York office is at 200 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Hall will use the property in connection with his business. Horace S. Ely and Company negotiated the transaction.

Two eight-story loft buildings in the Washington Square section and a three-story warehouse in the Gansevoort Market district, were purchased by investors, through L. Tannenbaum Strauss & Co. For Samuel L. Goldenberg and others these brokers sold to I. and B. Cohen & Bomson, tenants, 18 Washington Place, southwest corner of Greene Street, an eight-story loft on plot 90 by 96.3; also for the 17 West Fourth Street Company, a similar property on a plot 71.6 by 96.3, at 15 and 19 West Fourth Street, northwest corner of Mercer Street.

The third sale involved the new three-story structure, on a plot 66 by 80, at 349 to 353 West Twelfth Street, which Richard H. Tobin purchased from the estate of Stephen F. Shortland.

Frederick Brown resold to F. Ghis, a hardware dealer, the five-story building at 50 Vesey Street, on a lot 24 by 100, near West Broadway, which the new owner will alter for his business. He occupies 60 Vesey Street at present. Mr. Brown recently sold 46 and 48 Vesey Street to buyers for occupancy. Daniel Birdsall & Co. were the brokers in the sale of 50.

John Finck sold for the Kleinberg Corporation the seven-story loft building 127-129 Prince Street, northwest corner Wooster Street, 40 by 95 by irregular, and a yearly rental of $21,000. It was held at $100,000. Mr. Finck also sold the seven-story loft 39 Great Jones Street, 27 by 100, renting for about $9,000 and held at $75,000; also the seven-story loft 484 Cherry Street, northwest corner Corlears Street.

The Wm. S. Anderson Company and E. A. Turner, Inc., sold the four-story dwelling 111 East Twenty-eighth Street to the F. L. S. Buffet Lunch, Inc.

$250,000 Harlem Deal.

Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum and Fisher and Irving I. Lewine have purchased from the Guardian Holding Company the two seven-story elevator apartment houses at 2,002 to 2,008 Fifth Avenue, southwest corner of 125th Street, on a plot fronting 99.11 feet on the avenue and 110 feet on the street. The houses contain accommodations for thirty-five families and have several stores. The property was held at $250,000. The sale was negotiated by the Brown-Wheelock Company.

On Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff sold for George St. John Sheffield two lots of the Sheffield tract on Bement Avenue, West New Brighton, to a client who will improve with a dwelling.

Mofatt & Schwab of Tompkinsville sold for Henry Hyams his house at 50 Ward Avenue, Tompkinsville, to Myra H. Baldwin. The plot is 100 by 200. This house is immediately opposite the home of Lewis Nixon.

STRONG DWELLING DEMAND.

Negotiations are pending and probably will not be concluded before the 20th of the month for the sale of the five-story American basement dwelling at 3 East Seventy-fifth Street, on a plot 50 by 100, by Stuart Duncan, who is said to value it at $750,000. The structure adjoins the Harkness residence at the north corner of Fifth Avenue. It has a large squash court and was erected by Mr. Duncan about fifteen years ago. The prospective buyer is a client of the Brown-Wheelock Company, Inc.

Worthington Whitehouse, Inc., sold for the estate of Henry Dormitzer 27 East Seventy-fourth Street, a four-story house, 25 by 102.2, to a New York lawyer, who will occupy as his residence. This is the first transfer of the property in forty-seven years. It was held at $100,000.

Pease & Elliman sold for Mrs. Jessica D. Catherwood and George D. Davis of Philadelphia, who were represented by Hunt, Hill & Betts as attorneys, to a well-known banker for occupancy, the five-story American basement dwelling at 123 East Fifty-sixth Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, now occupied by Herbert N. Harriman.

SCUDDER SCHOOL BUYS.

Plans Twelve-Story Home on West Side Plot.

The Scudder School, Inc., Dr. Myron T. Scudder President, has purchased from Mrs. Walter Geer the three houses at 244, 246 and 248 West Seventy-second Street and the two houses in the rear, at 251 and 253 West Seventy-first Street. The entire property has a frontage of 60 feet on the Seventy-second Street side and 33.4 feet on Seventy-first Street, and is 204 feet deep. There were no brokers in the transaction, and the terms of the sale have not been disclosed.

The portion of this property fronting on Seventy-second Street, consisting of the brown-stone double house at 244-6, which was for many years the city residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geer, has been leased to the school during the past three years, together with, for the past year, the adjoining house at 248. By this sale the school has not only acquired the two much needed buildings on Seventy-first Street, but provides for itself a permanent site, with five buildings.

It is the intention of the Scudder School eventually to erect a modern 12-story fireproof building for its sole occupancy. The building will have accommodations for upward of 200 boarding students and 200 additional day students, and will be equipped with reception and class rooms, studios, administration offices, gymnasium and swimming pool and an assembly hall with pipe organ and with stage fitted out in theatre style for dramatics, entertainments and concerts.

Long Island Buyers.

Wheatley Hills Real Estate Corporation sold the E. A. Bogart estate farmhouse, together with six acres of land and outbuildings, on the east side of the Cedarswamp Road, half way between Glen Head and the Piping Rock Club, to a purchaser who will remodel the house for his country home. The property is just north of the home of Alan L. Corey.

Clinton Trading Corporation sold to William Kinder the one-family dwelling at 4,733 Hawtree Avenue, Glen Morris, on a plot 60 by 100. George H. Shock was the broker.

Plan $1,750,000 Building.

Plans have been filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings for the construction of a twelve-story office building on the east side of Washington Street, to occupy the whole front between Carlisle and Albany Streets, for the Curb Holding Company, Lyman D. Crear President. It will be a fireproof structure, with a frontage of 117 feet on Washington Street, 134.9 feet on Carlisle Street, and 135.10 feet on Albany Street. Frank S. Parker, the architect, has estimated the cost, at $1,750,000.

Queens Borough Transactions.

Benjamin Goldstein, who has been living in Toledo, Ohio, purchased through Ira L. Terry a two-family dwelling at 60 Prospect Avenue, Flushing, which was owned by the J. C. Gaffney Construction Company. The same agency also sold for Alfred J. Tooker to Karl Kleinhaus property at 145 South Twenty-second Street, Flushing, including a double store and apartments.

Architects Acquire Building.

The three-story dwelling at 134 East Forty-fourth Street, near Lexington Avenue, has been purchased by Holmes & Winslow, architects, who will remodel it for their offices. It occupies a lot 20 by 100, and was purchased from a client of the Brown-Wheelock Company.

OFFICE BUILDING TO REPLACE DWELLINGS

FOR AN 84-YEAR TERM

Rental for Period Will Approximate $1,600,000—New Building to Cost About $400,000.

A tall business building is to replace a group of old-fashioned private houses in West Fifty-second Street, near Broadway, as a result of a transaction closed yesterday by John H. Scheier, the architect, who has been prominently identified with a number of important transactions in this section within recent weeks.

Mr. Scheier has leased from Leon and Maurice Alland the three four-story buildings at 228, 230 and 232 West Fifty-second Street, 104 feet west of Broadway, forming a plot with a frontage of 55 feet, a depth of 118 feet and a rear line of 60 feet, adjoining the old Hotel Albany property, which occupies the entire block front on the west side of Broadway, from Fifty-first to Fifty-second Streets. The lease is for a term of eighty-four years, and will involve a rental of approximately $1,600,000. Mr. Scheier will erect on the site a modern eight-story store and office building, at a cost which will probably reach $400,000, so that the deal in its entirety will eventually represent an investment of about $2,000,000. The broker in the deal was J. B. English.

The property just acquired is opposite the large plot, running through from Fifty-second to Fifty-third Street, which was acquired last week by the Dalin Realty Company, which will improve it, according to report, with a million-dollar skating rink. The new rink will be operated by the interests which now control Iceland, at Broadway and Fifty-third Street.

Mr. Scheier recently leased the two six-story elevator buildings at 242 to 246 West Forty-seventh Street, for a term of thirty years and renewals, at a rental approximating $2,000,000, and is now completely renovating these properties into modern business structures. Last week he bought the business building at 240 West Fifty-fifth Street and the seven-story Kenwood apartment house, at 236 and 238 West Fifty-fifth Street, which is to be reconstructed into a modern office building for the special use of the automobile trade.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Home Seekers Continue to Buy Private Houses.

The Silk Realty Co. sold the three-story dwelling, 50 Rogers Avenue, near St. Marks Avenue, for Mrs. Esther Bonner, to a client for occupancy. The property was held at $9,000.

George R. Read & Co. sold for Mrs. Alice H. Morgan the dwelling, 7 Pierrepont Street, to the Misses Clara and Edna Scribner.

Bulkley & Horton Co. sold 171 Hall Street, a three-story one-family dwelling, lot 16.8 by 100, for Helen F. Lewis, to a client for occupancy.

I. Salzberg sold for S. Neather to H. Joseffer the two-family cottage on the plot 37.6 by 80 at 1,518 Fifty-third Street.

Harry M. Lewis sold for Frederick Ritterbusch, Jr., the two three-story three-family dwellings, 1,109 and 1,115 Herkimer Street, near Saratoga Avenue, to a client for investment.

Meister Builders, Inc., sold to clients of A. Ruvolo for investment, 423 and 425 Wythe Avenue, two four-story flats on a plot 38.6 by 60.

PLAN NEW POST OFFICE.

$2,000,000 Operation on East Twenty-third Street.

Details regarding the proposed building on East Twenty-third Street, which is to house the Madison Square branch postoffice were given out yesterday by F. A. Wyckoff of the Wood, Dolson Company, Inc., who, in conjunction with John Hill, arranged the deal. The site involves the property at 122 to 126 East Twenty-third Street and 121-125 East Twenty-second Street, abutting, two five-story buildings, on a plot fronting 75 feet on each street and being 200 feet in depth. The property has been resold by these brokers for the Partos Realty Corporation, Nicholas C. Partos President, to F. C. Buckhout, who will erect on the site a four-story building, which has been leased to the Government for a term of ten years. The entire operation will involve about $2,000,000.

The Madison Square branch is at present housed in the Metropolitan Life Building and the new home is expected to be completed by next September. Mr. Partos bought the property last July through the Wood, Dolson Company and S. D. Cooper, and originally planned to put up the building himself for the post-office.

BUILDING SHOWS GAIN.

March Figures Almost Double Those of Previous Month.

Despite the fact that there has been much talk of construction being held up on account of high prices, high wages and shortage of material, the total amount of contracts awarded during March in the territory east of the Missouri and north of the Ohio rivers, according to statistics compiled by the F. W. Dodge Company, showed a great increase over the figures of January and February, and was, in fact, greater than the figure for any month in 1919. The total amount for March was $327,897,000, as against $235,848,000 for January, and $216,663,000 for February.

These figures give $780,408,000 as the total for the first quarter of 1920. Normally the first three months of the year account for about 20 per cent. of the years total of work started. In the first quarter of 1919 contracts awarded amounted to $275,555,000.

In New York State and Northern New Jersey contract awards in March amounted to $66,623,000, compared with $79,570,000 in January, and $36,375,000 in February. The temporary slump in February doubtless reflected the unfavorable conditions of the weather and in the labor and material markets.

The total of contracts awarded for the first quarter amounted to $182,568,000, as against $50,208,000 for the first quarter of 1919. In the figures for the first three months of 1920 were included $62,308,000, or 34 per cent., for industrial buildings, $39,513,000, or 22 per cent., for public works and utilities, $33,285,000, or 18 per cent., for business buildings, and $25,174,000, or 14 per cent., for residential buildings. The low figure for the residential group is a matter of serious concern, as it is probable that the housing shortage is more acute in this territory than anywhere else.

Contemplated projects amounting to $303,270,000 were reported in the first three months, the total including $77,4,000 for public works and utilities, $74,153,000 for residential buildings, $63,075,000 for business buildings and $56,142,000 for industrial buildings.

East 53d Street Sales.

The two dwellings at 3 and 5 East Fifty-third Street, on a plot 44 by 100, have been sold by the William S. Pyle estate to Senior Allen, investor, through the Cross & Brown Company. This is the fourth recent sale of properties surroundings the Charles Building, at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street. The Charles Building, 25 by 100, is adjoined on the north by the Untermyer house, 25 by 100, which recently was acquired by Hicks, the fruiterer. Adjoining on the north, on Fifth Avenue, is the Brice Building, 50 by 100, which was taken over recently by Cammeyer. No. 1 East Fifty-third Street was sold a short time ago to an operator, who, it is understood, will alter the building.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET A FINE HOME CHEAP

My family, which was a large one, has reduced itself to my wife, myself and the servants. I have bought a smaller property in my immediate vicinity which meets my present requirements and desire to sell my large home. To do so quickly I am offering it at a fraction of its real value to some one of culture and refinement who would be acceptable to my neighbors and myself. The grounds, which include an excellent tennis court, were beautifully landscaped by a prominent architect several years ago and elaborately planted with flowers and shrubs. Fine trees abound. The house is a gem, in absolutely perfect condition from cellar to attic. The purchaser could move in on 24 hours' notice and avoid the many annoyances and expense incident to occupying a new house. The first floor consists of a huge veranda facing east, a panelled living room 35 ft. long with immense inglenook fireplace, a spacious dining room, a tiled breakfast room, two butler's pantries and kitchen. Six master bedrooms, one with open fireplace, and two very large tiled bath rooms comprise the second floor. The third floor has a pool and billiard room, extensive servants' quarters and servants' bath. The location is ideal, within five minutes' walk of the R. R. express station, with fine commuting service to New York City. The neighborhood is exclusively residential and occupied by an unusually fine class of people. Elevation over 900 ft. All city conveniences for comfortable living in the country prevail. I will sell this property complete, ready for immediate occupancy, for $6,000 cash, second mortgage $5,000, first mortgage $10,000. Complete details, including plans and several pictures, can be obtained from the writer by addressing Business, P. O. Box 378, City Hall Station, New York City.

ALASKA

This year make your long-dreamed-of trip to the Midnight Sun come true.

One thousand miles of wonder. Snow peaked mountain ranges tumbling down into the sea—rivers spume-plumed dashing over bare cliffs—fjords as grand as any in Norway—mighty bays—winding straits—narrow gorges, glaciers miles wide reaching back up to Heaven—islands that stretch a pine crested barrier between you and the Pacific. All seen from the comfortable Canadian Pacific "Princess" steamers connecting at Vancouver with the transcontinental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway over the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Then the mysterious North of the Midnight Sun and the gold-seeker, of totem poles, Indian villages and a riot of flowers.

Could you have a more wonderful vacation? For full details call or write

CURRAN COMPARES BOARD TO PORCUPINE

QUOTES THEIR REMARKS

Declares Craig Said "I Wouldn't Spend a Damn Cent on Board of Education."

Comparing the Board of Estimate to a porcupine which "eats the bark off the educational tree by night and shoots its quills into the Board of Education by day," Henry H. Curran, President of Manhattan and a member of the board, told some of his troubles last night at the annual meeting of the Citizens Union at the Bush Terminal Auditorium, 130 West Forty-second Street.

Mr. Curran was down for a talk about "the reconstructed Board of Estimate." He denied that the board had been reconstructed, as the majority is the same as it has been for the last two years, but he said he had helped in the reconstruction of the majority's steam roller. The machine, he said, had to do its rolling under the minority's searchlight, but he had a look at it as it went over him. The board, said Mr. Curran, is distinctly destructive and reminded him of the porcupine or hedgehog, a description of which, quoted from the dictionary, is as follows:

> Porcupine or hedgehog—A rodent having the course hair thickly interspersed with quills, used for defense. Under normal conditions its quills lie close to the body, but when the animal becomes enraged, or excited, they are raised and sometimes shaken out. It stays in its burrow by day and hunts at night for its food. It is usually quite peaceable, but shows no tendency to become domestic. Its food consists of fruit, corn and bark and its flesh is not palatable.

Mr. Curran continued his simile as follows:

"For instance, the board eats the bark off the educational tree by night and shoots its quills into the Board of Education by day. The whole purpose seems to be to confound the Board of Education, instead of building schools and paying school teachers enough so that they can continue to teach and, at the same time, live. The sum of $15,000,000 was appropriated for school buildings, but Controller Craig, out of his own wisdom, rejects the Board of Education's building program. Not a dollar of those $15,000,000 has been used for a new school because of the Controller's quarrel with the Board of Education. On last Monday, April 5, Mr. Craig, at a meeting of the Committee on Finance, said, with regard to necessary repairs to the hall of the Board of Education:

"I told the Controller that his remark summed up the whole matter, to which he replied:

"'If you're going to quote me, I will amend it to not a damn cent.'

"These are the quills, and the bark is nearly all off the school tree. The children who are taught have to go on part time, or double session, for lack of schoolhouses. A goodly portion of the rest are sent home every morning because there are no teachers for them. Over a thousand teachers resigned last year because they could not live on their salaries, and while the teachers resign and the children go home, the Mayor and the Controller give daily statements to the newspapers, telling why they oppose the teachers' salary bill at Albany.

"Like the porcupine, the Board of Estimate likes the dark. The majority opposed the bill which the Legislature has now passed and which is before the Mayor, which opens up the preparation of the budget so that everybody may know what is going on. When I asked the Board to approve the bill and told them that the bill was favored by the Citizens Union the majority brust into a happy chorus of 'No.'

"I tried to amend the rules of the Board so that all matters before them must be in the Secretary's office two days before consideration, and open in that office to inspection by the public. Commissioner Flynn inquired in whose interest I had offered the amendment, to which I answered, 'The Public.'

"'Well, if it is only the public that is concerned,' he said, 'I do not see why we should bother about it.'

"The amendment was rejected. Meanwhile the Controller was in Albany trying to get a bill through which would require the consent of the Mayor and himself, who have six votes out of the sixteen in the board, for the passage of any measure by the board. This attempt to make six a majority of sixteen has not yet succeeded."

Mr. Curran then told how he was mending the holes in the pavement of the city. He said he began the work when the Mayor returned from Palm Beach and cleaned the snow off the streets "a week or two ago."

At its meeting the Citizens Union reelected all its present officers.

NIXON FOR PRESIDENT, CRY TRACTION WORKERS

Apparently without his knowledge, Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon became the "motormen's and conductors'" candidate for President last night. Mr. Nixon was placed in nomination for the Presidency at a meeting in the New Star Casino, 107th Street and Lexington Avenue, which was called by P. J. Connelly, President of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes. The hall was filled, 5,000 being present. About 3,000 of these were said to be Interborough employes, the remaining 2,000 being made up of employes of the New York Railways Company, the Third Avenue Railway, the Yonkers Railway and the Public Service Corporation of Newark, N. J.

Mr. Nixon was lauded as the friend of the workingman, both as a private employer and as a public official. Reference was made to his success in adjusting differences between the Manhattan and Brooklyn transit employes and their employers, by which, although no reference was made to it, the employes received substantial increases in pay.

Resolutions, reviewing Mr. Nixon's career from the time of his appointment to the United States Naval Academy to the present, were adopted. Stripped of a lengthy preamble, they were:

"We members of organized labor in the city of New York and vicinity, assembled in meeting to discuss the merits of various candidates, declare it to be our belief that the record of Lewis Nixon as a patriot, diplomat, constructive builder and an expert in international afafirs eminently fit him to lead the country out of the present uncertainty and doubt, the paths of which lead into despair, into the sunlight of prosperity.

"We urge upon all meetings and conventions that the name of Lewis Nixon be given full consideration when candidates for President are put forward, and we believe that the working and thinking people of the country will demand men of his character and attainments in public office in these trying times, and that an employer of labor, here and abroad, who enjoyed the confidence of his workers deserves earnest consideration."

Many attended the meeting in the belief that it was called for the purpose of considering demands for a further 25 per cent. increase in pay, and some dissatisfaction was expressed when it became apparent that the indorsement of Mr. Nixon was its only purpose.

Commissioner Nixon returned early this morning from a trip to Washington. He said he had had no advance knowledge of the intention of the street railway employes to indorse him for President, but said he was glad he had won their good-will.

TAR-HEEL DEMOCRATS ADOPT SUFFRAGE PLANK

RALEIGH, N. C., April 8.—A platform plank recommending ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Legislature which meets in July was adopted today by the North Carolina Democratic Convention, 585 to 428.

The plank was a substitute for the Platform Committee's proposal that the Legislature be asked to defeat the amendment and submit the issue to the people at the polls.

Senator Furnifold M. Simmons was named by the convention as North Carolina's "favorite son," and his name will be entered in the June primaries.

Delegates at large elected to the National Convention were: J. C. Carr of Wilmington, Wade H. Harris of Charlotte, Julian S. Carr of Durham and Thomas D. Warren of Newbern.

Mrs. John S. Cunningham of Charlotte was named as honorary delegate, but without voting power.

SEND SHARP NOTE TO SOVIET

Poles Object to Lack of Seriousness in Bolshevist Communications.

WARSAW, April 7.—Poland awaits a reply from the Russian Bolshevist Government relative to the proposed peace conference between the two countries, and believes further exchanges of notes concerning an armistice and the place where the conference will meet are useless, said a wireless message sent to Moscow by M. Patek, Polish Foreign Minister, today. This note may be the last relative to peace negotiations with the Bolsheviki to be sent by Poland, it is said.

"Some phrases of the Soviet Government's last wireless dispatch," said M. Patek's note, "compel me to point out that the use of sentences which are not of sufficient seriousness can make difficult, and even impossible, peace negotiations."

Moscow was informed by the Foreign Minister that, owing to the fact that Soviet notes were not received in time, it would be impossible to begin the proposed negotiations before April 17, even if both sides should agree.
